Russia Gets U.S. Atom Plan

M'Carthy Says Adlai Used Commie Tactics

Indicts Demos For 20 Years "Of Treason"

Replies To Charges Despite A Severe Case Of Laryngitis

MILWAUKEE, March 19 (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) accused Adlai Stevenson tonight of using "the Communist method of attacking" him and the Republican party.

He also indicted the Democratic party for what he called "twenty years of treason—twenty deeds of betrayal." The deeds ranged from U.S. recognition of Russia in 1933 handling of the Korean War.

As he ticked off each of the "indictments", McCarthy called on Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, to "plead guilty or not guilty."

Stevenson, in a speech to a Democratic gathering in Miami on March 6, lashed out at McCarthy and charged that the Republican party was "divided against itself, half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

Has Laryngitis

McCarthy immediately accused Stevenson of a "vicious" attack on him personally and made his reply tonight in an address to the Milwaukee County Young Republican Club. He went on with his speech even though he had been confined to his bed earlier in the day by a severe case of laryngitis.

McCarthy said that "fortunately, the American people, with their sure instinct for what is right", voted against Stevenson and the Democratic party in 1952 and instead gave victory to the Republicans.

"For only Republican leadership could have torn aside the curtain of silence and concealment to reveal the depths to which our nation had fallen," the senator said.

At one point in his prepared text, after what he called efforts to tie the hands of his Senate Investigations subcommittee by changing its rules of procedure, McCarthy said:

"During these days when the abuse and imprecations reach a new crescendo I very greatly miss the moral support which I so long received from that tower of integrity and strength in the Republican party who no longer is with us—Sen. Robert A. Taft—no chameleon was he."

Taft, who was defeated by Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination in 1952, died last year. Before his death he served in the newly elected GOP Congress as the Senate majority leader.

Quotes From Report

He quoted from passages in the Communist report which stated that "The struggle against McCarthyism is objectively a struggle against the policies of the Republican organization."

Then he asked:

"Does that sound familiar?"

"Did you hear it over the air the other night from the Democratic rally which was addressed by Adlai in Florida?

"No, you are wrong, you did not. While the meaning is the same this is not the exact language used by Adlai. This is a verbatim quote from a report delivered at the national conference of the Communist party."

Earlier, Sen. McCarthy said in an interview before his address that there is no question that President Eisenhower is the leader of the Republican party.

Danny And His Dog

Danny Pratt, lost in the woods near his home at Palmyra, Ill., for nearly eight hours was found by a party of searchers as his dog, Corksy, was lying on top of him trying to keep warm and dry as the lad was soaked by rain. Danny was bruised under his left eye and was taken to a hospital where examination revealed no serious injury.

Germans Ratify Creation Of Big Defense Force

BONN, Germany, March 19 (AP)—Disarmed West Germany today approved the creation of a 500,000-man defense force to serve in the proposed European army.

Despite rumblings of opposition in France, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's forces pushed through parliament constitutional amendments authorizing the nation to rearm, draft men over 18 and join the six-nation European army.

The Bundesrat, which corresponds to the U. S. Senate, gave final parliamentary approval to the amendments with 26 of its 38 votes.

They were approved by the popularly elected Bundestag — lower House of Parliament — Feb. 26.

This decision brings one step nearer the integration of West Germany with Western Europe in a European Defense Community. This is one of the cornerstones of American policy in Europe.

But not a single German soldier can be armed until the EDC treaty is ratified by all six member nations. Only Belgium and the Netherlands have completed ratification. The French, Italian and Luxembourg Parliaments have yet to vote.

The West German Parliament has approved the EDC treaty but President Theodor Heuss declined to sign the ratification papers until the legality of rearmament is assured.

This is the purpose of the constitutional amendments voted today. It insures clear authority for Adenauer's government to rearm once the European army is finally approved.

Stevens Gets Pat On Back From Gen. Ridgway, Called "High-Principled" Official

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stevens, approaching a showdown fight with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), got a pat on the back today from the Army's chief of staff, who called him a "high-principled" public official.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, addressing the National Press Club, said the Army is proud of its secretary and the country will share that pride "when the full story of unfolding events becomes known."

Next week McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee is expected to open an extraordinary hearing to determine whether the senator or the secretary is right in the multitude of charges and countercharges they have hurled at each other.

Officers Are "Targets"

Stevens himself, in a speech prepared for delivery in Charleston, S. C., today, remarked "It is deplorable that the Army . . . and especially its senior officers, should too often be the target for irresponsible criticism."

Neither Stevens nor Ridgway mentioned McCarthy's name, but the secretary's statement apparently referred to one phase of his fight with the Wisconsin senator—a charge that McCarthy abused and humiliated Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker in questioning him about alleged "Communist coddling" in the Army. McCarthy has denied the charge.

In addition to Ridgway, Stevens has another supporter at the Pentagon—Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Wilson testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee that:

Regarded As "Truthful"

1. He "certainly would" regard as truthful an Army report put out by Stevens and Army General Counsel John G. Adams that McCarthy and Roy Cohn, chief counsel of the Senate subcommittee, applied pressure to get preferential treatment for draftee G. David Schine. Schine is a wealthy young New Yorker who formerly worked on the subcommittee staff and is a pal of Cohn's. McCarthy and Cohn have denied that favors were demanded.

2. In his view, McCarthy's countercharge that the Army tried to divert the Red investigation from the Army to other branches of the military service "was never a proper one." McCarthy aides have also charged that the Army was using Schine as a "hostage" in its relations with the Senate investigators.

Army Jet Flier Collapses, Dies

DAYTON, Ohio, March 19 (AP) — An Army captain who lost consciousness and sent a jet trainer into a fast roll at 42,000 feet today has died, Wright Patterson Air Force Base announced.

Identification of the 280-pound officer was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

He was a passenger in a T33 jet trainer being flown from Langley Air Force Base, Va., to Chicago by Air Force Capt. Walter Davis.

Davis said about 10 miles from Dayton the plane "seemed to shoot out from under me" and went into a roll.

He said he shouted into the intercom and received no answer, then looked back and saw his rear-cockpit passenger had lost consciousness and fallen into the controls.

Davis fought the plane down to a safe landing by juggling the controls. It took him 40 minutes.

He could get his passenger clear of the controls, he said, by bringing the plane's nose up. But whenever he put the plane into a glide again to bring it down, the Army captain would fall into the controls again.

Ambulances, fire trucks and crash units waited while Davis landed. He said six men were needed to get the Army officer, still unconscious, out of the plane.

Cause of the officer's death was not immediately known.

Mild Winter Nearing End

[By The Associated Press]

A March storm began blowing itself out in the Midwest Friday as one of the nation's generally mildest winters in years neared an end.

The storm left two dead and an estimated 16 million dollars worth of crop damage in the Great Plains. It lost vigor on its eastward journey but caused a mixture of snow and rain in the Midwest.

A survey of weather bureau records across the nation showed that winter was warmer than normal over most of the nation, with some areas enjoying near record high average temperatures.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it is adding 1,141 more enforcement officers for an intensified drive to collect more than three billion dollars in overdue taxes.

Kidnapper Wounds Teacher, Flees Without His Victim

PORTLAND, Ore., March 19 (AP)—A trembling man tried and failed today to kidnap a little boy from school but he wounded one male teacher and put a bullet through a door that women teachers were bracing against him.

He fled and all detectives in the city were put on the chase.

The teacher who was wounded, Manvel Schauffler, suffered only a shattered finger and a head bump.

The boy who was the object of the attempt, George F. Brice III, 9, son of a wealthy realtor, didn't know about it until it was all over and he was called to the principal's office at Catlin-Hillside, a private school in the city's Northwest Hills.

The would-be kidnapper had gone to the Brice home, thinking this was a school holiday, then forced Mrs. Brice and the family maid, Lizzie Mae Brown, to drive him to the school.

Mrs. Brice said he seemed drunk or drugged and was trembling. He held a .32 pistol on the women from the time he forced his way into the home when the maid answered the doorbell.

But at the school he let Mrs. Brice go in alone when she assured him that no child is allowed to leave during school hours unless called for by a parent.

Then he left the maid in the car and started after Mrs. Brice. But by the time he got there, she had warned officials and Principal James Angell was phoning for police.

Mrs. Brice said when the man entered her home he first said his "boss" wanted $300,000 then said the boy would be sent home in a taxi at night if $125,000 were paid.

Israeli Asks End To Jordan Dispute

JERUSALEM, March 19 (AP)—The Israeli government in a statement tonight demanded that Jordan take "drastic measures to put an end to the intolerable situation" and asked the United Nations to "call Jordan to task" for an ambush in which 11 Jews were killed.

In a threatening tone, the statement declared "no government can remain passive in the face of so brazen an onslaught."

18 Believed Dead In Plane Crash In Arundel County

Police Say Bodies Scattered Around Military Aircraft

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19 (AP)—A huge Air Force cargo plane with 18 persons aboard crashed in flames in a rain-drenched forest near here tonight, and first reports said all had perished.

Volunteer firemen reported from the scene at least 15 bodies had been found within a 10-acre area over which the wreckage was scattered.

"The fierce fire" prevented them from getting close enough to find other victims, they added.

They said fire had spread to surrounding timber and brush but was under control.

The plane, identified by the Air Force as a twin-engine C119, went down about 19 miles south of Annapolis about half a mile off Maryland Route 2. The highway is a main artery leading from Baltimore, which lies about 50 miles north.

A spokesman at Bolling Air Force Base, just outside Washington, said the plane had 12 passengers and six crewmen when it took off there at 10:12 p.m.

The craft was en route to Mitchell Field, N.Y., on a routine flight from Oklahoma and had stopped at Bolling to refuel, he said.

Police said the crash occurred near the grounds of the southern Maryland high school, about 12 miles from Annapolis on the farm owned by a man identified as Josh Paddy.

Italians Move To Plug Reds' Trade Channels

ROME, March 19 (AP)—Italy took steps today to plug trade channels through which Soviet Russia sends an estimated 50 million dollars annually into Italy to spread communism.

The move followed a crackdown on communism ordered by Premier Mario Scelba after a Cabinet meeting yesterday. Informed sources said the order came after a year in which Communist party membership had increased about 180,000 to over two million, making the Italian party the largest outside the Iron Curtain.

Fifty million dollars is approximately 40 times the $1,300,000 budget which the U. S. Information Agency has to tell the American side of the story here.

Scelba's government will keep a close watch on the civil service, which is honeycombed with Communists and sympathizers. Strong action will be taken against anyone conducting leftist activities during working hours or using government facilities such as office telephones. Cultural missions spreading Communist propaganda will be curtailed. This may mean ending cultural agreements with some nations.

But most important will be restrictions on the East-West trading organizations set up to funnel money from behind the Iron Curtain into Italy. Qualified informants gave this picture:

Trade with Eastern Europe is made a virtual monopoly for favored companies by the Iron Curtain countries. These companies are secretly controlled by the Italian Communist party.

Through them the Communists receive about 50 million dollars annually from international communism.

That compares with about 80 million direct aid to Italy given by the U. S. last year. But the American aid is issued almost exclusively in building dams and roads, for agricultural improvements and the like.

Scelba's pro-Western government struck at a moment when a series of Communist-exploited scandals have given the political initiative to the extremist parties.

LaSalle Wins, 69-54

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP) — Bradley's fighting Braves and the explorers from LaSalle tonight moved into the finals of the National Collegiate basketball championship. The Braves came out ahead of Southern California 74-72 in a rousing duel decided in the final minutes. LaSalle waltzed in 69-54 over a Penn State team that couldn't have been colder outdoors in Alaska.

Senate Finance Unit Votes Cut In Excise Taxes

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Despite an administration plea that "We need the money to pay our bills," the Senate Finance Committee voted today to slash excise taxes by about 962 million dollars.

This cut would be 50 million dollars greater than the 912 million reduction already voted by the House.

Most of the extra cut would be achieved by wiping out all admission taxes on movie tickets costing less than 60 cents. The House had cut the tax on these and other entertainment admissions from 20 to 10 per cent, but had refused to make the lower-priced tickets completely tax-exempt, as the Senate group did.

Dampens House Victory

The committee action dampened somewhat administration cheers over yesterday's House victory in holding the line against Democratic-sponsored income tax cuts. The administration had asked the senators to restore nearly all of the 912-million-dollar excise tax cuts voted by the House.

The "we need the money" plea was laid before the committee Wednesday by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who is trying to cope with an expected deficit of $2,900,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1. Today's Finance Committee action, if finally approved, would add nearly a billion dollars to that red ink forecast.

Many lawmakers believed, however, the administration was not putting up an all-out fight against excise cuts. Republican leaders were concentrating their efforts on blocking Democratic drives for an income tax cut that would drain off $2,400,000,000 or more from annual collections.

Is Separate Measure

The excise tax bill, being handled as a separate measure, is expected to be taken up on the Senate floor next week, and Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) of the Finance Committee, predicted it would be approved.

Aside from the reductions in many excise or sales taxes, the bill would extend for one more year, starting April 1, a series of post-Korea excise rates yielding the Treasury about $1,077,000,000 in extra revenue during the next 12 months. President Eisenhower counted on this money in making up his budget.

While elated at yesterday's House win on the income tax issue, administration leaders crossed their fingers for the bruising Senate battle to come.

Clark Takes Citadel Post

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 19 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark, a distinguished military career behind him, today became the 11th president of The Citadel, the military college of South Carolina. He succeeded another four star general, Charles P. Summerall, who retired last year.

Clark, former U. N. commander in the Far East, took office in a setting of military pomp, under leaden skies. He was installed as head of the 111-year-old institution by Col. J. R. Westmoreland, chairman of the trustees.

Heading the list of civilian and military dignitaries attending the ceremonies were secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens, elder statesman Bernard Baruch and Gov. James F. Burnes.

Clark actually took over the $12,000-a-year-duties with a minimum of ceremony March 1.

The general, who led the U.S. 5th Army in World War II, later commanded U.S. occupation forces in Austria and was the American member of the Allied commission for that country. He retired last fall after 40 years' service.

Gen. Summerall, 86-year-old former Army chief of staff, retired last summer after heading The Citadel since 1931.

Nuggets Given To Ike, Mamie By Rep. Engle

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower today received two gold nuggets — his in a tie pin and hers as a necklace pendant — of the type taken from California streams during the gold rush days.

The nuggets were presented by Rep. Engle (D-Calif) on behalf of the Plumas County (Calif.) chapter of the Western Mining Council.

Plumas is in the Sierra Nevada mountains, just north of what is known as the Old Mother Lode, of gold producing fame.

The nuggets are in their natural state, just as taken from stream beds and gravel deposits.

Probe Is Begun In H-Bomb Blast Safety Measures

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—A congressional investigation of the immense hydrogen explosion in the Pacific March 1 has been started to determine whether adequate security and safety precautions were taken in the area.

Rep. Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, disclosed today his group already has begun to question members of the Atomic Energy Commission behind closed doors.

Cole said the committee wanted to find out whether any avoidable errors were made by the task force of scientists and military men in charge of the historic test blast.

The nature of the testimony, he added, will determine how much information will be made public later. A cloak of secrecy surrounds most of the AEC's research work.

Two members of the joint congressional committee, Reps. Price (D-Ill) and Van Zandt (R-Pa), called yesterday for a full scale probe to learn, among other things, why 315 persons were permitted close enough to the blast area to be exposed to radiation.

Twenty-three Japanese fishermen, 80 miles away and just outside the official hazard zone, were burned in a shower of nuclear ashes. Twenty-eight American technicians and 264 natives on islands more than 100 miles away from the flashpoint were exposed to milder radiation.

There are reports that the tremendous H-bomb blast was three or four times greater than was expected. Its power has been estimated as between 600 and 700 times greater than that of the first Hiroshima atomic bomb, which killed 60,000 persons.

Price and Van Zandt said testimony they had heard so far called for a full review of the experiment. Van Zandt proposed that naval officers in command of the task force should be questioned, as well as scientists.

Dulles Gives Soviet Envoy Peace Details

"Concrete" Plan Forms International Pool For Material

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — United States-Soviet talks got down to brass tacks on President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan today, after three months of conversation about how to approach the subject.

Secretary of State Dulles called in Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin and handed him what the State Department called "a concrete plan."

This is a detailed program to carry out President Eisenhower's suggestion for an international pool, to which nations would contribute some of their atomic materials and know-how for peaceful purposes.

Text Not Made Public

The text of the plan was not made public, but the basic provisions of the American proposal are:

1. Creation of an international atomic energy agency by the United States, Russia and other atomic powers, including Britain and France.

2. The agency would take charge of the pool of atomic materials, and would be responsible for safeguarding it, preventing seizure by any nation bent on war.

3. The agency could mobilize atomic experts to develop atomic energy for power purposes in areas lacking sufficient electrical power; for medicine and for such things as agricultural research, etc.

A department announcement said the plan "to further the peaceful development and the use of atomic energy," was drafted by the U. S. government after consultation with other Allied governments.

Russia Makes Proposals

The announcement also disclosed that Russia has transmitted to the United States "certain proposals in connection with the general subject of atomic matters." It said these proposals, presumably dealing with atomic disarmament, are under study.

Today's meeting, which lasted five minutes, was the first to dig into the substance of the Eisenhower plan. A half-dozen or so previous talks had dealt merely with procedures, that is, ground rules that would govern the negotiations.

The Dulles-Zarubin talks are an aftermath of Eisenhower's United Nations speech last Dec. 8 in which he proposed an atomic pool under United Nations auspices.

Eisenhower's proposal was seen as an effort to get the atomic disarmament deadlock off dead center. Russia, in a critical response, agreed to discuss the plan but said it did not go far enough because it included no ban on the use of atomic weapons.

M'Carthy Gets Four Lines In "Who's Who"

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—Complaints that the publishers of "Who's Who in America" discriminated against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) by trimming his sketch aren't justified, Marquis Publications said today.

In the current volume, the 28th, McCarthy's listing fills four lines, and is merely a statement of his elections to office. In the preceding volume, the McCarthy sketch filled 28 lines.

McCarthy himself requested the shorter sketch, Publisher Wheeler Sammons said.

Unemployment Still Rising, Spreads To Many Industries

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Labor Department reported today that unemployment, which was largely confined to a few selected industries in early winter, is still rising in March and spreading to "a wide range of industries."

The department's Bureau of Employment Security, which classifies industrial areas to show employment conditions in them, moved 40 major labor market areas to classifications of greater worker "surpluses."

It said virtually all the 149 major job areas surveyed had "adversely-affected employment conditions" between mid-January and mid-March.

The bureau had a cautious note of optimism. It said that employment, while still declining, is doing so at a slower rate in the auto, farm machinery, aircraft and household appliance manufacturing fields. These are the industries hit earliest and hardest by the winter's unemployment.

The latest Census Bureau count of unemployed was 3,671,000 in February. The Employment Security Bureau's mid-March survey today reported declining employment in major production centers for basic steel, nonferrous metals, ordnance materials, shipbuilding, electronics and electrical equipment, tires and tubes, and textiles.

Trade and construction employment also edged downward in almost all areas surveyed. The bureau said this reflected a normal winter slack.

Among the 40 major labor market areas reclassified to a greater degree of worker surplus, 30 were moved from a "balanced labor supply" category to that of "moderate labor surplus," and nine were shifted from the moderate to the "substantial labor surplus" group.

Windy, mild with showers today, tomorrow cloudy and cooler.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 19 (AP) —A trembling man tried and failed today to kidnap a little boy from school but he wounded one male teacher and put a bullet through a door that women teachers were bracing against him.

He fled and all detectives in the city were put on the chase.

The teacher who was wounded, Manvel Schauffler, suffered only a shattered finger and a head bump.

The boy who was the object of the attempt, George F. Brice III, 9, son of a wealthy realtor, didn't know about it until it was all over and he was called to the principal's office at Catlin-Hillside, a private school in the city's Northwest Hills.

The would-be kidnapper had gone to the Brice home, thinking this was a school holiday, then forced Mrs. Brice and the family maid, Lizzie Mae Brown, to drive him to the school.

Mrs. Brice said he seemed drunk or drugged and was trembling. He held a .32 pistol on the women from the time he forced his way into the home when the maid answered the doorbell.

But at the school he let Mrs. Brice go in alone when she assured him that no child is allowed to leave during school hours unless called for by a parent.

Then he left the maid in the car and started after Mrs. Brice. But by the time he got there, she had warned officials and Principal James Angell was phoning for police.

Mrs. Brice said when the man entered her home he first said his "boss" wanted $300,000 then said the boy would be sent home in a taxi at night if $125,000 were paid.

18 Believed Dead In Plane Crash In Arundel County

Police Say Bodies Scattered Around Military Aircraft

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19 (AP)—A huge Air Force cargo plane with 18 persons aboard crashed in flames in a rain-drenched forest near here tonight, and first reports said all had perished.

Volunteer firemen reported from the scene at least 15 bodies had been found within a 10-acre area over which the wreckage was scattered.

"The fierce fire" prevented them from getting close enough to find other victims, they added.

They said fire had spread to surrounding timber and brush but was under control.

The plane, identified by the Air Force as a twin-engine C119, went down about 19 miles south of Annapolis about half a mile off Maryland Route 2. The highway is a main artery leading from Baltimore, which lies about 50 miles north.

A spokesman at Bolling Air Force Base, just outside Washington, said the plane had 12 passengers and six crewmen when it took off there at 10:12 p.m.

The craft was en route to Mitchell Field, N.Y., on a routine flight from Oklahoma and had stopped at Bolling to refuel, he said.

Police said the crash occurred near the grounds of the southern Maryland high school, about 12 miles from Annapolis on the farm owned by a man identified as Josh Paddy.

Italians Move To Plug Reds' Trade Channels

ROME, March 19 (AP)—Italy took steps today to plug trade channels through which Soviet Russia sends an estimated 50 million dollars annually into Italy to spread communism.

The move followed a crackdown on communism ordered by Premier Mario Scelba after a Cabinet meeting yesterday. Informed sources said the order came after a year in which Communist party membership had increased about 180,000 to over two million, making the Italian party the largest outside the Iron Curtain.

Fifty million dollars is approximately 40 times the $1,300,000 budget which the U. S. Information Agency has to tell the American side of the story here.

Scelba's government will keep a close watch on the civil service, which is honeycombed with Communists and sympathizers. Strong action will be taken against anyone conducting leftist activities during working hours or using government facilities such as office telephones. Cultural missions spreading Communist propaganda will be curtailed. This may mean ending cultural agreements with some nations.

But most important will be restrictions on the East-West trading organizations set up to funnel money from behind the Iron Curtain into Italy. Qualified informants gave this picture:

Trade with Eastern Europe is made a virtual monopoly for favored companies by the Iron Curtain countries. These companies are secretly controlled by the Italian Communist party.

Through them the Communists receive about 50 million dollars annually from international communism.

That compares with about 80 million direct aid to Italy given by the U. S. last year. But the American aid is issued almost exclusively in building dams and roads, for agricultural improvements and the like.

Scelba's pro-Western government struck at a moment when a series of Communist-exploited scandals have given the political initiative to the extremist parties.

LaSalle Wins, 69-54

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP) — Bradley's fighting Braves and the explorers from LaSalle tonight moved into the finals of the National Collegiate basketball championship. The Braves came out ahead of Southern California 74-72 in a rousing duel decided in the final minutes. LaSalle waltzed in 69-54 over a Penn State team that couldn't have been colder outdoors in Alaska.

Senate Finance Unit Votes Cut In Excise Taxes

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Despite an administration plea that "We need the money to pay our bills," the Senate Finance Committee voted today to slash excise taxes by about 962 million dollars.

This cut would be 50 million dollars greater than the 912 million reduction already voted by the House.

Most of the extra cut would be achieved by wiping out all admission taxes on movie tickets costing less than 60 cents. The House had cut the tax on these and other entertainment admissions from 20 to 10 per cent, but had refused to make the lower-priced tickets completely tax-exempt, as the Senate group did.

Dampens House Victory

The committee action dampened somewhat administration cheers over yesterday's House victory in holding the line against Democratic-sponsored income tax cuts. The administration had asked the senators to restore nearly all of the 912-million-dollar excise tax cuts voted by the House.

The "we need the money" plea was laid before the committee Wednesday by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who is trying to cope with an expected deficit of $2,900,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1. Today's Finance Committee action, if finally approved, would add nearly a billion dollars to that red ink forecast.

Many lawmakers believed, however, the administration was not putting up an all-out fight against excise cuts. Republican leaders were concentrating their efforts on blocking Democratic drives for an income tax cut that would drain off $2,400,000,000 or more from annual collections.

Is Separate Measure

The excise tax bill, being handled as a separate measure, is expected to be taken up on the Senate floor next week, and Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) of the Finance Committee, predicted it would be approved.

Aside from the reductions in many excise or sales taxes, the bill would extend for one more year, starting April 1, a series of post-Korea excise rates yielding the Treasury about $1,077,000,000 in extra revenue during the next 12 months. President Eisenhower counted on this money in making up his budget.

While elated at yesterday's House win on the income tax issue, administration leaders crossed their fingers for the bruising Senate battle to come.

Clark Takes Citadel Post

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 19 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark, a distinguished military career behind him, today became the 11th president of The Citadel, the military college of South Carolina. He succeeded another four star general, Charles P. Summerall, who retired last year.

Clark, former U. N. commander in the Far East, took office in a setting of military pomp, under leaden skies. He was installed as head of the 111-year-old institution by Col. J. R. Westmoreland, chairman of the trustees.

Heading the list of civilian and military dignitaries attending the ceremonies were secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens, elder statesman Bernard Baruch and Gov. James F. Burnes.

Clark actually took over the $12,000-a-year-duties with a minimum of ceremony March 1.

The general, who led the U.S. 5th Army in World War II, later commanded U.S. occupation forces in Austria and was the American member of the Allied commission for that country. He retired last fall after 40 years' service.

Gen. Summerall, 86-year-old former Army chief of staff, retired last summer after heading The Citadel since 1931.

Martin Says GOP Not Divided Party

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 19 (AP)—House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts said tonight the Republicans are not a divided party "and we will fail only if we permit our opposition to divide us."

Nuggets Given To Ike, Mamie By Rep. Engle

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower today received two gold nuggets — his in a tie pin and hers as a necklace pendant — of the type taken from California streams during the gold rush days.

The nuggets were presented by Rep. Engle (D-Calif) on behalf of the Plumas County (Calif.) chapter of the Western Mining Council.

Plumas is in the Sierra Nevada mountains, just north of what is known as the Old Mother Lode, of gold producing fame.

The nuggets are in their natural state, just as taken from stream beds and gravel deposits.

Probe Is Begun In H-Bomb Blast Safety Measures

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—A congressional investigation of the immense hydrogen explosion in the Pacific March 1 has been started to determine whether adequate security and safety precautions were taken in the area.

Rep. Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, disclosed today his group already has begun to question members of the Atomic Energy Commission behind closed doors.

Cole said the committee wanted to find out whether any avoidable errors were made by the task force of scientists and military men in charge of the historic test blast.

The nature of the testimony, he added, will determine how much information will be made public later. A cloak of secrecy surrounds most of the AEC's research work.

Two members of the joint congressional committee, Reps. Price (D-Ill) and Van Zandt (R-Pa), called yesterday for a full scale probe to learn, among other things, why 315 persons were permitted close enough to the blast area to be exposed to radiation.

Twenty-three Japanese fishermen, 80 miles away and just outside the official hazard zone, were burned in a shower of nuclear ashes. Twenty-eight American technicians and 264 natives on islands more than 100 miles away from the flashpoint were exposed to milder radiation.

There are reports that the tremendous H-bomb blast was three or four times greater than was expected. Its power has been estimated as between 600 and 700 times greater than that of the first Hiroshima atomic bomb, which killed 60,000 persons.

Price and Van Zandt said testimony they had heard so far called for a full review of the experiment. Van Zandt proposed that naval officers in command of the task force should be questioned, as well as scientists.

Dulles Gives Soviet Envoy Peace Details

"Concrete" Plan Forms International Pool For Material

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — United States-Soviet talks got down to brass tacks on President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan today, after three months of conversation about how to approach the subject.

Secretary of State Dulles called in Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin and handed him what the State Department called "a concrete plan."

This is a detailed program to carry out President Eisenhower's suggestion for an international pool, to which nations would contribute some of their atomic materials and know-how for peaceful purposes.

Text Not Made Public

The text of the plan was not made public, but the basic provisions of the American proposal are:

1. Creation of an international atomic energy agency by the United States, Russia and other atomic powers, including Britain and France.

2. The agency would take charge of the pool of atomic materials, and would be responsible for safeguarding it, preventing seizure by any nation bent on war.

3. The agency could mobilize atomic experts to develop atomic energy for power purposes in areas lacking sufficient electrical power; for medicine and for such things as agricultural research, etc.

A department announcement said the plan "to further the peaceful development and the use of atomic energy," was drafted by the U. S. government after consultation with other Allied governments.

Russia Makes Proposals

The announcement also disclosed that Russia has transmitted to the United States "certain proposals in connection with the general subject of atomic matters." It said these proposals, presumably dealing with atomic disarmament, are under study.

Today's meeting, which lasted five minutes, was the first to dig into the substance of the Eisenhower plan. A half-dozen or so previous talks had dealt merely with procedures, that is, ground rules that would govern the negotiations.

The Dulles-Zarubin talks are an aftermath of Eisenhower's United Nations speech last Dec. 8 in which he proposed an atomic pool under United Nations auspices.

Eisenhower's proposal was seen as an effort to get the atomic disarmament deadlock off dead center. Russia, in a critical response, agreed to discuss the plan but said it did not go far enough because it included no ban on the use of atomic weapons.

M'Carthy Gets Four Lines In "Who's Who"

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—Complaints that the publishers of "Who's Who in America" discriminated against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) by trimming his sketch aren't justified, Marquis Publications said today.

In the current volume, the 28th, McCarthy's listing fills four lines, and is merely a statement of his elections to office. In the preceding volume, the McCarthy sketch filled 28 lines.

McCarthy himself requested the shorter sketch, Publisher Wheeler Sammons said.

Unemployment Still Rising, Spreads To Many Industries

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Labor Department reported today that unemployment, which was largely confined to a few selected industries in early winter, is still rising in March and spreading to "a wide range of industries."

The department's Bureau of Employment Security, which classifies industrial areas to show employment conditions in them, moved 40 major labor market areas to classifications of greater worker "surpluses."

It said virtually all the 149 major job areas surveyed had "adversely-affected employment conditions" between mid-January and mid-March.

The bureau had a cautious note of optimism. It said that employment, while still declining, is doing so at a slower rate in the auto, farm machinery, aircraft and household appliance manufacturing fields. These are the industries hit earliest and hardest by the winter's unemployment.

The latest Census Bureau count of unemployed was 3,671,000 in February. The Employment Security Bureau's mid-March survey today reported declining employment in major production centers for basic steel, nonferrous metals, ordnance materials, shipbuilding, electronics and electrical equipment, tires and tubes, and textiles.

Trade and construction employment also edged downward in almost all areas surveyed. The bureau said this reflected a normal winter slack.

Among the 40 major labor market areas reclassified to a greater degree of worker surplus, 30 were moved from a "balanced labor supply" category to that of "moderate labor surplus," and nine were shifted from the moderate to the "substantial labor surplus" group.

Ike Has Power To Order Retaliation For Attacks

Dulles Says President Can Act Without The Consent Of Congress

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today President Eisenhower has "discretionary power" to order instant retaliation against surprise enemy attacks on North Atlantic or Latin-American allies.

Dulles said the president could act without consulting Congress in advance if he "deemed the attack was a forerunner of an attack on the United States."

The secretary outlined this view in a three-hour question-and-answer session before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which reviewed the Eisenhower administration's "new look" defense policy.

Atom Is "Evolution"

Under sharp questioning by Senate Democrats, especially Mansfield of Montana, Dulles said the new look, with its great emphasis on atomic weapons, is "an evolution" rather than an "abrupt revolutionary change."

In speaking of the President's powers, Dulles appeared to back away somewhat from sweeping remarks he made Tuesday at a news conference.

At that time Dulles contended that the 14-nation North Atlantic pact and the 21-country inter-American defense treaty gave the President "a right" to counterattack without advance congressional approval when a member country was hit by surprise.

Dulles told senators today these treaties gave the President no special rights but that under the Constitution "The President has the right to do what he believes is in the interests of the United States."

Matter Of Judgment

"The extent has to be a matter of his own judgment," he said. "One of the facts which he may use to make his decision is that there are such treaties."

It was at this point that Dulles emphasized the key factor would be whether a surprise air attack on London or Paris, for example, actually was a preliminary to an enemy attack on the United States itself.

If the President decided it was, Dulles said, he could order massive retaliation by the United States in order to protect its own security.

Dulles left no doubt he believed the President would do just that, because he said an attack on Paris now would be "equivalent to a declaration of war against the United States."

The secretary agreed that the President would consult Congress fully in advance if possible but noted that an emergency might arise when any delay would be dangerous to American interests.

Large Acreage Set For Crops

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today its surveys indicate farmers plan to devote a relatively large total acreage to crops this year despite surpluses of many commodities.

The survey showed that farmers as a whole may plant much more corn—one of the surplus crops—than the government had recommended under a planting allotment program.

The department emphasized, however, that when the survey was made some farmers had not yet been notified of their corn planting shares.

For 16 crops covered in its report, the department forecast total planting of 282 million acres, or 11 million more than were planted in 1953.

The indicated corn acreage is only 366,000 acres below last year. The department had recommended a cut of about 10 million acres.

A cut of over a tenth in potato acreage was indicated. Potato prices have been sharply below a year ago.

Increased acreages were indicated for oats, barley, flaxseed, rice, sorghums, dry beans and peas, soy beans, peanuts and hay.

The prospective acreage of spring wheat was indicated at 16,657,000 acres, down slightly more than five million acres.

Muddy Rain Causes Ill. Tornado Scare

PEORIA, Ill., March 19 (AP)—A heavy overcast that darkened the sky scared scores of Peorians today into thinking a tornado was on the way.

After rain began falling and coating cars and buildings with a thin film of mud, their fears subsided. The overcast was caused by dust blowing in from the Southwest. The rain stirred it into mud.

Mass Picketing Banned In Wake Of Dock Strike

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The city outlawed mass picketing on New York's strikebound waterfront today in an effort to snuff out union warfare on the docks.

The crackdown failed to touch off any general back-to-work surge by non-striking AFL dockers.

Only about 1,000 of them reported for work, although guaranteed safe passage through picket lines of the rival International Longshoremen's Assn. (ind).

An AFL steward whose discharge set off a snowballing series of disputes that culminated in the wildcat ILA strike 15 days ago was told today he would be rehired. But it remained to be seen what if any effect this would have on the strike. He had become a more or less forgotten issue.

In New York City alone, 42 ships lay idle at their wharves as the ILA pushed its demand for immediate bargaining recognition. Countless others have been diverted to other ports.

Police Commissioner Francis W. Adams limited the ILA to 20 pickets to a pier. The massing of hundreds of dockers earlier in the week led to bitter skull-cracking battles.

There were scattered disorders again today. Fist fighting broke out in Brooklyn for the fourth day in a row as AFL dockers defied ILA pickets. In Jersey City, sticks and stones were hurled at non-strikers.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner yesterday ordered the police to end the reign of lawlessness on the waterfront and insure the right to work to any non-striker. He threatened to call on state and federal reinforcements if needed.

Police Commissioner Adams made an hour-long tour of the Hudson River waterfront during the day and then said in a statement:

"It seems clear to me that the policy of limiting the number of pickets to a reasonable number is sound. Also, we intend to continue the policy . . . and not permit the massing of men in and around these piers.

"After seeing the piers in Manhattan, I am satisfied we are seeing to it that the legitimate men who want to work have the opportunity to do so."

Ace M. Keeney, executive director of the AFL Lonshoremen's Assn., said it was now up to the shippers to post the usual work notices and reopen the port with AFL dockers.

Runaway Girls Found Working

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. March 19 (AP)—The runaway daughter of wealthy turfman Lindsay Howard and her girl companion were found today with a job as "mother's helpers."

Judy Howard, 13, and Judy Geller, 14 — who ran away yesterday from Los Angeles "for the fun of it"—answered a newspaper ad last night for a mother's household assistant.

It was placed by Mrs. Murray A. Reynolds, San Bernardino, who said the girls used fictitious names. She said she told them she needed only one helper and that a friend might employ one of them, but that they insisted on not being parted.

After dinner last night, she said, they admitted they had run away from home but did not tell their real names. Mrs. Reynolds' husband said they disclosed enough information so that he realized who they were.

He telephoned Miss Howard's mother, former actress Judith Barrett, divorced wife of Howard.

Search for the girls had spread eastward after police in Riverside reported the pair tarried there to dye their hair and attempt to pawn jewelry.

Actress Requested To Answer Summons

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Actress Peggy Ann Garner was asked today, politely, to show up in traffic court next Wednesday about three summonses outstanding against her.

If she doesn't, the Traffic Summons Control Bureau said in a letter, a warrant will be issued for her arrest.

Saul J. Allen, chief of the traffic bureau, said the summonses, issued last year, allege speeding, double parking and parking in a restricted area.

French Planes Strike Rebels Around Fortress

HANOI, Indochina, March 19 (AP) — French planes directed their most intensive attacks of the war today against trenches and gun emplacements of Vietminh rebels dug in around the fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Ground forces clashed with Vietminh units probing the defenses of the fortress as close as 200 yards from the main barbed wire barricades.

The digging-in tactics, combined with ceaseless rebel artillery pounding of the French positions, indicated the Communist-led besiegers hope to crush the northwest Indochina fortress and gain their first great victory of the Indochinese war.

Bierut Becomes Party Secretary

WARSAW, Poland, March 19 (AP) —Boleslaw Bierut, Premier of Poland since 1952, has given up the post to be first secretary of the United Polish Workers' (Communist) party, it was announced today. Bierut, also a former president, has been Poland's No. 1 Communist since World War II.

Josef Cyrankiewicz, former vice premier, was nominated premier by the party's Central Committee on Beirut's recommendation. Cyrankiewicz held the premiership from 1947 to 1952.

A newly-elected Politburo shows few changes.

In Vienna, where close watch is kept on the doings in the Soviet satellite orbit, the shakeup in the Polish government was seen as having come on orders of Nikita Khrushchev, No. 2 man in the Kremlin.

Western diplomats there said that Bierut, son of Polish peasants, remained Poland's No. 1 Communist and will be in a position to keep a watchful eye on Cyrankiewicz. The new Premier liquidated his party six years ago to merge with the Communists in the "United Workers party."

It was believed Bierut was relieved as premier under a new Communist plan to end the "cult of heroes" and replace one man rule with "government by committee."

Mother And Four Children Die In Fire

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 19 (AP)—A 31-year-old mother and four of her five children died today in a fire which swept their modest home in Muscoy, a suburb.

Inspector L. G. Davis of the Muscoy fire department said the blaze was started by an overheated refrigerator motor.

Dead are:

Mrs. Jennie Dixie Lee Shull, 31; Jennie Dixie, 10; Ragland, 6; Cecilia Ann, 5; and Edward, 8 months.

Leroy, 8, got out of the burning frame home and ran to a neighbor's house.

Couple Is Captured After $12,000 Holdup

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., March 19 (AP) — A young Chicago couple was taken into custody at a roadblock on the edge of the city today and Police Chief Bernard Garmire said officers found in their car more than $12,000 taken at gunpoint from the Almena bank a short time before.

Garmire identified the two as Mrs. Elizabeth Helen Pady, 18, and Paul S. Hauser, 22. The two were booked on suspicion of bank robbery.

Few Subversive Workers Found In State Dept.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Scott McLeod, the State Department's security officer, has told Congress he found fewer subversives in the department than he had expected.

But 75 security cases have been turned over to the FBI for further investigation, McLeod reported.

The Justice Department, however, said it hasn't prosecuted any cases yet under a law making it a crime for a government employe to advocate subversion or join a subversive organization.

Sparring over the security issue cropped up again in hearings before a House Appropriations subcommittee Tuesday. A transcript of the hearings was released today, when the full Appropriations Committee approved a request for $900,000 to complete security investigations of 11,000 State Department employes.

McLeod, under prodding from Democratic subcommittee members, said investigations were completed on only about one-fourth of 11,000 "sensitive" employes in the period between President Eisenhower's new government security order, May 27, 1953, and last Tuesday. But he said he expected to complete the remaining 75 per cent before July 1.

"I can only observe that when the garden is ignored for a long time, it grows up in long weeds," McLeod told Rep. Rooney (D-NY). "We started in where the weeds were heavy." He explained that the more serious cases were investigated first, and the remaining cases will not take as much time.

Rooney also called attention to a nationwide broadcast by Vice President Nixon last Saturday night. He said Nixon claimed that 422 government employes' files showed subversive activities or associations.

"If you have found 422 Communists in the government, how many are being prosecuted under this law?" Rooney asked.

Justice Department officials did not have an immediate answer, but later the department inserted this in the record:

"The records of the department do not disclose that any indictments have been returned or prosecution brought under the provisions of this statute."

Woman Had Fortune Sewed In Clothing

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—A 68-year-old widow, nearly blind and deaf, refused for two days to take off her clothing and don a bed gown in Cook County Hospital.

Today, Warden Fred A. Hertwig persuaded Mrs. Margaret Block to Surrender her clothing—and $29,928.54 sewn into the linings of her garments and hidden in a small suitcase.

Banker Who Took Money ReturnsHome

CLIO, Ala., March 19 (AP) — A small town banker whose mysterious 12-day absence brought fears of financial ruin to this farming community took an overdose of sleeping medicine, a doctor said today, after promising to pay off all depositors in full.

But the physician said Royall Reynolds didn't swallow a lethal dose and suffered no critical effects, although he was given an antidote to counteract the phenobarbital preparation.

Reynolds, returning home last night, promised to return "every penny" owing to depositors of the Clio Merchants Exchange of which he is president. He also brought back the exchange's deposit records which he took when he and his wife, Sue, left here March 7.

Reynolds offered no elaboration on his promise to repay the money, and the only amount officially accounted for, said Mayor Dan Easterling, is $81,800 on deposit in an Atlanta bank.

The unchartered Merchants Exchange served as a savings depository and check-cashing agency for residents of this southeast Alabama community which has no other bank. Except for operating cash normally kept on hand, most of the funds were deposited in other banks.

There has been no threat of violence, but Easterling said "the people want action, and they want it quick."

Reynolds, a former Clio mayor, said he and his wife, were in Atlanta most of the time while appeals were broadcast for his return. He knew nothing of the anxiety caused by his absence, the Exchange president said, until reading a story in a Roanoke, Va., paper Tuesday.

He said reports that he made off with between $80,000 and $100,000 were "damn lies."

Three embezzlement warrants have been filed against Reynolds, two of them sworn out by depositors and the third covering general embezzlement under the state code.

Geneva Conference May Rival Big 4

KENILWORTH, England, March 19 (AP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said tonight the forthcoming Geneva conference "might prove even more baffling" than the recent Big Four meeting in Berlin.

"We shall, however, enter upon it with a determination to do all that lies in our power to further international understanding and promote the cause of peace," he said in a prepared speech at a public meeting here.

The conference opens in Geneva April 26, with the Big Four foreign ministers and representatives of Red China attending. It will be concerned mainly with Far Eastern affairs.

Report Gls Fathered 70,000 British Babies Denied

LONDON, March 19 (AP) — The Churchill government today described as "grossly exaggerated" persistent reports that American servicemen have fathered 70,000 illegitimate children in Britain. Actually, said a government spokesman, the figure is less than 1,200.

"The American authorities in Britain have received some 1,200 inquiries from unmarried mothers, and some of these were probably duplicated," Foreign Undersecretary Anthony Nutting told the House of Commons.

He replied to R. W. Sorensen, a Laborite, who said an "increasing number of young women and their children was suffering unnecessary hardship and suffering."

U.S. Air Force authorities here have denied repeatedly the 70,000 figure, which pops up from time to time in press reports. U. S. Air Force officers said a member of the West German Parliament mentioned the figure in a speech two years ago but it dealt with the unwed mothers in all of Western Europe during the war.

Sorensen declared that some American servicemen were deliberately dodging their responsibilities when they returned to the United States.

"Once back in their country there is no obligation on them except a moral one," he said.

Sorensen called on the government to press with the American military authorities for an automatic deduction from a serviceman's pay to help maintain illegitimate children, and for an agreement with Washington to hold the father responsible for maintaining his family when he returned to civilian life.

Nutting said the problem had been magnified beyond reality. Of the 1,200 cases listed, "at least 300 of these women have since married the American soldiers," he said.

Ike Has Power To Order Retaliation For Attacks

Dulles Says President Can Act Without The Consent Of Congress

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today President Eisenhower has "discretionary power" to order instant retaliation against surprise enemy attacks on North Atlantic or Latin-American allies.

Dulles said the president could act without consulting Congress in advance if he "deemed the attack was a forerunner of an attack on the United States."

The secretary outlined this view in a three-hour question-and-answer session before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which reviewed the Eisenhower administration's "new look" defense policy.

Atom Is "Evolution"

Under sharp questioning by Senate Democrats, especially Mansfield of Montana, Dulles said the new look, with its great emphasis on atomic weapons, is "an evolution" rather than an "abrupt revolutionary change."

In speaking of the President's powers, Dulles appeared to back away somewhat from sweeping remarks he made Tuesday at a news conference.

At that time Dulles contended that the 14-nation North Atlantic pact and the 21-country inter-American defense treaty gave the President "a right" to counterattack without advance congressional approval when a member country was hit by surprise.

Dulles told senators today these treaties gave the President no special rights but that under the Constitution "The President has the right to do what he believes is in the interests of the United States."

Matter Of Judgment

"The extent has to be a matter of his own judgment," he said. "One of the facts which he may use to make his decision is that there are such treaties."

It was at this point that Dulles emphasized the key factor would be whether a surprise air attack on London or Paris, for example, actually was a preliminary to an enemy attack on the United States itself.

If the President decided it was, Dulles said, he could order massive retaliation by the United States in order to protect its own security.

Dulles left no doubt he believed the President would do just that, because he said an attack on Paris now would be "equivalent to a declaration of war against the United States."

The secretary agreed that the President would consult Congress fully in advance if possible but noted that an emergency might arise when any delay would be dangerous to American interests.

Large Acreage Set For Crops

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today its surveys indicate farmers plan to devote a relatively large total acreage to crops this year despite surpluses of many commodities.

The survey showed that farmers as a whole may plant much more corn—one of the surplus crops—than the government had recommended under a planting allotment program.

The department emphasized, however, that when the survey was made some farmers had not yet been notified of their corn planting shares.

For 16 crops covered in its report, the department forecast total planting of 282 million acres, or 11 million more than were planted in 1953.

The indicated corn acreage is only 366,000 acres below last year. The department had recommended a cut of about 10 million acres.

A cut of over a tenth in potato acreage was indicated. Potato prices have been sharply below a year ago.

Increased acreages were indicated for oats, barley, flaxseed, rice, sorghums, dry beans and peas, soy beans, peanuts and hay.

The prospective acreage of spring wheat was indicated at 16,657,000 acres, down slightly more than five million acres.

Muddy Rain Causes Ill. Tornado Scare

PEORIA, Ill., March 19 (AP)—A heavy overcast that darkened the sky scared scores of Peorians today into thinking a tornado was on the way.

After rain began falling and coating cars and buildings with a thin film of mud, their fears subsided. The overcast was caused by dust blowing in from the Southwest. The rain stirred it into mud.

Mass Picketing Banned In Wake Of Dock Strike

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The city outlawed mass picketing on New York's strikebound waterfront today in an effort to snuff out union warfare on the docks.

The crackdown failed to touch off any general back-to-work surge by non-striking AFL dockers.

Only about 1,000 of them reported for work, although guaranteed safe passage through picket lines of the rival International Longshoremen's Assn. (ind).

An AFL steward whose discharge set off a snowballing series of disputes that culminated in the wildcat ILA strike 15 days ago was told today he would be rehired. But it remained to be seen what if any effect this would have on the strike. He had become a more or less forgotten issue.

In New York City alone, 42 ships lay idle at their wharves as the ILA pushed its demand for immediate bargaining recognition. Countless others have been diverted to other ports.

Police Commissioner Francis W. Adams limited the ILA to 20 pickets to a pier. The massing of hundreds of dockers earlier in the week led to bitter skull-cracking battles.

There were scattered disorders again today. Fist fighting broke out in Brooklyn for the fourth day in a row as AFL dockers defied ILA pickets. In Jersey City, sticks and stones were hurled at non-strikers.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner yesterday ordered the police to end the reign of lawlessness on the waterfront and insure the right to work to any non-striker. He threatened to call on state and federal reinforcements if needed.

Police Commissioner Adams made an hour-long tour of the Hudson River waterfront during the day and then said in a statement:

"It seems clear to me that the policy of limiting the number of pickets to a reasonable number is sound. Also, we intend to continue the policy . . . and not permit the massing of men in and around these piers.

"After seeing the piers in Manhattan, I am satisfied we are seeing to it that the legitimate men who want to work have the opportunity to do so."

Ace M. Keeney, executive director of the AFL Lonshoremen's Assn., said it was now up to the shippers to post the usual work notices and reopen the port with AFL dockers.

Runaway Girls Found Working

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. March 19 (AP)—The runaway daughter of wealthy turfman Lindsay Howard and her girl companion were found today with a job as "mother's helpers."

Judy Howard, 13, and Judy Geller, 14 — who ran away yesterday from Los Angeles "for the fun of it"—answered a newspaper ad last night for a mother's household assistant.

It was placed by Mrs. Murray A. Reynolds, San Bernardino, who said the girls used fictitious names. She said she told them she needed only one helper and that a friend might employ one of them, but that they insisted on not being parted.

After dinner last night, she said, they admitted they had run away from home but did not tell their real names. Mrs. Reynolds' husband said they disclosed enough information so that he realized who they were.

He telephoned Miss Howard's mother, former actress Judith Barrett, divorced wife of Howard.

Search for the girls had spread eastward after police in Riverside reported the pair tarried there to dye their hair and attempt to pawn jewelry.

Actress Requested To Answer Summons

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Actress Peggy Ann Garner was asked today, politely, to show up in traffic court next Wednesday about three summonses outstanding against her.

If she doesn't, the Traffic Summons Control Bureau said in a letter, a warrant will be issued for her arrest.

Saul J. Allen, chief of the traffic bureau, said the summonses, issued last year, allege speeding, double parking and parking in a restricted area.

French Planes Strike Rebels Around Fortress

HANOI, Indochina, March 19 (AP) — French planes directed their most intensive attacks of the war today against trenches and gun emplacements of Vietminh rebels dug in around the fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Ground forces clashed with Vietminh units probing the defenses of the fortress as close as 200 yards from the main barbed wire barricades.

The digging-in tactics, combined with ceaseless rebel artillery pounding of the French positions, indicated the Communist-led besiegers hope to crush the northwest Indochina fortress and gain their first great victory of the Indochinese war.

Bierut Becomes Party Secretary

WARSAW, Poland, March 19 (AP) —Boleslaw Bierut, Premier of Poland since 1952, has given up the post to be first secretary of the United Polish Workers' (Communist) party, it was announced today. Bierut, also a former president, has been Poland's No. 1 Communist since World War II.

Josef Cyrankiewicz, former vice premier, was nominated premier by the party's Central Committee on Beirut's recommendation. Cyrankiewicz held the premiership from 1947 to 1952.

A newly-elected Politburo shows few changes.

In Vienna, where close watch is kept on the doings in the Soviet satellite orbit, the shakeup in the Polish government was seen as having come on orders of Nikita Khrushchev, No. 2 man in the Kremlin.

Western diplomats there said that Bierut, son of Polish peasants, remained Poland's No. 1 Communist and will be in a position to keep a watchful eye on Cyrankiewicz. The new Premier liquidated his party six years ago to merge with the Communists in the "United Workers party."

It was believed Bierut was relieved as premier under a new Communist plan to end the "cult of heroes" and replace one man rule with "government by committee."

Mother And Four Children Die In Fire

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 19 (AP)—A 31-year-old mother and four of her five children died today in a fire which swept their modest home in Muscoy, a suburb.

Inspector L. G. Davis of the Muscoy fire department said the blaze was started by an overheated refrigerator motor.

Dead are:

Mrs. Jennie Dixie Lee Shull, 31; Jennie Dixie, 10; Ragland, 6; Cecilia Ann, 5; and Edward, 8 months.

Leroy, 8, got out of the burning frame home and ran to a neighbor's house.

Couple Is Captured After $12,000 Holdup

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., March 19 (AP) — A young Chicago couple was taken into custody at a roadblock on the edge of the city today and Police Chief Bernard Garmire said officers found in their car more than $12,000 taken at gunpoint from the Almena bank a short time before.

Garmire identified the two as Mrs. Elizabeth Helen Pady, 18, and Paul S. Hauser, 22. The two were booked on suspicion of bank robbery.

Few Subversive Workers Found In State Dept.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Scott McLeod, the State Department's security officer, has told Congress he found fewer subversives in the department than he had expected.

But 75 security cases have been turned over to the FBI for further investigation, McLeod reported.

The Justice Department, however, said it hasn't prosecuted any cases yet under a law making it a crime for a government employe to advocate subversion or join a subversive organization.

Sparring over the security issue cropped up again in hearings before a House Appropriations subcommittee Tuesday. A transcript of the hearings was released today, when the full Appropriations Committee approved a request for $900,000 to complete security investigations of 11,000 State Department employes.

McLeod, under prodding from Democratic subcommittee members, said investigations were completed on only about one-fourth of 11,000 "sensitive" employes in the period between President Eisenhower's new government security order, May 27, 1953, and last Tuesday. But he said he expected to complete the remaining 75 per cent before July 1.

"I can only observe that when the garden is ignored for a long time, it grows up in long weeds," McLeod told Rep. Rooney (D-NY). "We started in where the weeds were heavy." He explained that the more serious cases were investigated first, and the remaining cases will not take as much time.

Rooney also called attention to a nationwide broadcast by Vice President Nixon last Saturday night. He said Nixon claimed that 422 government employes' files showed subversive activities or associations.

"If you have found 422 Communists in the government, how many are being prosecuted under this law?" Rooney asked.

Justice Department officials did not have an immediate answer, but later the department inserted this in the record:

"The records of the department do not disclose that any indictments have been returned or prosecution brought under the provisions of this statute."

Woman Had Fortune Sewed In Clothing

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—A 68-year-old widow, nearly blind and deaf, refused for two days to take off her clothing and don a bed gown in Cook County Hospital.

Today, Warden Fred A. Hertwig persuaded Mrs. Margaret Block to surrender her clothing—and $29,928.54 sewn into the linings of her garments and hidden in a small suitcase.

Banker Who Took Money Returns Home

CLIO, Ala., March 19 (AP) — A small town banker whose mysterious 12-day absence brought fears of financial ruin to this farming community took an overdose of sleeping medicine, a doctor said today, after promising to pay off all depositors in full.

But the physician said Royall Reynolds didn't swallow a lethal dose and suffered no critical effects, although he was given an antidote to counteract the phenobarbital preparation.

Reynolds, returning home last night, promised to return "every penny" owing to depositors of the Clio Merchants Exchange of which he is president. He also brought back the exchange's deposit records which he took when he and his wife, Sue, left here March 7.

Reynolds offered no elaboration on his promise to repay the money, and the only amount officially accounted for, said Mayor Dan Easterling, is $81,800 on deposit in an Atlanta bank.

The unchartered Merchants Exchange served as a savings depository and check-cashing agency for residents of this southeast Alabama community which has no other bank. Except for operating cash normally kept on hand, most of the funds were deposited in other banks.

There has been no threat of violence, but Easterling said "the people want action, and they want it quick."

Reynolds, a former Clio mayor, said he and his wife, were in Atlanta most of the time while appeals were broadcast for his return. He knew nothing of the anxiety caused by his absence, the Exchange president said, until reading a story in a Roanoke, Va., paper Tuesday.

He said reports that he made off with between $80,000 and $100,000 were "damn lies."

Three embezzlement warrants have been filed against Reynolds, two of them sworn out by depositors and the third covering general embezzlement under the state code.

Geneva Conference May Rival Big 4

KENILWORTH, England, March 19 (AP — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said tonight the forthcoming Geneva conference "might prove even more baffling" than the recent Big Four meeting in Berlin.

"We shall, however, enter upon it with a determination to do all that lies in our power to further international understanding and promote the cause of peace," he said in a prepared speech at a public meeting here.

The conference opens in Geneva April 26, with the Big Four foreign ministers and representatives of Red China attending. It will be concerned mainly with Far Eastern affairs.

Report Gls Fathered 70,000 British Babies Denied

LONDON, March 19 (AP) — The Churchill government today described as "grossly exaggerated" persistent reports that American servicemen have fathered 70,000 illegitimate children in Britain. Actually, said a government spokesman, the figure is less than 1,200.

"The American authorities in Britain have received some 1,200 inquiries from unmarried mothers, and some of these were probably duplicated," Foreign Undersecretary Anthony Nutting told the House of Commons.

He replied to R. W. Sorensen, a Laborite, who said an "increasing number of young women and their children was suffering uncessary hardship and suffering."

U.S. Air Force authorities here have denied repeatedly the 70,000 figure, which pops up from time to time in press reports. U. S. Air Force officers said a member of the West German Parliament mentioned the figure in a speech two years ago but it dealt with the unwed mothers in all of Western Europe during the war.

Sorensen declared that some American servicemen were deliberately dodging their responsibilities when they returned to the United States.

"Once back in their country there is no obligation on them except a moral one," he said.

Sorensen called on the government to press with the American military authorities for an automatic deduction from a serviceman's pay to help maintain illegitimate children, and for an agreement with Washington to hold the father responsible for maintaining his family when he returned to civilian life.

Nutting said the problem had been magnified beyond reality. Of the 1,200 cases listed, "at least 300 of these women have since married the American soldiers," he said.

Valley Road Men Are Held For Grand Jury

Local Man's Car Is Stripped, Wrecked

Charged with grand larceny and malicious destruction of property, four Bowman's Addition men were committed to the Allegany County Jail yesterday, in default of $1,000 bonds, for action of the April Grand Jury.

The men, Robert George Hott, 26; Thomas Carl Hott, 25, brothers; Robert E. Lee, 22, and Robert Kline Miller, 28, waived a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Donald W. Mason in Trial Magistrates Court.

The men were arrested Thursday night by Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, for the stripping and wrecking of a Cumberland man's car Tuesday morning on Valley Road.

The car was owned by the State Police officer's brother, Robert F. Baker, 430 Columbia Street. The machine became disabled on Valley Road near Pea Vine Run and the owner left the scene to arrange for a tow truck to haul in the vehicle.

While he was gone for about half an hour the four men drove up in their machine and systematically started stripping the car. The front and rear wheels on the left side were removed, the battery lifted from its resting place, ash trays, flashlight, four hub caps and other items were removed.

Not satisfied with their vandalism, the culprits then shoved the machine over a nearby 10-foot embankment. The car rolled over and came to rest upright. The owner found the car when he returned. It was resting in a field of the Ray Hartman property.

Cpl. Baker said the four were returning from a tavern in nearby Pennsylvania when they came upon the disabled machine.

Cpl. Baker told Magistrate Mason the equipment stripped from the car was valued at $108.60.

Friends, Foes

limited-traffic modern Parkway could open the canal area without "destroying the natural wilderness that he (Douglas) loves so well."

Recounting highlights in the canal's history, Walsh pointed out that "we are living in an age of transportation — an age whose steady progress can no more be stopped than could the waves of the ocean be stopped by King Canute."

Advantages Cited

The Parkway, he said, would 1.) provide a safer water-level route from Cumberland to Hancock, eliminating five mountains; 2.) open a scenic area to the public; 3.) provide great economic benefits to the Cumberland area, leaving at the same time a retreat for outdoorsmen.

It would not, he said, "unduly disturb the birds, frighten the fish" or otherwise ruin the area as a game reservoir.

He said that, as far as canoeing on the canal was concerned, he believed the last serious expedition launched from here had been started many years ago by Associate Judge George Henderson, who last night was seated at the head table.

Walsh recalled that Henderson had to abandon his plans at Harpers Ferry, loaded his canoe aboard a canal boat and earned his way to Washington by driving the mules.

William A. Gunter, well-known attorney and former state senator, threw the problem into sharp, if humorous, focus by dismissing it as a dispute between the 20th Century and prehistoric.

"The question," declared Gunter, "is whether the canal should be converted into a runway for gold-plated Cadillacs of the Machine Age or whether it should be preserved as a footpath for nature lovers of the Paleolithic Age."

Recalls Dispute

Recalling a bitter dispute between the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in 1834 over a strip of the right-of-way at Point of Rocks, Gunter suggested that the compromise which was worked out then might be tried once more.

Gunter pointed out that the final agreement provided that the B&O erect a fence high enough to prevent draft animals pulling boats up and down the canal from being frightened by the engines.

He proposed that Senator Beall should introduce a bill in the Senate to provide for the erection of "a close fence of boards" to keep the nature trail separate from the Parkway.

Grinning broadly, he added that an amendment might provide for the installation of electric escalators "so that Justice Douglas' nature-lovers might ascend without undue effort to the top of this fence, from where they may watch Senator Beall's gold-plated Cadillacs — and the rest of the world — go by."

Robert Estabrook, one of two Washington Post & Times-Herald editorial writers who accepted Justice Douglas' challenge to walk the canal route between Washington and Cumberland back in January, said he looked forward to the jaunt with mixed emotions.

As to his opinions on the Parkway, which the Post and Times-Herald has backed, Estabrook said he and his colleague, Merlo Pusey, would keep an open mind "until scenery and events persuade us to reach a decision" about the Parkway plan.

Webster To Attend School Bonds Meeting

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of the Allegany County schools, informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners he will go to Baltimore soon to confer with the State Board of Education on the school loan program.

Webster said one thing he will seek to learn is the starting date for interest on $1,000,000 in state school bonds for which Allegany County has contracted for the period from July 1, 1954 through June 30, 1955. This is necessary as the county board will make its levy next month and the Board of Education is making up its budget for the coming fiscal year.

If the interest date is started prior to July 1 then the county must finance this cost from the current budget. Otherwise, the item will be included in the budget for the next fiscal year.

Webster will meet with Dr. David W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent of schools for finance and research.

The board accepted the low bid of the St. George Motor Company to furnish a Ford sedan for use of the Health Department. The company offered to sell the car for a net of $968.70. It allowed $802 on a used car now operated by the department. The gross price was $1,770.70.

Only other bidder was the Eiler Chevrolet Company which made a gross offer of $1,641.74 and a trade-in of $500.74 for the used machine. The net price was $1,141.

The board also approved a Health Department notice to the owner of a number of hogs and pens in Ellerslie to eliminate the health hazard caused by the unsanitary conditions.

Merchandise Stolen From Klondyke Store

Merchandise valued at about $50 was taken when the tavern and store of Leo McNeill, Klondyke, was broken into over Thursday night.

Cpl. William F. Baker and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, who investigated, said entrance to the building was gained by forcing a window in the cellar.

Loot included cigarets, cigars and small items of merchandise.

William Bantz Files For County Treasurer

Motorist Is Fined On Reckless Count

A local motorist who was involved in a headon collision earlier this month with another car was fined on a reckless driving charge yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court.

Harold B. Sencindiver, 36, of 1023 Shades Lane, pleaded guilty to the charge at a hearing before Magistrate Donald W. Mason. He was fined $25 and also ordered to pay court costs of the case.

Sencindiver and four other persons were injured in the crash which occurred early in the morning of March 7, about five miles south of the city on Oldtown Road. Trooper R. D. Wolford was the arresting officer.

Both the Sencindiver vehicle and one operated by Earl Lee Cooper of Williams Road were demolished in the collision, Trooper Wolford said.

Easement Delays Start Of Homer Street Sewer

Decision Promised By B & O Officials

Construction of the Homer Street sewer project will get underway as soon as an easement is secured to run the line under B & O Railroad property, Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, announced yesterday.

She said C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, reported that B & O officials in Baltimore have promised an answer on the city's request for permission to lay the line across its property, and that A. W. Conley, division superintendent, is trying to expedite the plan.

Nuzum has checked the elevation of the line, and has assured B & O officials the pipe will not interfere with future yard expansion in that area.

Mrs. Roeder said the construction of the sewer is urgent, since water enters cellars of homes in that area after every hard rain.

Pipe for the line has been on hand for some time, and orders were given three weeks ago to pull a crew off the nearly completed Bedford Street line and put the men at work on the Homer Street job.

Mrs. Roeder said the job had to be held up, since the first 150 feet of the line crosses B & O property.

The combination storm and sanitary sewage will be about 700 feet long.

Driscoll Announces Candidacy For House

Fred B. Driscoll, 719 East Oldtown Road, has announced he will be a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates on the Republican ticket, subject to the June primary.

Del. Driscoll was elected in 1950 and during his term has been a member of the House Education and Civil Defense committees.

He stated yesterday:

"Mature judgment and experience are most important factors and I feel that my four years of service can be of further value to the people of Allegany County in the future.

"It has been my privilege to co-sponsor and work hard for the school construction and improvement program for Allegany County.

"I was able to help in the expansion of State Teachers College at Frostburg. The addition to Miners Hospital also had my full support.

"I was a co-sponsor of legislation which makes it possible to obtain auto license tags at the Court House in Cumberland and have supported increased appropriations for county volunteer fire companies.

"Having my full support was legislation in 1951 which gives ten-year tax exemption to new industries locating in this county.

"Also in 1953 a bill was passed to encourage established industry to expand, giving a ten-year tax exemption to expansions exceeding $10,000.

"I am a co-sponsor of legislation to provide for absentee voting in Maryland. Under present law, service men overseas can vote by mail, but their wives cannot when they join them. This is very unfair and should be corrected.

"One of the most important legislative acts to which I have given full support is the 12-year road program that will call for the expenditure of $30,000,000 for highway construction in Allegany County.

"If I am re-elected I will continue to give my most conscientious service. We must have good schools, good roads for our economic development and good government for the welfare and happiness of all."

Driscoll was born in Roanoke, Va., and moved here when he was nine years old. He has owned and operates a barbershop at 107 South Johnson Street for the past 35 years.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Driscoll, this city. He has two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Cleo Jones, Belvedere, Ill., and Mrs. Ruth Shirley Messman, Rockford, Ill., both of his first marriage, to the late Enda Kirtley Driscoll who died in 1943. He is married to the former Ethel Adams Snyder, this city.

Driscoll belongs to the Cumberland Optimist Club, Ali Ghan Temple, AAONM Shrine; Cumberland Consistory, Scottish Rite Masons; Fort Cumberland Lodge 211, A.F. & A.M., Cumberland Lodge 281, Loyal Order of Moose.

A former member of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, he served as chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors from 1935 to 1939.

Valley Road Men Are Held For Grand Jury

Local Man's Car Is Stripped, Wrecked

Charged with grand larceny and malicious destruction of property, four Bowman's Addition men were committed to the Allegany County Jail yesterday, in default of $1,000 bonds, for action of the April Grand Jury.

The men, Robert George Hott, 26; Thomas Carl Hott, 25, brothers; Robert E. Lee, 22, and Robert Kline Miller, 28, waived a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Donald W. Mason in Trial Magistrates Court.

The men were arrested Thursday night by Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, for the stripping and wrecking of a Cumberland man's car Tuesday morning on Valley Road.

The car was owned by the State Police officer's brother, Robert F. Baker, 430 Columbia Street. The machine became disabled on Valley Road near Pea Vine Run and the owner left the scene to arrange for a tow truck to haul in the vehicle.

While he was gone for about half an hour the four men drove up in their machine and systematically started stripping the car. The front and rear wheels on the left side were removed, the battery lifted from its resting place, ash trays, flashlight, four hub caps and other items were removed.

Not satisfied with their vandalism, the culprits then shoved the machine over a nearby 10-foot embankment. The car rolled over and came to rest upright. The owner found the car when he returned. It was resting in a field of the Ray Hartman property.

Cpl. Baker said the four were returning from a tavern in nearby Pennsylvania when they came upon the disabled machine.

Cpl. Baker told Magistrate Mason the equipment stripped from the car was valued at $108.60.

limited-traffic modern Parkway could open the canal area without "destroying the natural wilderness that he (Douglas) loves so well."

Recounting highlights in the canal's history, Walsh pointed out that "we are living in an age of transportation — an age whose steady progress can no more be stopped than could the waves of the ocean be stopped by King Canute."

Advantages Cited

The Parkway, he said, would 1.) provide a safer water-level route from Cumberland to Hancock, eliminating five mountains; 2.) open a scenic area to the public; 3.) provide great economic benefits to the Cumberland area, leaving at the same time a retreat for outdoorsmen.

It would not, he said, "unduly disturb the birds, frighten the fish" or otherwise ruin the area as a game reservoir.

He said that, as far as canoeing on the canal was concerned, he believed the last serious expedition launched from here had been started many years ago by Associate Judge George Henderson, who last night was seated at the head table.

Walsh recalled that Henderson had to abandon his plans at Harpers Ferry, loaded his canoe aboard a canal boat and earned his way to Washington by driving the mules.

William A. Gunter, well-known attorney and former state senator, threw the problem into sharp, if humorous, focus by dismissing it as a dispute between the 20th Century and prehistoric.

"The question," declared Gunter, "is whether the canal should be converted into a runway for gold-plated Cadillacs of the Machine Age or whether it should be preserved as a footpath for nature lovers of the Paleolithic Age."

Recalls Dispute

Recalling a bitter dispute between the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in 1834 over a strip of the right-of-way at Point of Rocks, Gunter suggested that the compromise which was worked out then might be tried once more.

Gunter pointed out that the final agreement provided that the B&O erect a fence high enough to prevent draft animals pulling boats up and down the canal from being frightened by the engines.

He proposed that Senator Beall should introduce a bill in the Senate to provide for the erection of "a close fence of boards" to keep the nature trail separate from the Parkway.

Grinning broadly, he added that an amendment might provide for the installation of electric escalators "so that Justice Douglas' nature-lovers might ascend without undue effort to the top of this fence, from where they may watch Senator Beall's gold-plated Cadillacs — and the rest of the world — go by."

Robert Estabrook, one of two Washington Post & Times-Herald editorial writers who accepted Justice Douglas' challenge to walk the canal route between Washington and Cumberland back in January, said he looked forward to the jaunt with mixed emotions.

As to his opinions on the Parkway, which the Post and Times-Herald has backed, Estabrook said he and his colleague, Merlo Pusey, would keep an open mind "until scenery and events persuade us to reach a decision" about the Parkway plan.

Webster To Attend School Bonds Meeting

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of the Allegany County schools, informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners he will go to Baltimore soon to confer with the State Board of Education on the school loan program.

Webster said one thing he will seek to learn is the starting date for interest on $1,000,000 in state school bonds for which Allegany County has contracted for the period from July 1, 1954 through June 30, 1955. This is necessary as the county board will make its levy next month and the Board of Education is making up its budget for the coming fiscal year.

If the interest date is started prior to July 1 then the county must finance this cost from the current budget. Otherwise, the item will be included in the budget for the next fiscal year.

Webster will meet with Dr. David W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent of schools for finance and research.

The board accepted the low bid of the St. George Motor Company to furnish a Ford sedan for use of the Health Department. The company offered to sell the car for a net of $968.70. It allowed $802 on a used car now operated by the department. The gross price was $1,770.70.

Only other bidder was the Eiler Chevrolet Company which made a gross offer of $1,641.74 and a trade-in of $500.74 for the used machine. The net price was $1,141.

The board also approved a Health Department notice to the owner of a number of hogs and pens in Ellerslie to eliminate the health hazard caused by the unsanitary conditions.

Merchandise Stolen From Klondyke Store

Merchandise valued at about $50 was taken when the tavern and store of Leo McNeill, Klondyke, was broken into over Thursday night.

IN THE LAND OF MAKE-BELIEVE

Suppose we were all wealthy . . . and all healthy. And suppose we had to work only one day a week, and could devote the others to recreation and rest. And suppose we had no worries, no problems, no responsibilities.

Would we all be happy . . . really happy?

Of course not! For a week or two we might revel in our good fortune, and enjoy our freedom from care. And then suddenly life would become colorless and empty. For where would we find incentive? How would we recapture ambition? What would we substitute for perseverence and fortitude and hope: the qualities that crown existence with achievements?

And what would happen to FAITH—the true foundation of happiness?

In this work-a-day world, with all its turmoil and care, the man who depends on God lives with a smile in his heart. And week after week his shoes wear smooth the threshold of his Church as he rejoices in the love of His Saviour. He doesn't dream of happiness in a land of make-believe! He has found happiness.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

NON-COUNTED CARDS AID

SUPPOSE somebody asked you if you had a dollar in your pocket. You found no such thing there, and even the silver added up to a little shy of that sum. But suppose you had a lot of pennies in another pocket. Couldn't you add them to help you reach the total concerned? The same principle applies to British pounds, shillings and pence, French francs and sous—and to playing cards. Cards just below the height at which you count them, through your customary method, can sway a close decision for you.

	♠ A K Q 8 ♥ 9 7 4 3 ♦ Q 8 ♣ 8 6 2
♠ 10 4 3 ♥ K Q 8 5 ♦ K 7 6 3 ♣ 9 4	N W E S	♠ 9 7 5 ♥ J 10 2 ♦ 10 5 2 ♣ A Q J 3
	♠ J 6 2 ♥ A 6 ♦ A J 9 4 ♣ K 10 7 5

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Passed out at many tables of a duplicate, this deal afforded a game to several pairs where such cards as jacks, tens and nines were considered of some potential value. The payoff bid in the sequence given was North's 2-Hearts, which had the effect of keeping West from leading the suit. Since he knew many club opening bids were on short holdings, he reckoned his partner might have something there, so opened his 9. After the A won that, East returned the Q to the K, and all looked bright to South.

The diamond 4 was led to the Q and the 8 brought back to the J and K. Now, all too late, West decided that a heart lead might be a good idea through that anemic suit in dummy. His 5 ran to the 10 and A, whereupon the diamond A and 9 and four spade tricks gave South his game.

It happens that perfect defense, with a heart opening, could have beaten that game. But do you count on always having perfect defense against you?

4-H Club Exhibits Activity Program

MOOREFIELD — The Onward, Upward 4-H Club of Moorefield Graded School, sponsored by Miss Ada Heishman, presented a program at the meeting of the Parent Teacher Association at the school Monday night.

Members of the club, gave a typical meeting so parents and teachers might better know the 4-H Club. Taking part were Billy Toohey, Dixie Lee Hawse, Mary Susan Welton, Jane Welton, Lave Tallent, Ellen Taylor, Barbara Mathias, Linda Kay Dispanet, Phyllis See, Mary Kifer, Phyllis Mongold, Jean Simmons, Lila Parsons, John Burch Jr., Paul and Mackie Williams, Richard Kemp, Bobby Taylor and Ernestine Mathias.

Billy Toohey, vice president, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Carolyn Chipley. Demonstrations were given by Linda Dispanet and Jane Welton and D. C. Simmons and Paul Williams. Reports were made, songs sung and general business conducted.

During the business meeting of the PTA, conducted by the Rev. Paul Sutton, president, it was decided not to have the ice cream festival planned by the budget committee. It was also decided to postpone the entertainment of teachers in the Moorefield schools until fall.

After the report of the nominating committee, officers were elected for the coming year. Rev. Sutton and John A. Mathias were re-elected president and treasurer and Mrs. William Toohey and Mrs. Hansel Harper were elected vice president and secretary, respectively.

Ted Burns, chairman of the health committee, reported that pre-school clinics would be held in Hardy County April 27 and 28. The doctors and dentists have agreed to full cooperation. NON-COUNTED CARDS AID

SUPPOSE somebody asked you if you had a dollar in your pocket. You found no such thing there, and even the silver added up to a little shy of that sum. But suppose you had a lot of pennies in another pocket. Couldn't you add them to help you reach the total concerned? The same principle applies to British pounds, shillings and pence, French francs and sous—and to playing cards. Cards just below the height at which you count them, through your customary method, can sway a close decision for you.

	♠ A K Q 8 ♥ 9 7 4 3 ♦ Q 8 ♣ 8 6 2
♠ 10 4 3 ♥ K Q 8 5 ♦ K 7 6 3 ♣ 9 4	N W E S	♠ 9 7 5 ♥ J 10 2 ♦ 10 5 2 ♣ A Q J 3
	♠ J 6 2 ♥ A 6 ♦ A J 9 4 ♣ K 10 7 5

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Passed out at many tables of a duplicate, this deal afforded a game to several pairs where such cards as jacks, tens and nines were considered of some potential value. The payoff bid in the sequence given was North's 2-Hearts, which had the effect of keeping West from leading the suit. Since he knew many club opening bids were on short holdings, he reckoned his partner might have something there, so opened his 9. After the A won that, East returned the Q to the K, and all looked bright to South.

The diamond 4 was led to the Q and the 8 brought back to the J and K. Now, all too late, West decided that a heart lead might be a good idea through that anemic suit in dummy. His 5 ran to the 10 and A, whereupon the diamond A and 9 and four spade tricks gave South his game.

It happens that perfect defense, with a heart opening, could have beaten that game. But do you count on always having perfect defense against you?

State Welfare Boards Told To Watch Budgets

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—The welfare boards of Baltimore city and the counties were warned by The State Department of Public Welfare today that expenditures next month must be held to present levels.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of public welfare, said steadily rising caseloads are threatening a departmental deficit before the end of the fiscal year.

Further curtailments will be necessary in May and June if the caseload does not taper off, Waxter said.

The deficit in welfare money could run to between $40,000 and $50,000 by June 30 at present levels of expenditure, Waxter said.

He said welfare payments from state money alone increased from $377,000 last October to $440,000 last month.

It was pointed out the notice to local units may mean the establishment of waiting lists for the needy by April.

The welfare budget is so tight that any curtailment in industrial activity throws it out of balance, Waxter said. The unemployed do not themselves qualify for public assistance, but such dependents as means of support swell the list.

Cattle Breeders Begin Meeting

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—The Maryland Cooperative Guernsey Breeders Asso. gathered here for its annual meeting today, with several hundred members taking in discussions on the industry's latest developments.

Fred C. Downey, head of the organization, presided over the session.

The Association presented awards to five Maryland 4-H club members for outstanding Guernsey dairy projects.

They were Carroll Leatherman, 20, of Myersville, Frederick County; William Powel, 17, Ellicott City, Howard County; Dorothy Roche, 16, Glencoe, Baltimore County; Franklin Moore, 17, Centreville, Queen Anne's County, and Mable Potter, 17, Caambridge, Dorchester County.

Awards were presented by last year's over-all Guernesy winner, 19-year-old William Wolfe of Myersville.

Contract Dispute Disrupts A & P Chain

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP) — A contract dispute between the A & P grocery chain and its AFL bakers union threatened today operation of the firm's 29 stores in the Baltimore area.

The bakers struck Wednesday after negotiators failed to agree on wage provisions for a new contract. They picketed a central warehouse, and union truck drivers refused to cross the lines, forcing the firm to draw on other sources for bread and sweet goods.

William C. Parsons, business representative of the local bakers union, said plans called for picketing of all stores beginning Monday unless the dispute is settled.

State Needs $71,260,500 For Sewage Disposal Plans

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP) — The State Board of Health wrestled for a while today with this problem:

Maryland's communities need $13,951,500 worth of new water supply and sewage disposal facilities right now.

They will need $24,810,000 more such work in the next five years.

By that time they ought to have under contract or be about ready to build another $32,498,000 worth.

The $71,260,500 total was worked up as a rough estimate by the State Health Department's division of sanitary engineering.

Robert M. Brown, chief of the department's bureau of environmental hygiene, warned that Maryland needs a comprehensive, quick but long-range plan to meet the problem.

If it doesn't plan wisely, he said, it faces the possibility large sections of Chesapeake Bay and other bodies of water will become too polluted for swimming.

It faces the possibility of losing industries it has now or might gain in the future because they need pure water.

Home owners buying places in today's mushrooming developments without public sewage disposal facilities are going to find they will have to pay out a lot of money in the future for sewer systems.

It is something that will touch everyone's pocketbook, he said.

The board members agreed the State Planning Commission probably was the logical State agency to tackle the problem.

Brown was commissioned to make a further study on his own.

In his report, he had said there was a need for a State policy and objectives in the area of water resources.

Fire Endangers Small Town, Under Control

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—Fire which at one point threatened a small community south of Baltimore was brought under control, firemen reported late today, after it burned over nearly four miles of brush and woodland and damaged utility wires.

About 15 pieces of city equipment and five from Anne Arundel County were called out to fight the blaze which had been swept by high winds toward the small county community of Brandon Shores.

Firemen said the blaze started in old Fort Armistead Park, was swept south and east and finally began burning itself out along the Patapsco river.

Latest trend in new open space homes is a lightweight, portable wall section which can be moved like furniture.

Town Gets Help To Finance Sewer

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—The Frederick County town of Myersville today got an order from the State Board of Health which will help it finance an extension of its sewer lines.

The order directs the town to issue bonds up to three per cent of its assessed valuation to finance the sewer work.

The order will provide about $5,000 in bond money, with which Myersville plans to help finance a 3,000-foot extension of its present eight-inch sewer line along main street. This will add six residences immediately to the town's sewer system.

State Health Board Praises Dr. Freeman

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—The State Board of Health today adopted a formal resolution praising Dr. Allen Weir Freeman, who closed his 50-year career in public health earlier this month by giving up his job as consultant to the State Health Department.

The resolution said:

"From 1921 to the day of his resignation, Dr. Freeman exerted in an extraordinarily helpful manner strong influences that both protected and guided the destinies of Health, the 23 county departments of health, and the Baltimore City Health Department.

"Professionally most expert, personally most kind and considerate, Dr. Freeman's intelligence, energy and devotion will long be remembered and cherished by the members of the Maryland State Board of Health. We shall miss the benefits of his wisdom and counsel, but we wish for him every possible enjoyment of the leisure he so richly deserves."

Beall Wants More Flood Job Money

As usual, United States Senator J. Glenn Beall is in the forefront of the battle to get more federal funds for vital construction projects in the Cumberland area.

Almost alone, Mr. Beall, then a member of the House of Representatives, waged a successful campaign for completion of the Savage River Dam which, while still in its infancy as years go, already has proved its value.

It was Senator Beall, too, who got the ball rolling on Cumberand's multi-million dollar flood control project now partly completed.

This past Tuesday the House of Representatives passed and sent to the Senate an Army civil functions bill which included in it $600,000 for the local flood control project in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Realizing the constantly impending danger here, Senator Beall immediately went to bat to raise the federal ante by another half a million dollars.

In the past he has had a remarkable record of success in getting government approval of plans for the improvement of this section. Sometime the law of averages is bound to catch up with him and perhaps this will be the time, but we have no hesitancy in predicting that it will be after only a tireless battle that such occurs.

If it should happen you can depend on Senator Beall returning to the battle in behalf of Western Maryland at the first succeeding opportunity.

Spring's Arrival

President Roosevelt was able to change the date of Thanksgiving for several years because it is set by presidential proclamation, but no president can control the relative position of the sun and earth, which alone determines the day and hour at which one season gives way to another.

What makes the day fluctuate is that the earth is not tidy enough to go around the sun in exactly 365 days, but takes nearly six hours longer. Leap year quadrenially resets the calendar.

The seasons are of uneven length, because the earth follows an egg-shaped orbit around the sun. Summer is the longest in this hemisphere, the shortest below the equator, and winter is longest here—seasons, that is.

Well, anyway, welcome spring.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

African Nationalism

I happened to see a report of a meeting at the YWCA in Yonkers, N. Y., which puzzles me no end. Dr. Ernest Kalibala of Uganda, who, the report says, was a former area specialist, whatever that may be, for the United Nations Trusteeship Department, had been invited by the YWCA to make a speech. According to the newspaper account, he literally bawled out everybody, including the United States and the audience.

To the audience, he said:

"If Jesus Christ came to Yonkers, what church would He enter? In what church would He be accepted? None. He would be called a subversive person."

Of the United States, Dr. Kalibala said that American money and arms are blocking world peace. Of American leadership, he said that there was a deficit of statesmen. ". . . You cannot get world peace by spending money and men without producing world leaders."

Of Russia, he said:

" 'There is a vacuum in Europe. Russia is there to fill it.' Later he added, 'Communists are here to stay. Nothing the United States can do will wipe them out. Russia has more to say in Asia than you have. To solve that problem, the need is for more statesmen.' "

Of the Mau Maus, he said:

". . . the Mau Maus there are killing the white people, and that is the only thing preventing the world from forgetting Africa!"

Then the "Yonkers Herald Statesman" added:

"Some among his hearers expressed a feeling of penitence, and asked what they might do as individuals to help the cause of world peace and the cause of freedom in Africa."

What was there to be penitent about? Why do Americans enjoy listening to their country and their leaders being berated by foreigners? When Dr. Kalibala said that our leaders today are "only military men," he was criticizing President Eisenhower. In this news account, not one word appears to show that anyone arose to criticize this foreigner's bad manners in attacking a country which offered him its unrestricted hospitality. Those who continue to say that our freedoms are being restricted have here an excellent example of a foreigner attacking our country, our President and an audience in utter freedom, without either official restraint or the inhibitions of good manners. And some in the audience expressed penitence!

There is much of this going on in the United States, foreigners coming here from all sorts of countries to exhort us to dislike our own country, or to influence us to oppose a position taken by an American administration and to favor the position adopted by some other country. For many years, the Indians have conducted such a propaganda in the United States. I receive pamphlets, booklets, broadsides and all sorts of printed matter, some expensively gotten up, much of it telling how superior some country's policy is to that of the United States.

I suppose in a free country everything is possible, but I wonder whether, let us say, the British or the French would welcome an American traveling about their country criticizing its government, its leaders or even its people? How much of this do we need to take to preserve our free institutions?

Those who are anxious about our civil liberties are right. In a period of concern over infiltration and corruption, it is possible to move into proscription and from that into an abandonment of civil rights. Those who fight Communists need to remember that the only reason for opposition to them is that they are opposed to the dignity of man; that they eliminate human liberties from society; that they reduce man to a thing. If, in fighting them and their ideas, we are forced to adopt their concept of society, then they have conquered us spiritually if not physically. We accept their methods while opposing them.

It is this problem which has caused a schism in our society. Vituperation, innuendo, insult offer no solution. This is nothing for small, bigoted minds, nor for those who hope to earn a dollar or a career out of our disturbances.

Cuba's President Broke Off Relations With Russia In Move To Stop Reds

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Interviewing President Batista in Havana the other day I noticed him scribble a desk memorandum to himself. It was in shorthand. "Shorthand," I told the president enviously, "is something that as a newspaperman I always wished I knew. How did you happen to learn it as a soldier?"

Then developed some of the amazing story of the president of Cuba, a mild-mannered and most likable gentleman who belies the fact that twice he has taken control of Cuba by revolution.

Batista was the son of poverty-striken parents in the interior of the island, and went to work in the cane fields when he could barely wield a cane knife. Later he got a job on the Cuban railroads as a conductor-brakeman, and at the age of 20 enlisted in the army.

But during these years, he spent almost every evening studying. Though he never finished any formal schooling, he borrowed books, went to night school, once even obtained permission to use the library on the farm of President Zayas near which he was stationed. It was during these years that Batista learned shorthand, an accomplishment which won him the job of reporter at courts-martial and the rank of sergeant.

I told Batista that I had been in Cuba when he staged his revolt against the bloody Machado regime. Incidentally, though the revolt was successful, Batista, still a sergeant, did not then become president. Though he remained a power behind the scenes, he did not become president until seven years later.

Danger Of Communism

"The best antidote for communism," he said, "is to provide better social and economic conditions for the people. In other words, try to eliminate low standards of living and other conditions on which communism thrives."

When I asked whether U. S. companies, such as United Fruit, face a problem of land distribution in such countries as Guatamala, Batista said that this problem did not exist in Cuba.

"Cuban relations with foreign investors have been good," he said, "and they will continue that way.

"Cuban relations with the other nations of the Americas are excellent," he continued, "and relations between Cuba and the United States have never been better."

Batista pointed out that he had severed Cuban relations with Russia when he became president the second time in 1952. "At that time the Russians," he explained, "were using Cuba as an exchange point for their international spy system."

Other things discussed by the dynamic and delightful gentleman who rules the destinies of the wealthiest island in the Caribbean were: Crop diversification—Cuba is trying to get away from being a one-crop country. . . . The elections—Batista will hold them this fall. . . . Will he run again?

Il presidente sidestepped this one, but I have a hunch he will run.

Acrimonious Tax Debate

Though the House of Representatives vitnessed hot-and-heavy bare knuckle debate over the tax bill in public, some of the fiercest heat over taxes was applied behind closed doors.

At an off-the-record Republican caucus, Speaker Joe Martin threatened to resign as GOP leader if the tax bill didn't pass and if the Republicans were defeated in November.

"No! No! No!" chorused GOP colleagues, but Martin stuck to his guns.

In a simultaneous Democratic conference, ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn was equally eloquent as he urged Democrats to stick together and defeat the "trickle-down" tax bill.

Here are the highlights of both closed-door meetings:

The Democrats — "The issue is as old as Thomas Jefferson," proclaimed Rayburn to Democratic representatives. "He fought for equitable tax laws that would protect those least able to pay and would place the burden of financing our government on those best able to pay. It is a historic fact, also, that hi. has always been a point of cleavage between Democrats and Republicans as to how taxes shall be collected. We are once again a. the crossroads."

The Republicans — "I defy anyone to go over our bill point by point and say that it doesn't help the little man in numerous ways," proclaimed Uncle Dan Reed at the GOP caucus. "For example, we have assisted the farmer by enabling him to deduct soil-conservation expenses. If we had given in to all this pressure to increase dependency exemptions from $600 to $700, it would have meant only a small weekly tax savings to the average American family, at a high cost to the financial stability of the government."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, the Cleveland industrialist, backed him up. But GOP Congressman Paul Fino of New York did not.

"Not many people in my district in the Bronx are interested in the 10 per cent reduction in the tax on fur coats provided in this bill, because they can't afford to buy fur coats," declared Fino, "but they are family people who understand the proposed $100 exemption for each dependent."

Congresswoman Edith Rogers of Massachusetts agreed; so did William Ayres of Akron, Ohio. Ayres made a speech exactly one sentence long. He said: "Would you prefer that I follow the Republican leadership and vote for this bill, or would you prefer that I vote against it and remain in Congress?"

Sale Of The Times-Herald Causes Stir In Washington

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — People living outside of Washington can have little idea of the excitement which the national capital has experienced in the last 48 hours as it read the announcement that Colonel Robert R. McCormick of The Chicago Tribune had sold his Washington newspaper — The Times-Herald—to the only morning competitor, The Washington Post.

Maybe if there had not been such a vigorous campaign carried on by the Washington Times-Herald against Communists in the government and if The Washington Post had not as a rule taken the other side of the argument so vigorously, the merger would have passed off with little notice. But now demands have arisen from many Times-Herald readers for another morning newspaper, and there are rumors in the air that millionaires from Texas and elsewhere are being importuned to put up the 10 to 15 million dollars which would be required to finance such a project.

Starting a new newspaper in Washington would be quite a problem for anyone, even with a big bankroll, since The Times-Herald has been losing an estimated $1,000,000 a year—possibly because there are too many papers dividing the market. But it is fair to say that today there is sadness among those in and outside the government who have regarded The Times-Herald as a champion of their point of view. A feeling prevails that the anti-Communist crusade has lost its most articulate exponent in the national capital.

McCormick's Health Not Good

Just why Colonel McCormick decided to sell has not been revealed, but it is generally accepted that his health has not been good. He is 73 years old, and Mrs. McCormick has been urging him to shed some of his responsibilities, especially in Washington.

The Washington Post is owned by Eugene Meyer, now 78 years old, formerly chairman of the Federal Reserve Board under the Hoover administration. He made his principal fortune in investment banking in Wall Street. Members of his family are active in the paper. The new owners paid approximately $8,500,000 for the privilege of burying their competitor on weekdays and eliminating one competing paper on Sundays. It is believed that the purchase contract provides for the asquisition of the plant and equipment of The Times-Herald and that arrangements to dispose of the printing presses and machines to some enterprise outside of Washington have been or will be made. So any new newspaper would have a hard time starting right away, no matter how much capital it might be able to mobilize.

Mergers Have Worked

Hence those who today feel that the only Washington morning paper for the President and members of Congress to read will be a paper with news items and editorials slanted to a so-called "liberal" or New Dealish point of view will have to trust to the good sense of The Post management to recognize that in the long run one-sidedness never pays where there is a monopoly. For there is always the possibility of a morning paper being issued by one of the present evening newspapers if the competitive situation should really encourage it.

The theory of the critics that only one viewpoint has been printed in The Washington Post, both in its news and editorial columns, may be refuted by the experience in other cities where mergers have occurred. Again and again the merged publication has recognized the wisdom of printing articles from contributors presenting a view opposite to its own editorials. It has usually led to an elimination of bias in the handling of front-page news and in a balanced selection of dispatches from the press associations, which normally cover both sides of a controversial subject in an objective manner.

Two other newspapers remain in the field here—The Evening Star, owned by and operated now in the main by the fourth generation of the Noyes-Kauffman-Adams family, which founded the property 101 years ago—and The Washington Daily News, owned by the Scripps-Howard chain. They do not publish morning editions, though The Star has a Sunday issue. It is reliably reported that neither The Star nor The Daily News intends to publish a morning edition. People in the national capital, of course, read New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore newspapers, which come in here in large numbers but do not have the wide distribution through home delivery that a local newspaper would maintain.

Expect Circulation Increases

The Evening Star, according to the latest figures of the Audit Bureau of Circulation, has an average of 234,660 daily and 264,437 on Sundays. The Times-Herald had 253-532 daily and 287,200 on Sundays. The Washington Daily News has 138,778.

The comparable Washington Post figures are 201,645 daily and 200,163 on Sundays. It is not expected that The Post will be able to retain all the Times-Herald circulation, as much of this will go to The Star, especially on Sundays when the public will have two Sunday papers to choose from—The Post and The Star. Many readers of The Times-Herald are telling their friends they are canceling their subscriptions to the merged paper, and The Star is finding itself with an abnormally large number of new subscriptions flowing in. This probably will also be the experience of The Washington Daily News. Agencies in advertising centers were being told, it is reported, that The Post expects to average 300,000 daily and 330,000 on Sundays. Officials of The Star and The Washington Daily News were not prepared as yet to estimate their expected increases.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

You can manipulate the fantastic orgies of totalitarianism by foreign evaluation of American infiltration.

What symbol most approximates the ideologies of free and equal citizens who breathe pro rata air and walk in average struts?

Is it our universal suffrage, freedom of worship, motor cars, magnificent compassions, organized charities, electric ice-boxes, two-platoon football, double ice-cream scoops, terrific inventions, incredible highways and et scattera?

Is it Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson? It's nobody and nothing else but Mickey Mouse, king of the rats.

Even before there was a Mickey the Kaiser said in 1914, "I will stand for no nonsense from America after the war."

It turned out that after the war the Kaiser stood for nothing. He lammed.

But even before his war Shickelgruber banned the Mickus from the Teutonic Leiberstraum. And before that Benito the Muss said the play-pen was too small for them both. So Michael Rodentus was exiled hoop, staves and animation.

Moscow next takes up the chain war of extermination on our reeled pet. The Kremlin read Mike the Nibbler out of the party with good Soviet anethema, cat-calls and smudge pots.

We are warning Malakov, Stinkovitch and way stations of the inevitable. Mickey never loses.

Honesty The Best Policy

By Brother Barnabas

Honesty is where you find it. It has been found to be the "best policy" so often by so many people, that it has become an ingrained disposition, so that the average person in all walks of life can be trusted.

You never see a tip lifted from the dining table that was intended for the waitress. No reputable merchant will misrepresent his goods or overcharge, and no banker will ever knowingly shortchange a customer.

However, it takes the exception to prove the rule, and there are now and then flagrant examples of mink coats deals, embezzlements, kick-backs, and other forms of dishonesty, of which there are many.

Nobody wants to be caught in a lie or a theft, so the offense has been mollified by attaching a codicil to the Ten Commandments: "Thou shalt not get caught."

The law is the commonly accepted yardstick of honesty. So long as men keep "within the law" they are reputable citizens. But mores make ancient forms uncouth.

It used to be in New England that a hungry man caught stealing a loaf of bread or a goose would be put in jail. In those days it was said:

"The law locks up both man and woman
"Who steals the goose from off the common,
"But lets the greater felon loose
"Who steals the common from the goose."

"Emperor Jones," in Eugene O'Neill's drama by that name, makes this sententious remark:

Appropriated, Not Stolen

"For de little stealin' dey gits you in jail soon or late. For de big stealin" dey makes you emperor and puts you in de Hall o' Fame when you croaks. If dey's one thing I learns in 10 years on de Pullman cars listenin' to de white quality talk, jt's dat same fact."

Smart Parak

A parakeet named Joey made the London newspapers last week. He had alighted on the shoulder of a bricklayer walking home in suburban Southfields.

For seven days the bird said nothing. Then he said, "Renown 2961." The bricklayer telephoned the number, and the owner reclaimed Joey.

There ought to be a "homing pigeon" attachment to the books we lend. A carpenter posted a sign over his workbench: "The tools I lend are all out."

The following authentic story comes down from the ancient past: A man went out one night to steal a sheep. He caught one, tied its legs together, passed the rope over his head, and started for home.

In climbing a fence, the rope slipped, caught him by the neck and strangled him. Next morning the lord of the manor found the dead man hanging on one side of the fence, and the sheep on the other. He had a monument erected as a warning to all who love mutton better than virtue.

One of the most vicious forms of dishonesty is plagarism. In the days before there were copyright laws, Stephen A. Foster gave a sample copy of "O Susanna" to E. P. Christy, the leader of a minstrel show, who turned it over to his New York publisher, modestly crediting himself as its composer. Later, a Louisville publisher printed the song, together with "Old Uncle Ned" and made a profit of $10,000 of which Foster received not a cent.

Good Diplomatic Relations

Honesty is often rewarding. Last September 23 a New York cabby received a letter from the U. S. Embassy in Caracas, Venezuela, which enclosed two clippings from the Caracas newspaper, El Nacional, giving an account of the cabby's honesty in connection with the return of a pocket-book to a little Venezuelan girl who had dropped it in his cab.

The writer has a banker friend who vouched for the accuracy of this story: A cashier found his cash at the end of the day exhausted—all but 25 cents.

If a customer should make a substantial deposit at the opening of the bank the next morning all would probably be well. But if a check should be presented for payment he would be unable to pay it and the bank would have to close.

After sweating blood, he decided to go to a rival bank whose president was considered hard-boiled, and lay the situation before him and ask his advice.

His advice was to take the 25 cents, buy a dose of cyanide of potassium, and take it, and jump in the river.

"But I can't do it, for the quarter is not mine."

The president yielded. "Because you are an honest man, I am going with you to yo bank immediately with a deposit of $10,000."

Honest to goodness yours,

BROTHER BARNABAS

Cough Medicines: Different Kinds, How They Act

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

One of my friends has been needling me for years because the medical profession has so little to offer for the relief of cough. I vowed some day to list such remedies and after reading a recent article by Dr. A. Worth Hobby of Atlanta, this is it:

A host of cough medicines are available to ease strain and lessen the reflex. These remedies act like aspirin in that they help the symptom but not necessarily the disease. Cough medicines usually contain substances that are absorbed through the wall of the stomach and are transmitted via the blood stream to the membranes of the bronchial tree. This group is known as expectorants. Those that contain codein, opium, and pantopon depress the cough reflex and have a sedative effect.

Saline expectorants liquefy the thick mucus, making it easier to bring up. This is done by stimulating bronchial secretions which will dilute tenacious, inflammatory secretions. Ammonium chloride and potassium iodide are the headliners in this field. The nauseant expectorants (ipecac, emetine, tartar emetic, and apomorphine) do the same and in addition, have an emetic action. Other remedies soothe the inflamed membranes. Most of the oldtimers belong to this group including sirup of acacia, licorice, glycerin, cane sugar, cough drops, and hot drinks.

The drawback to these products is that they must be swallowed, but their effect does no go beyond the throat. As a result, they have been replaced largely by drugs that are inhaled in a vapor (eucalyptol and tincture of benzoin) or in an aerosol mixture. The latter has a wide range of usefulness because products such as penicillin can be incorporated into these mists, to produce a direct effect upon the causative germs. Drugs also are available to relieve bronchial spasm and to dry up the secretions as the need arises. These products are used in ordinary colds as well as in bronchitis of allergic origin.

Inhalations of five to 10 per cent carbon dioxide with oxygen are used now and then to stimulate breathing and help nature eliminate inflammatory products from the bronchi. Sometimes oxygen is combined with helium. These measures usually are reserved for patients who are extremely weak or whose bodily processes are depressed through poisoning or anesthesia. Occasionally it becomes necessary to pass a tube and withdraw the sections through suction. The same process (bronchoscopy) also offers an opportunity to inject drugs directly into the air passageways. Iodinized oil or oil mixed with a sulfonamide or an antibiotic are utilized.

Of course, the ideal remedy is to eliminate the cause of cough. If cancer or a chronic lung disease is to blame, the symptom will persist until the diseased part of the lung is removed. When a common cold is responsible, the above mentioned remedies are advised even though they are not curative.

SELF-POISONING

R. L. writes: I never hear doctors use the word, autointoxication, any more. What do they call this condition now?

REPLY

The term is not used as often as in the past because we now know that many of the conditions previously blamed on this catchall are the result of infection, dietary indiscretions, and nervousness.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Beall Wants More Flood Job Money

As usual, United States Senator J. Glenn Beall is in the forefront of the battle to get more federal funds for vital construction projects in the Cumberland area.

Almost alone, Mr. Beall, then a member of the House of Representatives, waged a successful campaign for completion of the Savage River Dam which, while still in its infancy as years go, already has proved its value.

It was Senator Beall, too, who got the ball rolling on Cumberand's multi-million dollar flood control project now partly completed.

This past Tuesday the House of Representatives passed and sent to the Senate an Army civil functions bill which included in it $600,000 for the local flood control project in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Realizing the constantly impending danger here, Senator Beall immediately went to bat to raise the federal ante by another half a million dollars.

In the past he has had a remarkable record of success in getting government approval of plans for the improvement of this section. Sometime the law of averages is bound to catch up with him and perhaps this will be the time, but we have no hesitancy in predicting that it will be after only a tireless battle that such occurs.

If it should happen you can depend on Senator Beall returning to the battle in behalf of Western Maryland at the first succeeding opportunity.

Spring's Arrival

President Roosevelt was able to change the date of Thanksgiving for several years because it is set by presidential proclamation, but no president can control the relative position of the sun and earth, which alone determines the day and hour at which one season gives way to another.

What makes the day fluctuate is that the earth is not tidy enough to go around the sun in exactly 365 days, but takes nearly six hours longer. Leap year quadrenially resets the calendar.

The seasons are of uneven length, because the earth follows an egg-shaped orbit around the sun. Summer is the longest in this hemisphere, the shortest below the equator, and winter is longest here—seasons, that is.

Well, anyway, welcome spring.

These Days

African Nationalism

I happened to see a report of a meeting at the YWCA in Yonkers, N. Y., which puzzles me no end. Dr. Ernest Kalibala of Uganda, who, the report says, was a former area specialist, whatever that may be, for the United Nations Trusteeship Department, had been invited by the YWCA to make a speech. According to the newspaper account, he literally bawled out everybody, including the United States and the audience.

To the audience, he said:

"If Jesus Christ came to Yonkers, what church would He enter? In what church would He be accepted? None. He would be called a subversive person."

Of the United States, Dr. Kalibala said that American money and arms are blocking world peace. Of American leadership, he said that there was a deficit of statesmen. ". . . You cannot get world peace by spending money and men without producing world leaders."

Of Russia, he said:

" 'There is a vacuum in Europe. Russia is there to fill it.' Later he added, 'Communists are here to stay. Nothing the United States can do will wipe them out. Russia has more to say in Asia than you have. To solve that problem, the need is for more statesmen.' "

Of the Mau Maus, he said:

". . . the Mau Maus there are killing the white people, and that is the only thing preventing the world from forgetting Africa!"

Then the "Yonkers Herald Statesman" added:

"Some among his hearers expressed a feeling of penitence, and asked what they might do as individuals to help the cause of world peace and the cause of freedom in Africa."

What was there to be penitent about? Why do Americans enjoy listening to their country and their leaders being berated by foreigners? When Dr. Kalibala said that our leaders today are "only military men," he was criticizing President Eisenhower. In this news account, not one word appears to show that anyone arose to criticize this foreigner's bad manners in attacking a country which offered him its unrestricted hospitality. Those who continue to say that our freedoms are being restricted have here an excellent example of a foreigner attacking our country, our President and an audience in utter freedom, without either official restraint or the inhibitions of good manners. And some in the audience expressed penitence!

There is much of this going on in the United States, foreigners coming here from all sorts of countries to exhort us to dislike our own country, or to influence us to oppose a position taken by an American administration and to favor the position adopted by some other country. For many years, the Indians have conducted such a propaganda in the United States. I receive pamphlets, booklets, broadsides and all sorts of printed matter, some expensively gotten up, much of it telling how superior some country's policy is to that of the United States.

I suppose in a free country everything is possible, but I wonder whether, let us say, the British or the French would welcome an American traveling about their country criticizing its government, its leaders or even its people? How much of this do we need to take to preserve our free institutions?

Maybe if there had not been such a vigorous campaign carried on by the Washington Times-Herald against Communists in the government and if The Washington Post had not as a rule taken the other side of the argument so vigorously, the merger would have passed off with little notice. But now demands have arisen from many Times-Herald readers for another morning newspaper, and there are rumors in the air that millionaires from Texas and elsewhere are being importuned to put up the 10 to 15 million dollars which would be required to finance such a project.

Starting a new newspaper in Washington would be quite a problem for anyone, even with a big bankroll, since The Times-Herald has been losing an estimated $1,000,000 a year—possibly because there are too many papers dividing the market. But it is fair to say that today there is sadness among those in and outside the government who have regarded The Times-Herald as a champion of their point of view. A feeling prevails that the anti-Communist crusade has lost its most articulate exponent in the national capital.

McCormick's Health Not Good

Just why Colonel McCormick decided to sell has not been revealed, but it is generally accepted that his health has not been good. He is 73 years old, and Mrs. McCormick has been urging him to shed some of his responsibilities, especially in Washington.

The Washington Post is owned by Eugene Meyer, now 78 years old, formerly chairman of the Federal Reserve Board under the Hoover administration. He made his principal fortune in investment banking in Wall Street. Members of his family are active in the paper. The new owners paid approximately $8,500,000 for the privilege of burying their competitor on weekdays and eliminating one competing paper on Sundays. It is believed that the purchase contract provides for the asquisition of the plant and equipment of The Times-Herald and that arrangements to dispose of the printing presses and machines to some enterprise outside of Washington have been or will be made. So any new newspaper would have a hard time starting right away, no matter how much capital it might be able to mobilize.

Mergers Have Worked

Hence those who today feel that the only Washington morning paper for the President and members of Congress to read will be a paper with news items and editorials slanted to a so-called "liberal" or New Dealish point of view will have to trust to the good sense of The Post management to recognize that in the long run one-sidedness never pays where there is a monopoly. For there is always the possibility of a morning paper being issued by one of the present evening newspapers if the competitive situation should really encourage it.

The theory of the critics that only one viewpoint has been printed in The Washington Post, both in its news and editorial columns, may be refuted by the experience in other cities where mergers have occurred. Again and again the merged publication has recognized the wisdom of printing articles from contributors presenting a view opposite to its own editorials. It has usually led to an elimination of bias in the handling of front-page news and in a balanced selection of dispatches from the press associations, which normally cover both sides of a controversial subject in an objective manner.

Two other newspapers remain in the field here—The Evening Star, owned by and operated now in the main by the fourth generation of the Noyes-Kauffman-Adams family, which founded the property 101 years ago—and The Washington Daily News, owned by the Scripps-Howard chain. They do not publish morning editions, though The Star has a Sunday issue. It is reliably reported that neither The Star nor The Daily News intends to publish a morning edition. People in the national capital, of course, read New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore newspapers, which come in here in large numbers but do not have the wide distribution through home delivery that a local newspaper would maintain.

Expect Circulation Increases

The Evening Star, according to the latest figures of the Audit Bureau of Circulation, has an average of 234,660 daily and 264,437 on Sundays. The Times-Herald had 253-532 daily and 287,200 on Sundays. The Washington Daily News has 138,778.

The comparable Washington Post figures are 201,645 daily and 200,163 on Sundays. It is not expected that The Post will be able to retain all the Times-Herald circulation, as much of this will go to The Star, especially on Sundays when the public will have two Sunday papers to choose from—The Post and The Star. Many readers of The Times-Herald are telling their friends they are canceling their subscriptions to the merged paper, and The Star is finding itself with an abnormally large number of new subscriptions flowing in. This probably will also be the experience of The Washington Daily News. Agencies in advertising centers were being told, it is reported, that The Post expects to average 300,000 daily and 330,000 on Sundays. Officials of The Star and The Washington Daily News were not prepared as yet to estimate their expected increases.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

You can manipulate the fantastic orgies of totalitarianism by foreign evaluation of American infiltration.

What symbol most approximates the ideologies of free and equal citizens who breathe pro rata air and walk in average struts?

Is it our universal suffrage, freedom of worship, motor cars, magnificent compassions, organized charities, electric ice-boxes, two-platoon football, double ice-cream scoops, terrific inventions, incredible highways and et scattera?

Is it Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson? It's nobody and nothing else but Mickey Mouse, king of the rats.

Even before there was a Mickey the Kaiser said in 1914, "I will stand for no nonsense from America after the war."

It turned out that after the war the Kaiser stood for nothing. He lammed.

But even before his war Shickelgruber banned the Mickus from the Teutonic Leiberstraum. And before that Benito the Muss said the play-pen was too small for them both. So Michael Rodentus was exiled hoop, staves and animation.

Moscow next takes up the chain war of extermination on our reeled pet. The Kremlin read Mike the Nibbler out of the party with good Soviet anethema, cat-calls and smudge pots.

We are warning Malakov, Stinkovitch and way stations of the inevitable. Mickey never loses.

Honesty The Best Policy

By Brother Barnabas

Honesty is where you find it. It has been found to be the "best policy" so often by so many people, that it has become an ingrained disposition, so that the average person in all walks of life can be trusted.

You never see a tip lifted from the dining table that was intended for the waitress. No reputable merchant will misrepresent his goods or overcharge, and no banker will ever knowingly shortchange a customer.

However, it takes the exception to prove the rule, and there are now and then flagrant examples of mink coats deals, embezzlements, kick-backs, and other forms of dishonesty, of which there are many.

Nobody wants to be caught in a lie or a theft, so the offense has been mollified by attaching a codicil to the Ten Commandments: "Thou shalt not get caught."

The law is the commonly accepted yardstick of honesty. So long as men keep "within the law" they are reputable citizens. But mores make ancient forms uncouth.

It used to be in New England that a hungry man caught stealing a loaf of bread or a goose would be put in jail. In those days it was said:

"The law locks up both man and woman
"Who steals the goose from off the common,
"But lets the greater felon loose
"Who steals the common from the goose."

"Emperor Jones," in Eugene O'Neill's drama by that name, makes this sententious remark:

Appropriated, Not Stolen

"For de little stealin' dey gits you in jail soon or late. For de big stealin" dey makes you emperor and puts you in de Hall o' Fame when you croaks. If dey's one thing I learns in 10 years on de Pullman cars listenin' to de white quality talk, it's dat same fact."

Smart Parak

A parakeet named Joey made the London newspapers last week. He had alighted on the shoulder of a bricklayer walking home in suburban Southfields.

For seven days the bird said nothing. Then he said, "Renown 2961." The bricklayer telephoned the number, and the owner reclaimed Joey.

There ought to be a "homing pigeon" attachment to the books we lend. A carpenter posted a sign over his workbench: "The tools I lend are all out."

The following authentic story comes down from the ancient past: A man went out one night to steal a sheep. He caught one, tied its legs together, passed the rope over his head, and started for home.

In climbing a fence, the rope slipped, caught him by the neck and strangled him. Next morning the lord of the manor found the dead man hanging on one side of the fence, and the sheep on the other. He had a monument erected as a warning to all who love mutton better than virtue.

One of the most vicious forms of dishonesty is plagarism. In the days before there were copyright laws, Stephen A. Foster gave a sample copy of "O Susanna" to E. P. Christy, the leader of a minstrel show, who turned it over to his New York publisher, modestly crediting himself as its composer. Later, a Louisville publisher printed the song, together with "Old Uncle Ned" and made a profit of $10,000 of which Foster received not a cent.

Good Diplomatic Relations

Honesty is often rewarding. Last September 23 a New York cabby received a letter from the U. S. Embassy in Caracas, Venezuela, which enclosed two clippings from the Caracas newspaper, El Nacional, giving an account of the cabby's honesty in connection with the return of a pocket-book to a little Venezuelan girl who had dropped it in his cab.

The writer has a banker friend who vouched for the accuracy of this story: A cashier found his cash at the end of the day exhausted—all but 25 cents.

If a customer should make a substantial deposit at the opening of the bank the next morning all would probably be well. But if a check should be presented for payment he would be unable to pay it and the bank would have to close.

After sweating blood, he decided to go to a rival bank whose president was considered hard-boiled, and lay the situation before him and ask his advice.

His advice was to take the 25 cents, buy a dose of cyanide of potassium, and take it, and jump in the river.

"But I can't do it, for the quarter is not mine."

The president yielded. "Because you are an honest man, I am going with you to your bank immediately with a deposit of $10,000."

Honest to goodness yours,

BROTHER BARNABAS

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

One of my friends has been needling me for years because the medical profession has so little to offer for the relief of cough. I vowed some day to list such remedies and after reading a recent article by Dr. A. Worth Hobby of Atlanta, this is it:

A host of cough medicines are available to ease strain and lessen the reflex. These remedies act like aspirin in that they help the symptom but not necessarily the disease. Cough medicines usually contain substances that are absorbed through the wall of the stomach and are transmitted via the blood stream to the membranes of the bronchial tree. This group is known as expectorants. Those that contain codein, opium, and pantopon depress the cough reflex and have a sedative effect.

Saline expectorants liquefy the thick mucus, making it easier to bring up. This is done by stimulating bronchial secretions which will dilute tenacious, inflammatory secretions. Ammonium chloride and potassium iodide are the headliners in this field. The nauseant expectorants (ipecac, emetine, tartar emetic, and apomorphine) do the same and in addition, have an emetic action. Other remedies soothe the inflamed membranes. Most of the oldtimers belong to this group including sirup of acacia, licorice, glycerin, cane sugar, cough drops, and hot drinks.

The drawback to these products is that they must be swallowed, but their effect does no go beyond the throat. As a result, they have been replaced largely by drugs that are inhaled in a vapor (eucalyptol and tincture of benzoin) or in an aerosol mixture. The latter has a wide range of usefulness because products such as penicillin can be incorporated into these mists, to produce a direct effect upon the causative germs. Drugs also are available to relieve bronchial spasm and to dry up the secretions as the need arises. These products are used in ordinary colds as well as in bronchitis of allergic origin.

Inhalations of five to 10 per cent carbon dioxide with oxygen are used now and then to stimulate breathing and help nature eliminate inflammatory products from the bronchi. Sometimes oxygen is combined with helium. These measures usually are reserved for patients who are extremely weak or whose bodily processes are depressed through poisoning or anesthesia. Occasionally it becomes necessary to pass a tube and withdraw the sections through suction. The same process (bronchoscopy) also offers an opportunity to inject drugs directly into the air passageways. Iodinized oil or oil mixed with a sulfonamide or an antibiotic are utilized.

Of course, the ideal remedy is to eliminate the cause of cough. If cancer or a chronic lung disease is to blame, the symptom will persist until the diseased part of the lung is removed. When a common cold is responsible, the above mentioned remedies are advised even though they are not curative.

SELF-POISONING

R. L. writes: I never hear doctors use the word, autointoxication, any more. What do they call this condition now?

REPLY

The term is not used as often as in the past because we now know that many of the conditions previously blamed on this catchall are the result of infection, dietary indiscretions, and nervousness.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

WHITE SOX'S BILL WILSON

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla.—Collecting records off the field is Bill Wilson's hobby but he'd like to add a few major league records to his collection of hit tunes, polkas and waltzes he has at his Long Beach, Calif., home.

Wilson, a rookie outfield prospect with the Chicago White Sox, almost came into baseball with a "famous name" background for his dad once caught the great Grover Cleveland Alexander when Big Alex was starting to pitch on the semi-pro lots back at St. Paul, Nebraska, where the Sox rookie was born.

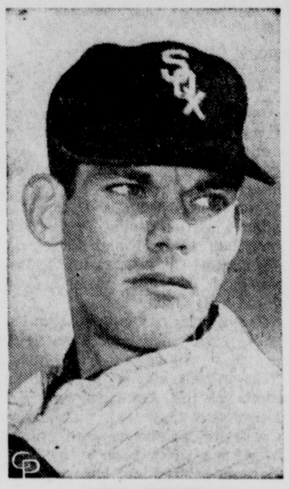
However, Alexander had plenty of stuff even then and Wilson's dad suffered so many hand bruises from catching the star-to-be that he gave up baseball.

Wilson's chance with the White Sox this spring is based on his record with Memphis last year when he came out of the service at Fort Ord, California, and smashed 34 home runs while batting in 101 and hitting .311 for the Southern association club.

WILSON was spending his second season at Memphis last year, although a two-year Army hitch had interrupted his career. The previous year at Memphis was also a good one for Bill whacked 36 homers and drove in 125 runs that season, 1950.

While the Pale Hose have five veteran outfielders on the roster, Wilson has a definite chance, according to Paul Richards, the lanky Sox manager. "He is a fine defensive player and has a great arm," says Richards, who also likes the youth's thumping in the minor leagues.

A high school star in California,



BILL WILSON

Bill received his first pro chance when his high school coach recommended him to the Anaheim club of the newly-formed Sunset league back in 1947. Even then he showed plenty of power, smacking 23 home runs and driving in 116.

The young outfielder was optioned to Wenatchee the next season and then moved up to Sacramento in the Pacific Coast league. After two years at Sacramento the White Sox purchased his contract and sent him to Memphis where he had that big year prior to going into the service.

When he came out of the service Bill played winter league ball in Cuba to get back in stride for he played only one year while in the service. Bill gives Del Baker, his manager at Sacramento, a big hand for helping him in his career, both as a batter and as a fielder.

Giardello Stops Willie Troy In Seventh Round

Referee Al Berl Halts Slaughter

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — Joey Giardello, the world's second ranking middle weight contender from Philadelphia, floored durable Willie Troy three times tonight and handed the young Washington Negro a savage beating to win a technical knockout in 39 seconds of the seventh round.

Giardello, a 13 to 10 favorite, weighed 159 to Troy's 156½.

The clever and hard-hitting Giardello dropped the 21-year-old Troy twice in the first round and once in the second round with right hand smashes. Each time the game youngster staggered to his feet at the count of three, but was given the mandatory eight count.

Troy, winner of his last seven fights by knockouts, took a brutal beating from then on but he wasn't floored again. Referee Al Berl finally stopped the slaughter after Joey walloped Willie with eight straight punches to the jaw.

The cocky Brooklyn-born Philadelphian hit the strong seventh ranked contender with everything he had, but he never stopped Willie from moving in.

Even when he was obviously out on his feet, Troy gamely plodded forward as the crowd of 8,159 marvelled at his ability to absorb the fearful punishment. The gross gate was $31,225. The scheduled ten rounder was broadcast and telecast nationally.

Before the fight, Giardello said "he's a sucker for a right."

Bradley Tops Southern Cal In NCAA Tilt

Braves Win, 74-72, In Opening Battle

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP) — The fighting Bradley Braves drove back from an 11-point deficit to claw their way into the finals of the National Collegiate Basketball championship tonight with a 74-72 victory over Southern California.

Penn State met LaSalle in the second game.

Behind more than half the game, the Braves from Peoria, Ill., grabbed the lead for good with a minute and three seconds left on a driving lay-in by Bob Carney.

With 17 seconds left they got a gift when Carney fell over a stumbling Southern Cal player in mid-court and drew a pair of free throws. He sank both to put Bradley ahead 74-70.

Glenn Smith's Scoring Spree In Final Period Wins Contest

Lions' Center Gets 13 Of 15 Points; Vinson Edged By Pax, 58-57

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 19 (AP) — Glenn Smith scored all but two of Piedmont's 15 points in a cruicial fourth quarter today as Piedmont High gained the finals of the West Virginia Class B High School Basketball tournament with a 49-44 victory over Chester.

Pax gained a 58-57 victory over Huntington Vinson to enter the finals against the tall, rangy Piedmont squad. Two free throws by Larry Tyree with six seconds left to play gave Pax its victory.

Finals At 1:30 Today

Finals in the Class B competition will be held at 1:30 p.m. Class A finals were set for 3:15 p.m.

The Piedmont-Chester contest didn't pick up speed until after the first half, which ended 19-18 in Chester's favor.

All-Stater Bobby Niland of Piedmont tied it up with a free throw to open the third period, but little Joe Delekta answered with a lay up to make it 21-19.

Chester pulled three points in front and held the margin until—with 10 seconds to go in the period and the Northern Panhandle squad leading 34-32 — Piedmont's 6-3 George Campbell slipped in to knot the score.

Howard Reed, high scorer for Chester with 13 points, came back with a lay-up just as the third period ended.

Smith Takes Over

It was at this point that Smith, whose two previous points had been free throws, came alive.

He introduced the fourth quarter with an overhander to tie the score at 36-36 and put Piedmont ahead with a foul toss with 1:50 gone in the period.

Smith immediately followed with a layup and Campbell added a tip-in to aid Piedmont's campaign. When Smith contributed another free throw, it was Piedmont.

Reed dunked in a long set shot to break Chester's dry spell, but Smith retaliated with an overhander. Field goals by Robert Theiss and Ted Robinson for Chester narrowed the score to 44-42, but Smith put on a whirlwind finish with a free throw, a lay up and still two more foul shots to clinch the contest for Piedmont.

Niland scored 11 points and Campbell 10 for the victors, while Reed was the only man in double figures for Chester.

Today's win extended the Mineral county team's string to twelve games. Piedmont has won 26 out of 28 starts this season.

Pax Wins 15th In Row

Pax which plays Piedmont in the championship game here Saturday afternoon posted its 20th victory in 16 outings by edging Huntington Vinson today. The Fayette countians enter the finals with a 15-game winning streak.

Piedmont High is the third school from eastern West Virginia seeking the Class B title. Keyser won it in 1923 and Moorefield went all the way in 1949.

Mullens Scores Over Stonewall By Score 79-67

Hurt Gets 33 Points, Rebels Go To Finals

MORGANTOWN, March 19—Beckley High School advanced to the finals of the West Virginia Class A scholastic basketball tournament tonight by defeating University High of Morgantown, 69-67. Beckley will play Mullens for the championship Saturday.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 19 (AP)—The Mullens Rebels, with pint-sized Vernon Hurt spearheading the charge with 33 points, upended the favored Stonewall Jackson Generals 79-67 here tonight, to break into the finals of the 41st State Class A High School basketball tournament.

Mullens will meet tomorrow afternoon the winner of the Beckley Morgantown University game which got under way at 8:45 tonight.

Hurt's performance tonight was nothing short of spectacular. The 5-8 captain hit on 12 of his 18 field goal attempts and on 9 of his 13 tries from the free throw line.

But his performance was enhanced by pistol hot ball stealing and dribbling, coupled with 3 rebounds and 6 assists.

Much of Hurt's aid against the tall stonewall team came from 5-9 Terry Penn, who scored 12 points, and 5-8 Dave Miller who added 14 of his own.

It was a matter of ball control and eagle-eyed shooting that told the story, as Mullens went into the lead for the first time with two minutes left in the first quarter and managed to stay safely in front from that moment.

Native Dancer To Race In England If Weight Handicap Is Prohibitive

Campaign Is Mapped For Grey Galloper

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — Native Dancer probably will fly to England in July for the rich King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes at Ascot if he is handicapped with "prohibitive" weight in this country.

The 1954 racing campaign for the great grey galloper was mapped by trainer Bill Winfrey who returned today to Belmont Park after a brief Florida vacation. The Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's sensational glamour colt, arrives tomorrow from his Maryland farm.

May Run In April

"He won't be ready to run until about the opening of Belmont racing in late April, and then we plan to aim for the Metropolitan and Suburban Handicaps here," Winfrey said. "His first race probably will be in a six furlongs allowance race before the Metropolitan."

The four-year-old Dancer, who was two-year-old champion in 1952 and the three-year-old champ last year, has lost only once in his 19-race career. He has been sidelined with a hoof injury since he won the American Derby at Chicago last Aug. 22. The injury cleared up in November, and the colt wintered at Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm.

Assuming that Native Dancer can win the $30,000 Metropolitan at one mile and the $50,000 Suburban at a mile and one quarter, his next major objective would be Aqueduct's $50,000 Brooklyn Handicap July 10, or the British classic at Ascot, a race worth around $80,000, July 17. The Brooklyn is a mile and one quarter, the Ascot race a mile and one half.

"First of all, though, we've got to see what kind of a horse we have this year," said Winfrey, mindful of the Dancer's stunning defeat in the 1953 Kentucky Derby.

"He's as frisky and playful as ever, and hasn't missed a day's training all winter. He's been galloping three miles a day for the last month."

To Start At 128

The Dancer can look for at least 128 when he parades postward for his first start this spring. After that, if he wins, ask Campbell.

The Dancer is fourth leading money winning horse in the world with $743,920, just $341,840 shy of Citation, the leader. Last year Native Dancer earned $513,425.

Five St. Louis Errors Help Hose To Win, 8-2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox took advantage of five St. Louis Cardinal errors today to hand the National League club an 8-2 defeat. Seven of the runs were unearned.

The White Sox attack didn't lack for hits—there were 12 of them off the Redbird hurlers, including ex-Yankee Vic Raschi.

Ward Lambert, Purdue Coach, Given Award

"Doc" Carlson Gets Ovation At Meeting

KANSAS CITY, March 19—(INS)—Ward ("Piggy") Lambert, basketball coach at Purdue University for 28 years, today was declared winner of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association's award for "outstanding service."

The 65-year old veteran retired in 1944 after winning or tying for the conference title 14 times. His last winning team was in 1940.

As is customary, retiring president Eddie Hickey of St. Louis University was given the Newton S. Hillyard Memorial award at today's luncheon of the National Association of Basketball Coaches' Convention.

Hickey said the coaches voted today to recommend to the rules committee, which meets Sunday, a return to the two 20-minute halves, instead of the present four 10-minute quarters, in an effort to reduce stalling near the end of periods.

Dr. H. C. Carlson of Pittsburgh University received a standing ovation when he climaxed his talk to the coaches by throwing the rule book out into his audience and declaring: "Let's get away from the illusion that basketball is a non-contact sport."

The veteran of 31 years as coach at Pittsburgh has retired but remains on the faculty as health director.

Tax On College Athletic Events May Be Dropped

High School Sports Are Promised Relief

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted today to scrap the federal tax on all regular season college athletic events.

The tax is now 20 per cent. A bill passed by the House earlier this week would cut the levy to 10 per cent, but the Senate committee voted to end the tax altogether.

Some Capitol Hill sources said it was a good bet now that the taxes would be wiped off the books. The House Ways and Means Committee approved the 10 per cent levy "by an awfully close margin," one source said.

While this was good news to the college men who have been bewailing the drop in attendance, the Senate committee bill was bad news to the sponsors of horse racing and dog racing.

Retain Tax On Racing

For the committee voted to keep the federal tax on racing at the present level of 20 per cent. The House bill would knock the tax down to 10 per cent as of April 1.

Senate committee aides said the philosophy was to keep the admission tax on the books as a sort of "luxury" item involving sports events where there is substantial gambling.

The exemption on college athletic events does not apply to post season games like the annual football bowls and the basketball tournaments. The tax on those events would drop from 20 to 10 per cent.

Relief For High Schools

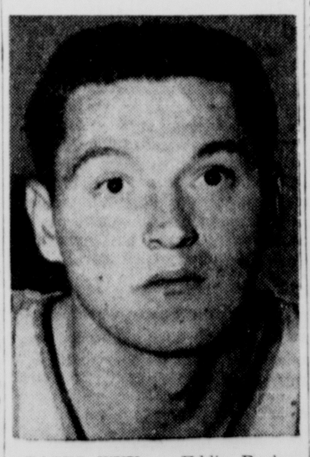
The Senate committee voted some relief, too, for high school sports. All sporting events where the admission is less than 60 cents would require no tax under the committee version of the bill. Other admissions would carry a 10 per cent levy.

The legislation now goes to the Senate floor for debate. Passage of the committee bill would send the legislation to a conference committee for ultimate resolution.

WOW Shufflers Win

The Woodmen of the World blanked the Hi Dee Club by the score of 3-0 in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night.

Bill Folk led the W.O.W. scorers with 26 points. England was high for Hi Dee Club with 19.



PACES WVU — Eddie Becker, Wheeling senior, led the scorers of West Virginia University's varsity quint for the 1953-54 season with 429 points, an average of 18.7 for 23 games. The Mountaineers won 12 out of 23 contests. Becker is a brother of Lawrence (Larry) Becker, who takes over the reins as varsity track coach at Allegany High School this year.

Pence's Total 3,001 Boxing Fails To Draw

1925 Buc Star Dies Big Joe Lauds Gola

BOB PENCE has completed his eighth consecutive year of pro basketball in Cumberland and he has scored 3,001 points for an average of 14.8 per game.

Since pro basketball was revived here by the Amvets during the 1946-47 season, Pence has appeared in 203 of the 212 games played by the Amvets, Dukes, Spas and Old Germans and he has paced the local team in point-making in seven of the eight campaigns.

Lou Bell has figured in more games than any player, a total of 207 of the 212 played. "Iron Man" Bell has scored 2,270 points over the eight seasons.

The eight clubs on which Pence and Bell played won 119 games and lost 93 for a percentage of .561.

Pence's point total this season for 13 games was 242. Bell was the runner-up with 156 in 13 games. They were the only players to participate in all of the contests.

The Old Germans wound up the 1953-54 schedule with a nine and four record. When the Dukes and Spas were in the All-American League from 1948 through 1951 they played from 32 to 42 games a season.

Scarcity of good road teams has a great deal to do with the decline of independent basketball not only here but in many other communities.

AMATEUR boxing is on the toboggan, according to word from Baltimore where only 280 paying patrons witnessed the opening round matches in the South Atlantic AAU tourney Monday night at the Coliseum.

Five years ago when the tourney was held here there were 579 present on opening night, 742 the second night and 987 paid to see the finals.

That was the last time Cumberland boxers appeared in the S.A.A. tourney. "Skeets" Starkey, Jim Folk and Earl Smith qualified for the National AAU bouts at Boston and were eliminated in the early rounds.

A MOST colorful part of the West Virginia high school basketball tournament is missing this weekend at Morgantown.

All bands have been eliminated from the tourney.

GEORGE GRANTHAM, 53, one of the stars of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1925 pennant winners, died the other day at Kingman, Ariz.

Grantham was with the Buccos from 1925 to 1932 and never batted under .300. He hit .326 the year the Buccaneers won the pennant and played second base and the outfield. George also played with the Cubs, Redlegs and Giants and retired from baseball in 1934.

The Pirates of 1925 beat Washington in the World Series after losing three of the first four games.

Gola, who will be a guest speaker at the LaSalle High School Sports Award Banquet Sunday, March 28 in SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall, owned an average of 23.3 points for the 28 games played prior to last night's N.C.A.A. tilt with Penn State at Kansas City.

He has scored 652 points, including 240 field goals in 592 tries for a shooting average of .405 and he has posted a .726 mark by coverting 172 of 237 free throws. Prior to the N.C.A.A. semi-final the Philadelphia Explorers had won 24 and lost 4.

THE PEN-MAR Baseball League may be the only eight-club circuit in the area this season. There's a report seven teams are lined up and Centerville may be the eighth.

There's been so much jumping this winter that it's hard to believe the make-up of the leagues until the teams actually take the field.

It looks like the Bi-State League has melted to two teams since last Sunday if reports are true that Lt. Savage and Grantsville have joined the Pen-Mar and Centerville may follow suit.

If this keeps up the Bi-State may set a precedent for local sandlot baseball—a league with officers but no teams.

GEORGE J. DIERING III, sophomore at Forest Park High School, is Baltimore's first major league batboy in 51 years.

The 15-year-old lad earned this honor by entering and winning out over a field of over 300 contestants in essay competition.

George's letter on why he wanted the job as batboy was judged one of the ten best received at the Oriole office, and later, after their personal interview with the lad, Business Manager Herb Armstrong and other club officials awarded him the position.

ROBERT "Sparky" Chisholm was home over the weekend and stopped in to tell us he likes the set-up at Newton, N. C., where he is an instructor at the Carolinas' Baseball School.

Jimmy Foxx, the Hall of Fame slugger from Maryland, who gained fame when he played for Connie Mack's Athletics, is the chief supervisor of the school, located about 40 miles west of Charlotte.

"Sparky" was pleased to hear that Al Martin has signed a contract to umpire in the Evangeline League of Louisiana. Chisholm worked in that loop two years ago after spending his first year as an arbiter in the Appalachian League.

Olson Smacks Homer, Parnell Is Hit Hard

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19 (AP)—A pair of unearned runs off reliever Murray Dickson paved the way for the Boston Red Sox to chalk up a 7 to 6 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in a game halted after six innings by rain.

Two errors following Al Van Alstyle's double allowed the Sox to erase a 6-5 deficit.

Boston had jumped to a 3 run lead in the third inning on a two run homer by Karl Olson and a double by Harry Agganis followed by a Floyd Baker single.

Philadelphia bounced back for six runs against Mel Parnell in the fourth inning as 10 batters went to the plate.

Cleveland Beats New York Giants

Indians Snap 5-Game Losing Streak, 2-1

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 19 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians nipped the New York Giants, 2-1, today to end a five-game losing streak. For the Giants, the loss snapped a five-game winning skein.

Outfielder Dale Mitchell drove home the first Cleveland run in the fourth with a single to break a scoreless tie. In the fifth, a single by Al Rosen, the American Leagues most valuable player, fetched across the second run.

The Giants were blanked until the ninth when two singles, a walk and a fielder's choice produced their lone tally.

Capitol Handicap To Feature Laurel Opening Day Card

LAUREL, Md., March 19 (AP)—Even with allowances for being a female, Cerise Reine, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, will have the heaviest burden to bear in tomorrow's Capitol Handicap on Laurel's spring opening program.

The 4-year-old filly rates a five-pound allowance because of her sex. But Cerise Reine's 118 pounds still is the most among the 13 horses entered for the three quarter of a mile sprint. Her stablemate, Mr. Paradise, goes at 11 pounds lighter.

There are 19 days of racing scheduled this spring at Laurel to be followed by meetings at Bowie and Pimlico, the other two mile tracks in Maryland.

The weather forecast is for showers tonight and tomorrow. A muddy track would enhance the victory outlook for Cerise Reine who has showed a liking for the slop.

WHITE SOX'S BILL WILSON

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla.—Collecting records off the field is Bill Wilson's hobby but he'd like to add a few major league records to his collection of hit tunes, polkas and waltzes he has at his Long Beach, Calif., home.

Wilson, a rookie outfield prospect with the Chicago White Sox, almost came into baseball with a "famous name" background for his dad once caught the great Grover Cleveland Alexander when Big Alex was starting to pitch on the semi-pro lots back at St. Paul, Nebraska, where the Sox rookie was born.

However, Alexander had plenty of stuff even then and Wilson's dad suffered so many hand bruises from catching the star-to-be that he gave up baseball.

Wilson's chance with the White Sox this spring is based on his record with Memphis last year when he came out of the service at Fort Ord, California, and smashed 34 home runs while batting in 101 and hitting .311 for the Southern association club.

BILL WILSON

WILSON was spending his second season at Memphis last year, although a two-year Army hitch had interrupted his career. The previous year at Memphis was also a good one for Bill whacked 36 homers and drove in 125 runs that season, 1950.

While the Pale Hose have five veteran outfielders on the roster, Wilson has a definite chance, according to Paul Richards, the lanky Sox manager. "He is a fine defensive player and has a great arm," says Richards, who also likes the youth's thumping in the minor leagues.

A high school star in California, Bill received his first pro chance when his high school coach recommended him to the Anaheim club of the newly-formed Sunset league back in 1947. Even then he showed plenty of power, smacking 23 home runs and driving in 116.

The young outfielder was optioned to Wenatchee the next season and then moved up to Sacramento in the Pacific Coast league. After two years at Sacramento the White Sox purchased his contract and sent him to Memphis where he had that big year prior to going into the service.

When he came out of the service Bill played winter league ball in Cuba to get back in stride for he played only one year while in the service. Bill gives Del Baker, his manager at Sacramento, a big hand for helping him in his career, both as a batter and as a fielder.

Giardello Stops Willie Troy In Seventh Round

Referee Al Berl Halts Slaughter

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — Joey Giardello, the world's second ranking middle weight contender from Philadelphia, floored durable Willie Troy three times tonight and handed the young Washington Negro a savage beating to win a technical knockout in 39 seconds of the seventh round.

Giardello, a 13 to 10 favorite, weighed 159 to Troy's 156½.

The clever and hard-hitting Giardello dropped the 21-year-old Troy twice in the first round and once in the second round with right hand smashes. Each time the game youngster staggered to his feet at the count of three, but was given the mandatory eight count.

Troy, winner of his last seven fights by knockouts, took a brutal beating from then on but he wasn't floored again. Referee Al Berl finally stopped the slaughter after Joey walloped Willie with eight straight punches to the jaw.

The cocky Brooklyn-born Philadelphian hit the strong seventh ranked contender with everything he had, but he never stopped Willie from moving in.

Even when he was obviously out on his feet, Troy gamely plodded forward as the crowd of 8,159 marvelled at his ability to absorb the fearful punishment. The gross gate was $31,225. The scheduled ten rounder was broadcast and telecast nationally.

Before the fight, Giardello said "he's a sucker for a right."

Bradley Tops Southern Cal In NCAA Tilt

Braves Win, 74-72, In Opening Battle

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP) — The fighting Bradley Braves drove back from an 11-point deficit to claw their way into the finals of the National Collegiate Basketball championship tonight with a 74-72 victory over Southern California.

Penn State met LaSalle in the second game.

Behind more than half the game, the Braves from Peoria, Ill., grabbed the lead for good with a minute and three seconds left on a driving lay-in by Bob Carney.

With 17 seconds left they got a gift when Carney fell over a stumbling Southern Cal player in mid-court and drew a pair of free throws. He sank both to put Bradley ahead 74-70.

Mullens Scores Over Stonewall By Score 79-67

Hurt Gets 33 Points, Rebels Go To Finals

MORGANTOWN, March 19—Beckley High School advanced to the finals of the West Virginia Class A scholastic basketball tournament tonight by defeating University High of Morgantown, 69-67. Beckley will play Mullens for the championship Saturday.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 19 (AP)—The Mullens Rebels, with pint-sized Vernon Hurt spearheading the charge with 33 points, upended the favored Stonewall Jackson Generals 79-67 here tonight, to break into the finals of the 41st State Class A High School basketball tournament.

Mullens will meet tomorrow afternoon the winner of the Beckley Morgantown University game which got under way at 8:45 tonight.

Hurt's performance tonight was nothing short of spectacular. The 5-8 captain hit on 12 of his 18 field goal attempts and on 9 of his 13 tries from the free throw line.

But his performance was enhanced by pistol hot ball stealing and dribbling, coupled with 3 rebounds and 6 assists.

Much of Hurt's aid against the tall stonewall team came from 5-9 Terry Penn, who scored 12 points, and 5-8 Dave Miller who added 14 of his own.

It was a matter of ball control and eagle-eyed shooting that told the story, as Mullens went into the lead for the first time with two minutes left in the first quarter and managed to stay safely in front from that moment.

Glenn Smith's Scoring Spree In Final Period Wins Contest

Lions' Center Gets 13 Of 15 Points; Vinson Edged By Pax, 58-57

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 19 (AP) — Glenn Smith scored all but two of Piedmont's 15 points in a cruicial fourth quarter today as Piedmont High gained the finals of the West Virginia Class B High School Basketball tournament with a 49-44 victory over Chester.

Pax gained a 58-57 victory over Huntington Vinson to enter the finals against the tall, rangy Piedmont squad. Two free throws by Larry Tyree with six seconds left to play gave Pax its victory.

Finals At 1:30 Today

Finals in the Class B competition will be held at 1:30 p.m. Class A finals were set for 3:15 p.m.

The Piedmont-Chester contest didn't pick up speed until after the first half, which ended 19-18 in Chester's favor.

All-Stater Bobby Niland of Piedmont tied it up with a free throw to open the third period, but little Joe Delekta answered with a lay up to make it 21-19.

Chester pulled three points in front and held the margin until—with 10 seconds to go in the period and the Northern Panhandle squad leading 34-32 — Piedmont's 6-3 George Campbell slipped in to knot the score.

Howard Reed, high scorer for Chester with 13 points, came back with a lay-up just as the third period ended.

Smith Takes Over

It was at this point that Smith, whose two previous points had been free throws, came alive.

He introduced the fourth quarter with an overhander to tie the score at 36-36 and put Piedmont ahead with a foul toss with 1:50 gone in the period.

Smith immediately followed with a layup and Campbell added a tip-in to aid Piedmont's campaign. When Smith contributed another free throw, it was Piedmont.

Reed dunked in a long set shot to break Chester's dry spell, but Smith retaliated with an overhander. Field goals by Robert Theiss and Ted Robinson for Chester narrowed the score to 44-42, but Smith put on a whirlwind finish with a free throw, a lay up and still two more foul shots to clinch the contest for Piedmont.

Niland scored 11 points and Campbell 10 for the victors, while Reed was the only man in double figures for Chester.

Today's win extended the Mineral county team's string to twelve games. Piedmont has won 26 out of 28 starts this season.

Pax Wins 15th In Row

Pax which plays Piedmont in the championship game here Saturday afternoon posted its 20th victory in 16 outings by edging Huntington Vinson today. The Fayette countians enter the finals with a 15-game winning streak.

Piedmont High is the third school from eastern West Virginia seeking the Class B title. Keyser won it in 1923 and Moorefield went all the way in 1949.

Native Dancer To Race In England If Weight Handicap Is Prohibitive

Campaign Is Mapped For Grey Galloper

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — Native Dancer probably will fly to England in July for the rich King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes at Ascot if he is handicapped with "prohibitive" weight in this country.

The 1954 racing campaign for the great grey galloper was mapped by trainer Bill Winfrey who returned today to Belmont Park after a brief Florida vacation. The Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's sensational glamour colt, arrives tomorrow from his Maryland farm.

May Run In April

"He won't be ready to run until about the opening of Belmont racing in late April, and then we plan to aim for the Metropolitan and Suburban Handicaps here," Winfrey said. "His first race probably will be in a six furlongs allowance race before the Metropolitan."

The four-year-old Dancer, who was two-year-old champion in 1952 and the three-year-old champ last year, has lost only once in his 19-race career. He has been sidelined with a hoof injury since he won the American Derby at Chicago last Aug. 22. The injury cleared up in November, and the colt wintered at Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm.

Assuming that Native Dancer can win the $30,000 Metropolitan at one mile and the $50,000 Suburban at a mile and one quarter, his next major objective would be Aqueduct's $50,000 Brooklyn Handicap July 10, or the British classic at Ascot, a race worth around $80,000, July 17. The Brooklyn is a mile and one quarter, the Ascot race a mile and one half.

"First of all, though, we've got to see what kind of a horse we have this year," said Winfrey, mindful of the Dancer's stunning defeat in the 1953 Kentucky Derby.

"He's as frisky and playful as ever, and hasn't missed a day's training all winter. He's been galloping three miles a day for the last month."

To Start At 128

The Dancer can look for at least 128 when he parades postward for his first start this spring. After that, if he wins, ask Campbell.

The Dancer is fourth leading money winning horse in the world with $743,920, just $341,840 shy of Citation, the leader. Last year Native Dancer earned $513,425.

Five St. Louis Errors Help Hose To Win, 8-2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox took advantage of five St. Louis Cardinal errors today to hand the National League club an 8-2 defeat. Seven of the runs were unearned.

The White Sox, in contrast to the slovenly fielding of the St. Louisans, played errorless ball.

Tax On College Athletic Events May Be Dropped

High School Sports Are Promised Relief

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted today to scrap the federal tax on all regular season college athletic events.

The tax is now 20 per cent. A bill passed by the House earlier this week would cut the levy to 10 per cent, but the Senate committee voted to end the tax altogether.

Some Capitol Hill sources said it was a good bet now that the taxes would be wiped off the books. The House Ways and Means Committee approved the 10 per cent levy "by an awfully close margin," one source said.

While this was good news to the college men who have been bewailing the drop in attendance, the Senate committee bill was bad news to the sponsors of horse racing and dog racing.

Retain Tax On Racing

For the committee voted to keep the federal tax on racing at the present level of 20 per cent. The House bill would knock the tax down to 10 per cent as of April 1.

Senate committee aides said the philosophy was to keep the admission tax on the books as a sort of "luxury" item involving sports events where there is substantial gambling.

The exemption on college athletic events does not apply to post season games like the annual football bowls and the basketball tournaments. The tax on those events would drop from 20 to 10 per cent.

Relief For High Schools

The Senate committee voted some relief, too, for high school sports. All sporting events where the admission is less than 60 cents would require no tax under the committee version of the bill. Other admissions would carry a 10 per cent levy.

The legislation now goes to the Senate floor for debate. Passage of the committee bill would send the legislation to a conference committee for ultimate resolution.

Ward Lambert, Purdue Coach, Given Award

"Doc" Carlson Gets Ovation At Meeting

KANSAS CITY, March 19—(INS)—Ward ("Piggy") Lambert, basketball coach at Purdue University for 28 years, today was declared winner of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association's award for "outstanding service."

The 65-year old veteran retired in 1944 after winning or tying for the conference title 14 times. His last winning team was in 1940.

As is customary, retiring president Eddie Hickey of St. Louis University was given the Newton S. Hillyard Memorial award at today's luncheon of the National Association of Basketball Coaches' Convention.

Hickey said the coaches voted today to recommend to the rules committee, which meets Sunday, a return to the two 20-minute halves, instead of the present four 10-minute quarters, in an effort to reduce stalling near the end of periods.

Dr. H. C. Carlson of Pittsburgh University received a standing ovation when he climaxed his talk to the coaches by throwing the rule book out into his audience and declaring: "Let's get away from the illusion that basketball is a non-contact sport."

The veteran of 31 years as coach at Pittsburgh has retired but remains on the faculty as health director.

Cleveland Beats New York Giants

Indians Snap 5-Game Losing Streak, 2-1

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 19 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians nipped the New York Giants, 2-1, today to end a five-game losing streak. For the Giants, the loss snapped a five-game winning skein.

Outfielder Dale Mitchell drove home the first Cleveland run in the fourth with a single to break a scoreless tie. In the fifth, a single by Al Rosen, the American Leagues most valuable player, fetched across the second run.

The Giants were blanked until the ninth when two singles, a walk and a fielder's choice produced their lone tally.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19 (AP)—A pair of unearned runs off reliever Murray Dickson paved the way for the Boston Red Sox to chalk up a 7 to 6 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in a game halted after six innings by rain.

Two errors following Al Van Alstyle's double allowed the Sox to erase a 6-5 deficit.

Boston had jumped to a 3 run lead in the third inning on a two run homer by Karl Olson and a double by Harry Agganis followed by a Floyd Baker single.

Philadelphia bounced back for six runs against Mel Parnell in the fourth inning as 10 batters went to the plate.

Capitol Handicap To Feature Laurel Opening Day Card

LAUREL, Md., March 19 (AP)—Even with allowances for being a female, Cerise Reine, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, will have the heaviest burden to bear in tomorrow's Capitol Handicap on Laurel's spring opening program.

The 4-year-old filly rates a five-pound allowance because of her sex. But Cerise Reine's 118 pounds still is the most among the 13 horses entered for the three quarter of a mile sprint. Her stablemate, Mr. Paradise, goes at 11 pounds lighter.

There are 19 days of racing scheduled this spring at Laurel to be followed by meetings at Bowie and Pimlico, the other two mile tracks in Maryland.

The weather forecast is for showers tonight and tomorrow. A muddy track would enhance the victory outlook for Cerise Reine who has showed a liking for the slop.

All-States League Will Meet Sunday

A meeting of the All-States Baseball Association will be held at the Frostburg American Legion Home Sunday at 2 p. m.

Representatives of all teams holding franchises and others interested in landing a berth in the league are urged to attend this session.

Johnny Sain Comes Out Of Retirement To Join Yankees

Veteran Hurler Goes To Club's Training Camp

Champs' Relief Ace Of 1953 Is Given Increase In Salary

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19 (AP)—The New York Yankees' repeated efforts to get Johnny Sain out of retirement paid off today when the veteran righthander reported to the club's spring training base here.

After traveling from his home at Walnut Ridge, Ark., by automobile, Sain telephoned General Manager George Weiss upon his arrival. He plans to work out tomorrow with rookies and injured players left behind while most of the team is in Miami for the Yankee-Brooklyn series.

Johnny Gets Increase

Sain previously had indicated that he would devote all of his time to a newly acquired automobile agency. The yankees reportedly gave him an increase of $8,000 to $30,000, over last season.

Sain's return adds a much-needed, experienced righthander to the Yankees' mound corps, which had been hard hit by the sale of Vic Raschi to the St. Louis Cardinals and the retirement of Ewell Blackwell with a sore arm.

The Yankees, who have been suffering repeated reverses in spring games, were elated over the news.

Catcher Yogi Berra beamed "good, good," when told Sain was returning to the team.

Johnny came to the Yankees from the National League Braves on Aug. 29, 1951. He won two games in the club's late season drive for the flag.

The curve-balling righthander compiled an 11-6 record in 1952 as the Bombers made it four pennants in a row under Manager Casey Stengel. As a starter and reliefer last year, he got into 40 games and finished with an earned run average of 3.00.

Bolsters Flag Chances

The Yankees had been priming rookie Mel Wright, up from Kansas City, to take over Sain's relief chores, but the youngster only had been moderately effective. With the experienced Sain back, it bolsters considerably the Yankees' chances of gaining their sixth consecutive American League pennant.

Clout Four Homers, Bobby Shantz Wins

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics hit four home runs off rookie Ben Johnson today to defeat the Milwaukee Braves, 10-6, in their exhibition baseball game here.

The American Leaguers started with a four run splurge after two were out in the first when Vic Power and Gus Zernial hit consecutive homers, Don Bollweg doubled and Bill Renna hit another home run off Johnson.

Bobby Shantz, the A's ace lefthander who was ailing last season, allowed one run on two hits in the five innings he worked. He struck out five and walked three.

NEW YORK, March 19 (INS)—Native Dancer is back on the job. Unebaten horse of the year at two, champion of the division at three last year, the big gray son of Polynesian is all set to start his four year old campaign.

Reports from Alf Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm in Maryland say the colt's injured hoof which put him on the shelf late last season has healed and he has been in light training.

That's good news for all of us two buck punters although we never make a dime on him because his odds are too short. But we all love to see him turn it on in the stretch.

The Dancer can become the second millionaire nag if he can rack up another half million or so. As you know, Citation is the only horse ever to win the magic million.

That may be of more interest to owner Vanderbilt and Jockey Eric Guerin than it is to us. But we will be deeply interested in watching him run for the triple crown of the handicap division.

The Metropolitan, Suburban and Brooklyn comprise the handicap triple and the records indicate it is far more difficult to win this one than it is for a three year old to take the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Seven horses have won the three year old triple but only two have won the handicap triple. Whiskbroom II won the Met, Suburban and Brooklyn in 1913 and Tom Fool did likewise last year. That spread of 41 years indicates the difficulty of the feat.

Many great horses have tried and failed, usually because they were asked to concede too much weight in the handicaps.

Last year Tom Fool was asked to pick up 130 in the Met and came through with flying colors. He was assigned 128 for the nine furlongs of the Suburban and once more proved his class. Then came the Brooklyn at a mile and a quarter and the handicapper put a staggering 136 on his back and once again he came through as a champion should.

Can Native Dancer duplicate that feat?

Three year olds carry level weights of 126 pounds in the Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

But in the handicap division he may be asked to concede anywhere from 20 to 30 pounds to other horses.

The handicapper surely will put a heavy package on The Dancer and it will grow heavier with each victory.

However, The Dancer is a big powerful horse and weight shouldn't bother him too much.

As we see it, the question isn't how much The Dancer is asked to carry but how little his rivals carry?

After all, the object of a handicap is to distribute the weights so as to bring them all together at the wire. That being so, you may expect to see The Dancer giving away 30 pounds or more to some pretty fair stakes horses.

If he is sound, he may do it and if he succeeds he will have earned a spot among the all time greats of the turf.

Maryland Stickmen Open With Generals

COLLEGE PARK, March 19 (AP)—Coaches Jack Faber and Al Heagy, who've had a lot of experience doing it, field another University of Maryland lacrosse team with an uncertain outlook tomorrow.

The team opening with Washington and Lee will be the 25th coached by Faber and the 21st by Heagy at their alma mater.

The uncertainty is at goal and defense. Sophomore Sal Cavallaro is new at goal and three of last year's reserves are on defense.

The midfield and attack positions are filled with veterans of last year's team that won seven out of 10 games.

Veteran Bob Rush started for the Cubs and immediately got in the hole, giving up four runs in the first inning on a single by Bob Young, two walks and Vern Stephens' homer. However, he held the Orioles scoreless for the next four frames.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Key to the possible pennant success of the Phillies this year (third in 1953) may well be wrapped up in one package, the infield.

Stout Stephen Francis O'Neill, who seems to be getting stouter as he leads his charges in training here, accents the infield problem as he diagnoses his 1954 club, at this stage, "about the same as last year."

It's the left side of the infield that may be the question mark for Ted Kazanski, shortstop, has been briefed by the Army and may go anytime. At third, Willie Jones, who has had some fine years with the Phils, is attempting to prove that his .225 batting average last year was just what he says it was "a question of trying to reach the fences" instead of just rapping 'em wher they ain't.

"What we need," says Stout Steve, "is a good major league infielder." Word here is that the Phils also would have liked to have obtained Danny O'Connell, the Pirate star who went to the Braves in a deal reported to have called for $200,000.

STEVE is thin on infielders and already is working two youngsters, Bob Micelotta, from Terra Haute, at short and Ben Tompkins, also from Terra Haute, at second. Micelotta hit .297 for the B league club and Tompkins, who was playing his first year of pro ball last season at Terre Haute, had a .316 average.

Granny Hamner, the veteran who suffered all winter with asthma, is playing second but the only other infielder on the roster is the first baseman, Earl Torgeson.

Outside of the infeld, the Phils stack up in pretty good shape, probably as well as any team in the league.

The pitching is very good and there is power and class in the outfield. The catching is headed by Smoky Burgess, who did well last season, rapping the ball for a 292 average in 102 games.

Other catchers on the roster are Stan Lopata, No. 2; Ken Sylvestri and the Pittsburgh addition, Mike Sandlock, who was added only to catch the knuckle-ball pitching of big Johnny Lindell, who came over to the club late last year.

The Phil pitching staff is headed by the one-two punch Robin Roberts, the league's top hurler who balked a bit at signing and Curt Simmons the lefty who may become one of the great ones of baseball. Roberts won 23 and lost 16 last year and Simmons, after an early accident had cut down his activity, came on to win 16 while losing 13.

A third starter probably will be Murry Dickson, the little guy who has been the Pirates' leading twirler for many years. Dickson who had a 10-19 record with the last-place Bucs last season, is a previous 20-game winner in the league.

"He should be a big help to us," says O'Neill about the 160-pound righthander.

Dickson himself told this reporter that "I expect to do a lot better with this club." He said that in all the years he has been in baseball he's never had a sore arm.

The fourth starter will come from a list which includes Steve Rizdik, the promising righthander who had a 9-6 mark last year and pitched winter league ball; Bob Miller, 8-9 last year; Lindell, who was 6-17; Karl Drews, 9-10 and Jim Konstanty, the ex-relief star who had a 14-10 record last year.

SEVERAL of the Philly farm hands have been brought up and the youngsters have looked impressive. On this list are Tom Casagrande, 16-7 with Schenectady; Bob Greenwood, 11-12 with Baltimore; Thornton Kipper, who had 9-1 with Schenectady and then 3-3 with the Phils in the last half of the season; Duke Markell, the Parisian-born righthander who was 11-17 with Syracuse and John Sanford, who was 14-13 with Baltimore.

The outfield has Richie Ashburn an Del Ennis as the leading lights with the third place going to either Mel Clark or John Wyrostek, with the club last year. Ennis smashed 29 home runs for the Phils and drove in 125 to continue his fine record with the club.

Several newcomers are making an impression in the gardens, headed by Clyde Schell, who hit .333 for Schenectady and smashed three hits in the opening training camp game. The others are Stanley Jok, with Baltimore and Stan Palys, who had a fine season with Spokane.

The Phils training base here probably is being used for the last time this year. The city is building a new ball park behind the present base, which has served as the Phils' camp for several years and the Cleveland Indians' base before that.

FORSEEING THE PHILS

PHILADELPHIA — Not much improvement, big problem in infield; pitching very good and outfield has power and speed.

Laurel Obtains Liquor License After Skirmish

Track Will Guard Against Violations

ANNAPOLIS March 19 (AP)—Laurel Race Course will be allowed to dispense beer, wine and liquor at its spring meet which opens tomorrow after a brief skirmish with the Anne Arundel County Liquor Board.

The license was reissued today after a discussion of complaints by Sheriff Joseph W. Alton Jr. that he observed sales to minors last year. He specifically said he saw bartenders at the track sell to young soldiers without even looking up.

Another complaint came from board chairman Albert Clauss, who said he and a board inspector were refused admittance to the track last season while on an inspection tour. "I just went on in," he said. "I told them just 'try to stop me'."

Agreement to reissue the license came after track attorney Eugene Feinblatt outlined precautions he said the track will take to guard against violations this year.

Johnny Sain Comes Out Of Retirement To Join Yankees

Veteran Hurler Goes To Club's Training Camp

Champs' Relief Ace Of 1953 Is Given Increase In Salary

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19 (AP)—The New York Yankees' repeated efforts to get Johnny Sain out of retirement paid off today when the veteran righthander reported to the club's spring training base here.

After traveling from his home at Walnut Ridge, Ark., by automobile, Sain telephoned General Manager George Weiss upon his arrival. He plans to work out tomorrow with rookies and injured players left behind while most of the team is in Miami for the Yankee-Brooklyn series.

Johnny Gets Increase

Sain previously had indicated that he would devote all of his time to a newly acquired automobile agency. The yankees reportedly gave him an increase of $8,000 to $30,000, over last season.

Sain's return adds a much-needed, experienced righthander to the Yankees' mound corps, which had been hard hit by the sale of Vic Raschi to the St. Louis Cardinals and the retirement of Ewell Blackwell with a sore arm.

The Yankees, who have been suffering repeated reverses in spring games, were elated over the news.

Catcher Yogi Berra beamed "good, good," when told Sain was returning to the team.

Johnny came to the Yankees from the National League Braves on Aug. 29, 1951. He won two games in the club's late season drive for the flag.

The curve-balling righthander compiled an 11-6 record in 1952 as the Bombers made it four pennants in a row under Manager Casey Stengel. As a starter and reliefer last year, he got into 40 games and finished with an earned run average of 3.00.

Bolsters Flag Chances

The Yankees had been priming rookie Mel Wright, up from Kansas City, to take over Sain's relief chores, but the youngster only had been moderately effective. With the experienced Sain back, it bolsters considerably the Yankees' chances of gaining their sixth consecutive American League pennant.

Clout Four Homers, Bobby Shantz Wins

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics hit four home runs off rookie Ben Johnson today to defeat the Milwaukee Braves, 10-6, in their exhibition baseball game here.

The American Leaguers started with a four run splurge after two were out in the first when Vic Power and Gus Zernial hit consecutive homers. Don Bollweg doubled and Bill Renna hit another home run off Johnson.

Bobby Shantz, the A's ace lefthander who was ailing last season, allowed one run on two hits in the five innings he worked. He struck out five and walked three.

NEW YORK, March 19 (INS)—Native Dancer is back on the job. Unebaten horse of the year at two, champion of the division at three last year, the big gray son of Polynesian is all set to start his four year old campaign.

Reports from Alf Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm in Maryland say the colt's injured hoof which put him on the shelf late last season has healed and he has been in light training.

That's good news for all of us two buck punters although we never make a dime on him because his odds are too short. But we all love to see him turn it on in the stretch.

The Dancer can become the second millionaire nag if he can rack up another half million or so. As you know, Citation is the only horse ever to win the magic million.

That may be of more interest to owner Vanderbilt and Jockey Eric Guerin than it is to us. But we will be deeply interested in watching him run for the triple crown of the handicap division.

The Metropolitan, Suburban and Brooklyn comprise the handicap triple and the records indicate it is far more difficult to win this one than it is for a three year old to take the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Seven horses have won the three year old triple but only two have won the handicap triple. Whiskbroom II won the Met, Suburban and Brooklyn in 1913 and Tom Fool did likewise last year. That spread of 41 years indicates the difficulty of the feat.

Many great horses have tried and failed, usually because they were asked to concede too much weight in the handicaps.

Last year Tom Fool was asked to pick up 130 in the Met and came through with flying colors. He was assigned 128 for the nine furlongs of the Suburban and once more proved his class. Then came the Brooklyn at a mile and a quarter and the handicapper put a staggering 136 on his back and once again he came through as a champion should.

Can Native Dancer duplicate that feat?

Three year olds carry level weights of 126 pounds in the Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

But in the handicap division he may be asked to concede anywhere from 20 to 30 pounds to other horses.

The handicapper surely will put a heavy package on The Dancer and it will grow heavier with each victory.

However, The Dancer is a big powerful horse and weight shouldn't bother him too much.

As we see it, the question isn't how much The Dancer is asked to carry but how little his rivals carry?

After all, the object of a handicap is to distribute the weights so as to bring them all together at the wire. That being so, you may expect to see The Dancer giving away 30 pounds or more to some pretty fair stakes horses.

If he is sound, he may do it and if he succeeds he will have earned a spot among the all time greats of the turf.

Maryland Stickmen Open With Generals

COLLEGE PARK, March 19 (AP)—Coaches Jack Faber and Al Heagy, who've had a lot of experience doing it, field another University of Maryland lacrosse team with an uncertain outlook tomorrow.

The team opening with Washington and Lee will be the 25th coached by Faber and the 21st by Heagy at their alma mater.

The uncertainty is at goal and defense. Sophomore Sal Cavallaro is new at goal and three of last year's reserves are on defense.

Fondy, Banks Each Smack Two Homers

MESA, Ariz., March 19 (AP)—Ernie Banks and Dee Fondy each hit two home runs today as the Chicago Cubs exploded out of the exhibition-season doldrums with a 13-8 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Rookie Bob Talbot also hit a roundtripper for the Cubs, who collected a total of 18 hits off Oriole starter Lou Kretlow and two successors.

Veteran Bob Rush started for the Cubs and immediately got in the hole, giving up four runs in the first inning on a single by Bob Young, two walks and Vern Stephens' homer. However, he held the Orioles scoreless for the next four frames.

The Senators had lost everyone of their nine previous outings.

Pennsy Ring Solons Postpone Showdown

PHILADELPHIA, March 19 (AP)—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission has postponed its showdown with the National Boxing Assn. until the NBA's May meeting in Detroit.

The Pennsylvania commission has threatened to bolt the NBA unless that organization uses its strength to prevent what the Pennsylvania group described as boxing evils.

Chairman Frank Wiener of the Pennsylvania commission said the NBA had asked his group to withdraw the 60-day withdrawal ultimatum it issued Jan. 26 and wait until the NBA gets together to talk things over. Wiener said he had agreed.

The robbers made off with an envelope they thought contained theater funds. The actual contents: souvenir schedules of New York's three major league baseball teams.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Key to the possible pennant success of the Phillies this year (third in 1953) may well be wrapped up in one package, the infield.

Stout Stephen Francis O'Neill, who seems to be getting stouter as he leads his charges in training here, accents the infield problem as he diagnoses his 1954 club, at this stage, "about the same as last year."

It's the left side of the infield that may be the question mark for Ted Kazanski, shortstop, has been briefed by the Army and may go anytime. At third, Willie Jones, who has had some fine years with the Phils, is attempting to prove that his .225 batting average last year was just what he says it was "a question of trying to reach the fences" instead of just rapping 'em wher they ain't.

"What we need," says Stout Steve, "is a good major league infielder." Word here is that the Phils also would have liked to have obtained Danny O'Connell, the Pirate star who went to the Braves in a deal reported to have called for $200,000.

STEVE is thin on infielders and already is working two youngsters, Bob Micelotta, from Terra Haute, at short and Ben Tompkins, also from Terra Haute, at second. Micelotta hit .297 for the B league club and Tompkins, who was playing his first year of pro ball last season at Terre Haute, had a .316 average.

Granny Hamner, the veteran who suffered all winter with asthma, is playing second but the only other infielder on the roster is the first baseman, Earl Torgeson.

Outside of the infeld, the Phils stack up in pretty good shape, probably as well as any team in the league.

The pitching is very good and there is power and class in the outfield. The catching is headed by Smoky Burgess, who did well last season, rapping the ball for a 292 average in 102 games.

Other catchers on the roster are Stan Lopata, No. 2; Ken Sylvestri and the Pittsburgh addition, Mike Sandlock, who was added only to catch the knuckle-ball pitching of big Johnny Lindell, who came over to the club late last year.

The Phil pitching staff is headed by the one-two punch Robin Roberts, the league's top hurler who balked a bit at signing and Curt Simmons the lefty who may become one of the great ones of baseball. Roberts won 23 and lost 16 last year and Simmons, after an early accident had cut down his activity, came on to win 16 while losing 13.

A third starter probably will be Murry Dickson, the little guy who has been the Pirates' leading twirler for many years. Dickson who had a 10-19 record with the last-place Bucs last season, is a previous 20-game winner in the league.

"He should be a big help to us," says O'Neill about the 160-pound righthander.

Dickson himself told this reporter that "I expect to do a lot better with this club." He said that in all the years he has been in baseball he's never had a sore arm.

The fourth starter will come from a list which includes Steve Rizdik, the promising righthander who had a 9-6 mark last year and pitched winter league ball; Bob Miller, 8-9 last year; Lindell, who was 6-17; Karl Drews, 9-10 and Jim Konstanty, the ex-relief star who had a 14-10 record last year.

SEVERAL of the Philly farm hands have been brought up and [illegible] youngsters have looked impressive. On this list are Tom Casagrande, 16-7 with Schenectady; Bob Greenwood, 11-12 with Baltimore; Thornton Kipper, who had 9-1 with Schenectady and then 3-3 with the Phils in the last half of the season; Duke Markell, the Parisian-born righthander who was 11-17 with Syracuse and John Sanford, who was 14-13 with Baltimore.

The outfield has Richie Ashburn an Del Ennis as the leading lights with the third place going to either Mel Clark or John Wyrostek, with the club last year. Ennis smashed 29 home runs for the Phils and drove in 125 to continue his fine record with the club.

Several newcomers are making an impression in the gardens, headed by Clyde Schell, who hit .333 for Schenectady and smashed three hits in the opening training camp game. The others are Stanley Jok, with Baltimore and Stan Palys, who had a fine season with Spokane.

The Phils training base here probably is being used for the last time this year. The city is building a new ball park behind the present base, which has served as the Phils' camp for several years and the Cleveland Indians' base before that.

FORSEEING THE PHILS

PHILADELPHIA — Not much improvement, big problem in infield; pitching very good and outfield has power and speed.

Laurel Obtains Liquor License After Skirmish

Track Will Guard Against Violations

ANNAPOLIS March 19 (AP)—Laurel Race Course will be allowed to dispense beer, wine and liquor at its spring meet which opens tomorrow after a brief skirmish with the Anne Arundel County Liquor Board.

The license was reissued today after a discussion of complaints by Sheriff Joseph W. Alton Jr. that he observed sales to minors last year. He specifically said he saw bartenders at the track sell to young soldiers without even looking up.

Another complaint came from board chairman Albert Clauss, who said he and a board inspector were refused admittance to the track last season while on an inspection tour. "I just went on in," he said. "I told them just 'try to stop me'."

Agreement to reissue the license came after track attorney Eugene Feinblatt outlined precautions he said the track will take to guard against violations this year.

The liquor license is issued to track officials but a concessionable dispenses

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (INS)—Seems as if Ruth Roman always gets an Academy Award winner for her co-star. She draws Brod Crawford in "Case File F.B.I." her latest, and she had Oscar-getters in her four previous films.

There are Gary Cooper in "Blowing Wild," Jimmy Stewart in "Far Country," Van Heflin in "Tanganyika." "Shanghai Story" was directed by Frank Lloyd, who won an award for "Mutiny on the Bounty," and now "Case File F.B.I.", which will be produced by Arthur Gardner and Jules Levy in association with Edward Small.

She's blonde, she's young, and she has the attraction that makes all the male sex whistle when she walks out on the screen. I mean Kim Novak, who made her first appearance in "322 French Street," with Fred MacMurray.

I doubt if Columbia knew what it had until some of the press saw her at a preview of the picture. Now Freddie Kohlmar, who is one of her boosters, is giving her the second lead in Judy Holliday's "Phffft." Kim also plays a dumb blonde, as does the Holliday girl.

Just had a wire from Spike Jones from St. Louis saying that on Saturday he's going to repeat the Liberace number, the one where he had a dwarf play Jimmy McHugh's "I'm in the Mood for Love."

Spike says "Liberace will be in St. Louis, and he requested I repeat the number."

And speaking of Liberace, he has been talking to Universal-International about "The Liberace Story," which would have him playing everything from Bach to boogie. He has been offered a picture in which he would play Liszt, but he much prefers his own story which would give him a wider range of compositions from the classics to modern.

That cute S. Z. "Cuddles" Sakall has written a book and this is the title, believe it or not — "The Story of Cuddles — or — My Life Under Emperor Franz Joseph, Adolph Hitler and the Warner Brothers." Cuddles says his English isn't good enough to write a book in any language other than his native Hungarian, but he had it translated into English and it will soon be available.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Zsa Zsa Gabor expressed concern that she might be mentioned in Barbara Hutton's divorce case. She needn't worry—the Woolworth heiress is too glad to be rid of Porfirio Rubirosa.

Grace Kelly is working at top speed to get through with "Country Girl," and she collapsed on the set. She has to be finished by April 1.

Now June Haver and Fred MacMurray are expected Sunday night. Guess all these reports of a marriage changed their plans.

Suzan Ball and Dick Long were at the sneak preview of "Play Girl." Suzan looked so much better and it won't be long now before she and Dick get married.

Mrs. Robert Young gave a wonderful luncheon for five of Mrs. Louis B. Mayer's closest friends in honor of Lorena's birthday, at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The favors were very cute, all made in honor of the birthday and St. Patrick's Day.

Mrs. Bob Considine planed back to New York Thursday. Now everyone can get more rest. Carmen Considine gave Millie a farewell dinner and it was so nice — just enough people. Timmy, the 10-year-old actor in the family made the cake. Erin assisted her mother in receiving.

Rhonda Fleming joins Jane Russell, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis on the Colgate Comedy Hour Easter Sunday. Della Russell, one of the original quartet, is going to New York and Europe so she had to bow out.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Surplus Food Meeting Set

A meeting will be held next Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Court House to make final plans for the distribution of surplus government food to needy families in Allegany County.

Attending will be E. H. Barry, a representative of the area field director's office of the Food Distribution Division of the Department of Agriculture in New York.

Barry's office makes the final decision on the program as to procedures which must be followed in the distribution of foods.

Others attending will be Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross; Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of the Associated Charities; Captain Daniel Biggs of the Salvation Army, William H. Lemmert, James Orr and James Holmes, members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners; Edward L. Vogleman, supervisor of the Donable Foods Program for the State Department of Budget and Procurement; Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the county commissioners, and J. Walker Chapman, county road supervisor, who will be in direct charge of the distribution.

It is hoped to have the program plans completed at this session in order to get the distribution of food started the first part of April.

Music Supervisors Attend Conference

Two representatives from Allegany County attended a music workshop Thursday conducted by Dr. James E. Spitzna's, state director of instruction, at the State Department of Education headquarters in Baltimore.

They were W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music education in the county public schools, and Dr. Maurice J. Matteson, music professor at Frostburg State Teachers College. County supervisor and music faculty members at the various state teachers colleges attended the all-day affair.

An evaluation of a workshop held last summer at Frostburg State Teachers College featured the meeting.

If you "mentally" hum a fox trot as you walk your steps are sure to take on cadence and rhythm!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"She walks like a melody!" commented a man admiringly as we watched one of the greatest models of all time make her appearance in a recent fashion show.

That's just the way she did walk, too. And it's one of the secrets of glide walking that I want to pass along to you.

I'm sure that you have watched and heard soldiers and sailors marching. You are sure to have heard them sound off with a brisk count to smarten up their march and step out with an even pace.

Lesson VI

In that trick lies a secret that will help make you a walking beauty. Learn to hum as you walk and you will give your motion cadence and rhythm ... an even pacing that will smooth your walk to a floating forward movement. Without such evenness and rhythm, your walking picture is sure to flicker jerkily along like an old-time movie.

When you are hurrying or walking with a definite goal, hum a fox trot. Pick out a tune that has a good strong beat and take each step in the measured time. By so doing, you will never make your beholders aware that hurrying is your goal—they will only be aware of the smooth manner in which you cover the ground!

When you are walking move leisurely, try pacing your walk to waltz time. Walking alone, it is best to actually hum aloud. But on busy streets and in the presence of others, you can "carry the tune in your head" and smooth your gait by never missing in matching your step to the beat.

Do not be discouraged if you cannot immediately master the fluid glide walk of the polished models. It takes a little time to overcome wrong habits that have been grooved through the years. But, consciously practiced, walking in beauty is just what you should be doing in as little as a month's time.

To act as a critic of your progress, watch your reflection in the shop windows as you walk along the street. You can quickly detect any flaws in your walking picture just by the bobbing and jerking action. When you detect such, stop! Review the principles you have learned in this column and you will be able to then step out and along again fluidly and smoothly confident in your grace!

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS)—Our friend Mrs. Anny Haller, a naturalized citizen of this country, was watching a documentary picture I was showing the kids about a great recent achievement of American know-how — the location and exploration of natural gas in the rugged mountains of Eastern Utah, Western Colorado and Northern New Mexico.

"I see nothing in the newspapers or on television about this example of what a great nation we are," she said, watching the incredible war between the men and machines of the Three States Natural Gas Co. and a hostile and reluctant nature.

"All I seem to read and hear is about Sen. McCarthy and his arguments," Mrs. Haller continued. "Is there not some way we can also tell the people where I came from and through the world that we can do more than argue and call names? Is there not some way we could tell them about what we are now seeing?"

Maybe. But it's not easy. Our friends in journalism overseas are adamantly opposed to printing (a) much news about what goes on in the U.S. and (b) only the news of violence, sex and of a shoddy sort, when they do. A McCarthy wrangle, the latest fiasco in the godless life of a society tramp, can hit a foreign front page a thousand times quicker than something as substantial as the development of a gas field that could have a striking bearing on the future of the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast states.

The gas strikes in Utah, Colorado and New Mexico were achieved in all but inaccessible areas, often at elevations of 10,000 feet and on slopes that fall dizzily away to the 78 degree dip above Eastern Utah's Wasatch Plateau. The pipelines fan out like fingers groping for the states of the western slope.

Geologists have known for years that huge gas reserves undoubtedly lay beneath the forbidding wall of the Rockies. Economical development was something else. A Lowell, Mass., lawyer named John A. McGuire was the driving force that made this one come true, and it's a dream that will outstrip the heady dream of the Comstock Lode that reached fruition.

McGuire and his group cleared 54 miles of mountain roads sometimes less than 12 degrees from vertical. Avalanches, flash floods, expensive equipment lost, erection of rigs, purchase of the million items that go to make up habitation in the wild and the incessant battle against the furies of nature put the group millions of dollars in the hole before the first strike.

In 1952 McGuire was offered close to $10,000,000 for a half interest in the group's immense holdings. He was sorely tempted, for it would have gotten them out. He had a well at the time where the drilling had reached a point only a few hundred feet from the pay zone, if any. He was in this predicament: If he sold and the well became a great producer, he would have been damned by those he had brought into the deal. If he did not sell, and drew a dry hole, his name would have been doubly damned.

The luck of the Irish held. As he wavered back and forth, the Texas oil man who was to be the purchaser developed a severe toothache and asked for a 24-hour delay before a meeting where a deal very easily could have been made. Exactly one hour and a half before the meeting word reached McGuire from Utah that the well had just blown in for an initial potential twice that previously attained in the field.

"Forty million dollar toothache," grumbled the Texan, probably in the tone of a man who had just lost two bucks on Seabiscuit. He could use that tone. His name is Clint Murchison.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (INS)—Seems as if Ruth Roman always gets an Academy Award winner for her co-star. She draws Brod Crawford in "Case File F.B.I." her latest, and she had Oscar-getters in her four previous films.

There are Gary Cooper in "Blowing Wild," Jimmy Stewart in "Far Country," Van Heflin in "Tanganyika," "Shanghai Story" was directed by Frank Lloyd, who won an award for "Mutiny on the Bounty," and now "Case File F.B.I.", which will be produced by Arthur Gardner and Jules Levy in association with Edward Small.

She's blonde, she's young, and she has the attraction that makes all the male sex whistle when she walks out on the screen. I mean Kim Novak, who made her first appearance in "322 French Street," with Fred MacMurray.

I doubt if Columbia knew what it had until some of the press saw her at a preview of the picture. Now Freddie Kohlmar, who is one of her boosters, is giving her the second lead in Judy Holliday's "Phffft." Kim also plays a dumb blonde, as does the Holliday girl.

Just had a wire from Spike Jones from St. Louis saying that on Saturday he's going to repeat the Liberace number, the one where he had a dwarf play Jimmy McHugh's "I'm in the Mood for Love."

Spike says "Liberace will be in St. Louis, and he requested I repeat the number."

And speaking of Liberace, he has been talking to Universal-International about "The Liberace Story," which would have him playing everything from Bach to boogie. He has been offered a picture in which he would play Liszt, but he much prefers his own story which would give him a wider range of compositions from the classics to modern.

That cute S. Z. "Cuddles" Sakall has written a book and this is the title, believe it or not — "The Story of Cuddles — or — My Life Under Emperor Franz Joseph, Adolph Hitler and the Warner Brothers." Cuddles says his English isn't good enough to write a book in any language other than his native Hungarian, but he had it translated into English and it will soon be available.

Cuddles used to write his own material and plays in Europe before the war. He's quite a character, and at the sneak preview of "Student Prince" brought down the house with his comedy.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Zsa Zsa Gabor expressed concern that she might be mentioned in Barbara Hutton's divorce case. She needn't worry—the Woolworth heiress is too glad to be rid of Porfirio Rubirosa.

Grace Kelly is working at top speed to get through with "Country Girl," and she collapsed on the set. She has to be finished by April 1.

Now June Haver and Fred MacMurray are expected Sunday night. Guess all these reports of a marriage changed their plans.

Suzan Ball and Dick Long were at the sneak preview of "Play Girl." Suzan looked so much better and it won't be long now before she and Dick get married.

Mrs. Robert Young gave a wonderful luncheon for five of Mrs. Louis B. Mayer's closest friends in honor of Lorena's birthday, at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The favors were very cute, all made in honor of the birthday and St. Patrick's Day.

Mrs. Bob Considine planed back to New York Thursday. Now everyone can get more rest. Carmen Considine gave Millie a farewell dinner and it was so nice — just enough people. Timmy, the 10-year-old actor in the family made the cake. Erin assisted her mother in receiving.

Rhonda Fleming joins Jane Russell, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis on the Colgate Comedy Hour Easter Sunday. Della Russell, one of the original quartet, is going to New York and Europe so she had to bow out.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Surplus Food Meeting Set

A meeting will be held next Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Court House to make final plans for the distribution of surplus government food to needy families in Allegany County.

Attending will be E. H. Barry, a representative of the area field director's office of the Food Distribution Division of the Department of Agriculture in New York.

Barry's office makes the final decision on the program as to procedures which must be followed in the distribution of foods.

Others attending will be Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross; Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of the Associated Charities; Captain Daniel Biggs of the Salvation Army, William H. Lemmert, James Orr and James Holmes, members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners; Edward L. Vogleman, supervisor of the Donable Foods Program for the State Department of Budget and Procurement; Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the county commissioners, and J. Walker Chapman, county road supervisor, who will be in direct charge of the distribution.

It is hoped to have the program plans completed at this session in order to get the distribution of food started the first part of April.

Music Supervisors Attend Conference

Two representatives from Allegany County attended a music workshop Thursday conducted by Dr. James E. Spitzna's, state director of instruction, at the State Department of Education headquarters in Baltimore.

They were W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music education in the county public schools, and Dr. Maurice J. Matteson, music professor at Frostburg State Teachers College. County supervisor and music faculty members at the various state teachers colleges attended the all-day affair.

An evaluation of a workshop held last summer at Frostburg State Teachers College featured the meeting.

If you "mentally" hum a fox trot as you walk your steps are sure to take on cadence and rhythm!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"She walks like a melody!" commented a man admiringly as we watched one of the greatest models of all time make her appearance in a recent fashion show.

That's just the way she did walk, too. And it's one of the secrets of glide walking that I want to pass along to you.

I'm sure that you have watched and heard soldiers and sailors marching. You are sure to have heard them sound off with a brisk count to smarten up their march and step out with an even pace.

Lesson VI

In that trick lies a secret that will help make you a walking beauty. Learn to hum as you walk and you will give your motion cadence and rhythm ... an even pacing that will smooth your walk to a floating forward movement. Without such evenness and rhythm, your walking picture is sure to flicker jerkily along like an old-time movie.

When you are hurrying or walking with a definite goal, hum a fox trot. Pick out a tune that has a good strong beat and take each step in the measured time. By so doing, you will never make your beholders aware that hurrying is your goal—they will only be aware of the smooth manner in which you cover the ground!

When you are walking move leisurely, try pacing your walk to waltz time. Walking alone, it is best to actually hum aloud. But on busy streets and in the presence of others, you can "carry the tune in your head" and smooth your gait by never missing in matching your step to the beat.

Do not be discouraged if you cannot immediately master the fluid glide walk of the polished models. It takes a little time to overcome wrong habits that have been grooved through the years. But, consciously practiced, walking in beauty is just what you should be doing in as little as a month's time.

To act as a critic of your progress, watch your reflection in the shop windows as you walk along the street. You can quickly detect any flaws in your walking picture just by the bobbing and jerking action. When you detect such, stop! Review the principles you have learned in this column and you will be able to then step out and along again fluidly and smoothly confident in your grace!

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Letter From Korea

Just got a letter from my Korean correspondent, Matt Melko, and I'm terribly pleased to report that he has risen from private to private first class. "I didn't get it by going to school or direct commission or anything like that either. I worked my way up through the ranks."

John Crosby

And he goes on to say: "In your business you probably have to sit around and listen to old-timers reminisce about how much better or tougher things used to be. Somebody named Dempsey supposedly could have beaten Joe Louis and somebody else named Clara Bow is supposed to have more of whatever it is than Marilyn. Boring stuff.

"But over here it's different. You have a lot of hills that look like a lot of other hills, a tent, and a potbellied stove. We do have a radio, it's true, and I have a one-eighth interest in it which entitles me to listen to one inning of a ballgame each day. But to hear a ball game, with the time difference, you have to get up at 3 a. m. and to an American League fan 3 a. m. doesn't seem like a reasonable hour. For Brooklyn fans and Giant fans, I realize, it wouldn't seem so unusual.

"But no one can listen to the radio all the time so we sit around the stove and talk. (This is likely to happen to any sizeable group if no television set is present.) And since you can say all there is to be said about Korea while one washpan full of water is heating up, we end up by talking about how things used to be. That is to say, we reminisce. Have you ever heard young-timers reminisce?

"One night in the I & R tent, Matthews and Hiller and Hound Dog Thomas got talking about the good old days in radio. There was the Lone Ranger, for instance. Now there was a guy who always flubbed his opportunity. He had come into town, driven out the rustlers, saved Miss Jean's blind father from being lynched, and when Miss Jean looked around to reward him, he was heard to be riding off in the distance with a hearty "Hi-yo Silver!"

"Father—the masked man who saved us, where did he go?"

"He's gone, my child. He never waits for thanks."

"But who—who was he?"

"He is known, my child, (hushed pause) as the Lone Ranger."

(From a distance) "Hi-yo Silver!" and the swelling of William Tell Overture. Even now I get goose pimples thinking of it.

"There were other programs we used to listen to. There was The Green Hornet with his faithful Japanese valet Kato, who overnight after Pearl Harbor, became a faithful Philipino valet. And poor Jack Armstrong the all American boy, who never could seem to get through Hudson High School. I got through high school before he did and he had an eight-year head start on me.

"There were Amos 'n' Andy way back when they had a fifteen-minute daily program for Pepsodent. You didn't listen much yourself but your folks did and everybody else's folks must have, too. There wasn't one among us who wasn't familiar with the phrase 'Buzz me, Miss Blue.'

"And finally, when all the kids' programs have been laid in mothballs, it will be discovered there are two Henry Morgan fans in the crowd. Old Henry Morgan fans. Not Henry Morgan fans who remember way back when Morgan was doing a half hour show with Arnold Stang but those who remember back before then, when Henry Morgan was doing his fifteen minute monologue opposite Lowell Thomas — 'Anyone who's listening to Lowell Thomas is a rotten egg. Hello, anyone.' (Editor's note: I remember way, way, way back when Morgan was on at 10 in the morning).

"And then somebody would tell how he came on for Bromo Quinine Four Way Cold Tablets with such a bad cold that he kept interrupting himself to sneeze. Or how he pointed out that the hole in Life Savers were really cheating you out of candy. Or how he forgot that he had commercials and played them all together at the end of the program.

"The late '30s and early '40s. The turn of the decade. Those really were the days for radio programs, weren't they?

"By-y cracky!

"Sincerely,

MATT MELKO

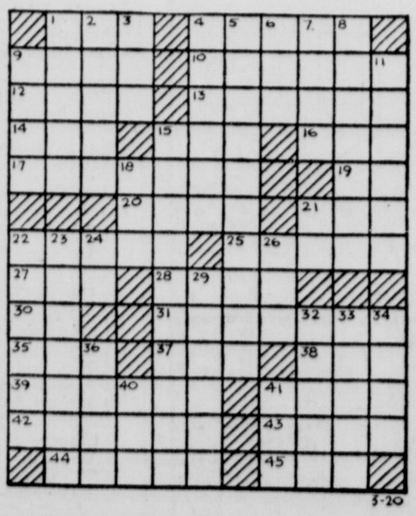
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J N L G L Q L G Q W R D B G C G B L V H P D B S T, C G B L Y D T L H C A J V R R C N L G L W X D B S T —M V R X L G C.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NOTHING IS SO GOOD AS IT SEEMS BEFOREHAND—EDWARDS.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Letter From Korea

Just got a letter from my Korean correspondent, Matt Melko, and I'm terribly pleased to report that he has risen from private to private first class. "I didn't get it by going to school or direct commission or anything like that either. I worked my way up through the ranks."

John Crosby

And he goes on to say: "In your business you probably have to sit around and listen to old-timers reminisce about how much better or tougher things used to be. Somebody named Dempsey supposedly could have beaten Joe Louis and somebody else named Clara Bow is supposed to have more of whatever it is than Marilyn. Boring stuff.

"But over here it's different. You have a lot of hills that look like a lot of other hills, a tent, and a potbellied stove. We do have a radio, it's true, and I have a one-eighth interest in it which entitles me to listen to one inning of a ballgame each day. But to hear a ball game, with the time difference, you have to get up at 3 a. m. and to an American League fan 3 a. m. doesn't seem like a reasonable hour. For Brooklyn fans and Giant fans, I realize, it wouldn't seem so unusual.

"But no one can listen to the radio all the time so we sit around the stove and talk. (This is likely to happen to any sizeable group if no television set is present.) And since you can say all there is to be said about Korea while one washpan full of water is heating up, we end up by talking about how things used to be. That is to say, we reminisce. Have you ever heard young-timers reminisce?

"One night in the I & R tent, Matthews and Hiller and Hound Dog Thomas got talking about the good old days in radio. There was the Lone Ranger, for instance. Now there was a guy who always flubbed his opportunity. He had come into town, driven out the rustlers, saved Miss Jean's blind father from being lynched, and when Miss Jean looked around to reward him, he was heard to be riding off in the distance with a hearty "Hi-yo Silver!"

"Father—the masked man who saved us, where did he go?"

"He's gone, my child. He never waits for thanks."

"But who—who was he?"

"He is known, my child, (hushed pause) as the Lone Ranger."

(From a distance) "Hi-yo Silver!" and the swelling of William Tell Overture. Even now I get goose pimples thinking of it.

"There were other programs we used to listen to. There was The Green Hornet with his faithful Japanese valet Kato, who overnight after Pearl Harbor, became a faithful Philipino valet. And poor Jack Armstrong the all American boy, who never could seem to get through Hudson High School. I got through high school before he did and he had an eight-year head start on me.

"There were Amos 'n' Andy way back when they had a fifteen-minute daily program for Pepsodent. You didn't listen much yourself but your folks did and everybody else's folks must have, too. There wasn't one among us who wasn't familiar with the phrase 'Buzz me, Miss Blue.'

"And finally, when all the kids' programs have been laid in mothballs, it will be discovered there are two Henry Morgan fans in the crowd. Old Henry Morgan fans. Not Henry Morgan fans who remember way back when Morgan was doing a half hour show with Arnold Stang but those who remember back before then, when Henry Morgan was doing his fifteen minute monologue opposite Lowell Thomas — 'Anyone who's listening to Lowell Thomas is a rotten egg. Hello, anyone.' (Editor's note: I remember way, way, way back when Morgan was on at 10 in the morning).

"And then somebody would tell how he came on for Bromo Quinine Four Way Cold Tablets with such a bad cold that he kept interrupting himself to sneeze. Or how he pointed out that the hole in Life Savers were really cheating you out of candy. Or how he forgot that he had commercials and played them all together at the end of the program.

"The late '30s and early '40s. The turn of the decade. Those really were the days for radio programs, weren't they?

"By-y cracky!

"Sincerely,

MATT MELKO

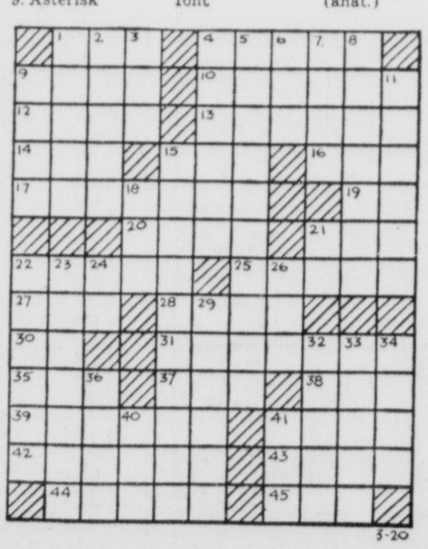
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Moderate Advance Sends Market To New High Level

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — A moderate advance today in the Stock Market sent prices up to a new high level for the year, in spite of late profit-taking and some selling by short-term traders before the weekend.

The gains were well distributed throughout the list, although only a few key issues managed to push past a point.

Today the basis for computing new highs was changed to a 1954 basis from the previous year base. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks yesterday gained 60 cents at $116.40, a level equal to the 1953-54 high mark established exactly a week before. Today the average gained 30 cents at $116.70, a new 1954 high and the best for the average since June 2, 1930.

Trading was brisk at 1,930,000 shares. That compares with 2,020,000 shares traded yesterday.

The best performing major divisions today were the aircrafts, motors, steels, and the railroads until late in the day when their gains faded away.

Consolidated Vultee was the day's most active issue up 7/8 at 24¼ with 47,300 shares traded. It was followed by American Radiator up ¼ at 16⅝, Chrysler up ⅛ at 64⅛, Mullins Mfg. up 1¾ at 26¾, and American Woolen up ¾ at 19⅝.

Among higher stocks were Southern Railway, Seaboard Oil, American Telephone, DuPont, General Electric, General Dynamics, Celanese, Owens Corning Fiberglas, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich, Sperry, Republic Aviation, Radio Corp., and Rohm & Haas (up 11).

Among lower issues were New York Central, Southern Pacific, Consolidated Natural Gas, Boeing, and Montgomery Ward.

Wills Mountain Inn Deed Is Recorded

A deed recording the sale of the Wills Mountain Inn, its furnishings and fixtures, was filed for record Thursday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Charles Z. Heskett, assignee of the mortgage, sold the 46-acre property at public auction January 29 for $15,000 to James A. Perrin, trustee for the use and benefit of the Second National Bank. The deed, dated March 15, notes that the sale has been ratified in Circuit Court.

First mention of windmills in old English documents dates back to the end of the 12th century.

Moderate Advance Sends Market To New High Level

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — A moderate advance today in the Stock Market sent prices up to a new high level for the year, in spite of late profit-taking and some selling by short-term traders before the weekend.

The gains were well distributed throughout the list, although only a few key issues managed to push past a point.

Today the basis for computing new highs was changed to a 1954 basis from the previous year base. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks yesterday gained 60 cents at $116.40, a level equal to the 1953-54 high mark established exactly a week before. Today the average gained 30 cents at $116.70, a new 1954 high and the best for the average since June 2, 1930.

Trading was brisk at 1,930,000 shares. That compares with 2,020,000 shares traded yesterday.

The best performing major divisions today were the aircrafts, motors, steels, and the railroads until late in the day when their gains faded away.

Consolidated Vultee was the day's most active issue up ⅞ at 24¼ with 47,300 shares traded. It was followed by American Radiator up ¼ at 16⅝, Chrysler up ⅛ at 64⅛, Mullins Mfg. up 1¾ at 26¾, and American Woolen up ¾ at 19⅝.

Among higher stocks were Southern Railway, Seaboard Oil, American Telephone, DuPont, General Electric, General Dynamics, Celanese, Owens Corning Fiberglas, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich, Sperry, Republic Aviation, Radio Corp., and Rohm & Haas (up 11).

Among lower issues were New York Central, Southern Pacific, Consolidated Natural Gas, Boeing, and Montgomery Ward.

C&O Canal Hiking Party Will Leave On 185-Mile Trek This Morning

Friends, Foes Of Parkway Plan Air Views

Group Spends Night Here Before Starting On Eight-Day Walk

A Supreme Court Justice and three other lawyers and lawmakers argued the case of the C & O Canal as a shrine of nature lovers vs. the Canal Parkway and the Gasoline Age last night at Cumberland Country Club.

The friendly debate followed a dinner given by the Times & Alleganian Company for Justice William O. Douglas' 35-member hiking party, which leaves today for Washington via the 185-mile canal route.

A last-minute change in plans calls for the party to begin the first leg of the eight-day jaunt at North Branch, some five miles south east of Cumberland, instead of in downtown Cumberland. The party will leave a downtown hotel by automobile for North Branch at 7 a. m. "Rain or shine," the Justice promised.

Justice Douglas, dissenting in his casual way from the opinion that a Parkway should be built along the canal, declared those on both sides of the dispute "have a common objective in mind."

Place Of Interest

That objective, said Douglas, is to preserve the canal area as a place of interest to nature lovers and historians. The question, he said, is how the area is to be opened to the public.

Pointing out that the canal is "one of the prettiest stretches in any part of the world that I have ever visited," Douglas said its proper development would bring "tens of thousands" of tourists into this area.

"Think, of being able to get or a horse at Washington, D. C., and riding all the way to Cumberland, Md., without climbing a hill or crossing a fence."

Commenting that his hiking party is "one to which nobody really was invited, but one in which everybody who is going with us has asked to be included," the Justice quipped:

"That makes it a little larger than the Lewis & Clark Expedition."

Then he invited "the whole crew" attending the dinner which numbered about 50 people.

Beall Toastmaster

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, toastmaster and one of the originators of the C&O Canal Parkway plan, told the group that he hoped the discussion would "bring us all closer to holding the same opinion."

Backing up Beall's point that the Parkway would be for the "convenience of the American people," was William C. Walsh, prominent local attorney and former Attorney General of Maryland.

Walsh said he hoped Justice Douglas could be convinced that a

Douglas Arrives

Douglas Sings Canal Song At Dinner

Learns Folk Tune From Local Judge

Two of the principal reasons for the Douglas Expedition into the Canal Region stood up in their hiking clothes last night at the swank Cumberland Country Club and invited a Circuit Court judge to fill out a trio for them.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, dressed in a tan windbreaker and levis, interrupted an extemporaneous talk after a dinner given in his honor to say he had just learned a new bit of C&O Canal folklore.

The new information, said Douglas, came from Associate Judge George Henderson of Cumberland. Then Douglas asked Robert Estabrook, Washington Post and Times-Herald editorial writer, to join him at the rostrum.

Estabrook, one of two editorial writers whose acceptance of Douglas' challenge to hike the length of the canal brought on the dinner last night and a 185-mile trek which begins today, took his place beside Douglas.

Then Judge Henderson joined them. Arms around one another's shoulders, they tuned up briefly and sang:

"Oh, the old Potomac's rising
And the whisky's running short;

I hardly think we'll get a drink
Till we get to Williamsport—
Till we get to Williamsport.

That, explained Douglas, is an old canal song. It has eight verses. Those who go on the hike, he said, will hear a new verse from him each evening before bedtime.

Voter Registration Progressing Slowly

Registration of new voters for the June 28 state and county primary election is progressing slowly, according to Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, registrars for the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

Only 17 have registered at the board's office in the Court House basement so far this week. Among them were four each Monday and yesterday, three Tuesday and six Wednesday. Registrars will begin touring some 19 county communities to register new voters starting Monday, April 12.

Two Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Frank J. Palumbo vs. Jean Alma Palumbo and Helen Davis vs. Harold W. Davis.

City Prepares Finance Report For Investors

Assessments Exceed $72 Million Mark

A report on the finances of the City of Cumberland has been prepared by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, for investors who desire information on the subject.

Ten copies of the report have already been forwarded to investment firms as a result of an announcement that the city will sell a $650,000 bond issue on March 30.

Property in the city, the report shows, has an assessed valuation of $72,258,223, as compared to $69,423,990 in 1951-52.

The bonded debt of the city on June 30, 1953, included $3,327,000 of general obligations, and $3,505,000 of water bonds. Included are $1,375,000 of general term bonds — covered by $1,221,745.66 in the sinking fund, and $2,705,000 of term water bonds, for which $1,397,358.61 is included in the sinking fund.

The unfunded debt of the city totaled $77,000 in bank loans, secured by uncollected street and sewer liens.

The 1952-53 tax rate for each $1,000 included .625 of state taxes, $18.20 of county and $12.80 of city taxes for a total of $31.625.

Cash in banks on June 30 totaled $423,676.24.

On operating revenues and expenditures, the report shows, the city spent $1,312,683.25 during the 1952-53 fiscal year, which ended with an excess of revenues over expenditures of $66,852.80.

The Water Department took in $441,342.07 and spent $471,787.89, with $30,445.82 excess expenditures over revenue. The excess was paid from surplus reserves which were held for maintenance and rehabilitation of facilities when materials became available. The surplus left at the end of the year totaled $59,918.78.

Childhood On Canal Boat Recalled By Old Resident

Fond memories of the days when the old C&O Canal was a booming enterprise were recalled last night by Mrs. Rhoda B. Snyder, 93 Henderson Avenue, on the eve of the scheduled start of the much-publicized hike along the canal towpath by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and a delegation of nature lovers.

Mrs. Snyder, who observed her 79th birthday here February 20, said that she lived in a boat on the old canal from the time she was only about two weeks old until her 15th year.

The reason was that her father, John W. Nuse, was one of the early boatmen along the old canal.

"My father hired two different boats, the Julie Tyler and Davis and Armstrong, and the mules to pull them and he hauled George's Creek coal down the canal to Washington for a good many years," Mrs. Snyder recalled.

Her father took up canal boating after returning from the Civil War in 1865. The canal had been in operation since 1850.

"I was the last of five children born to my parents and all five of us lived on the boat year in and year out."

Mrs. Snyder was born in 1875 and she figures her father continued to operate boats as late as 1890 on the canal between Cumberland and Washington.

She wanted to get in touch with some of Justice Douglas' party last night to tell them about pleasant memories.

$2,000 Compromise Settles Damage Suit

A judgment approving a $2,000 compromise settlement of a $3,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court has been signed by Associate Judge George Henderson.

William D. Webb, 1 Utah Avenue, through Attorney Albert A. Doub, filed the suit Wednesday against Archie Walter Lewis of Cresaptown. In his declaration, Webb stated that last December 15 he was struck by Lewis' car on U. S. Route 220. Also filed the same day was an agreement signed by Lewis' attorney, Leslie J. Clark, agreeing to a $2,000 compromise settlement.

Accompanying the agreement was a petition from Clark stating that his client does not have the means or assets to pay the judgment all at once. He asked for permission to pay the amount in $30 monthly installments.

Judge Henderson also signed an order of court instructing Lewis to pay $30 April 1 and the first day of each month thereafter until the obligation is paid.

Spring Season To Make Debut Here Tonight

The spring season for this year will be officially welcomed today at 10:54 p. m. when the phenomena of the vernal equinox occurs.

Today and one other day of the year, with the occurrence of the autumnal equinox, night and day are equal all over the world — 12 hours of light and 12 hours of dark.

This is the day that many people look for all year long. It marks the beginning of the outdoor season with tree pruning, lawn making, etc., on the top agenda.

It is the signal for housewives to begin their spring house cleaning—that period when things about the home are generally in a state of confusion until the dust settles.

The defense is contemplating an appeal for Mrs. Georgie Peer, according to Edward J. Ryan, defense attorney.

Mrs. Peer was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Morris Baron in Trial Magistrates Court Thursday on an assault charge arising from a spitting incident, and was released in custody of Ryan.

Labor Group Asks Kimble To Run Again

A resolution urging State Senator Robert B. Kimble to seek reelection was unanimously adopted last night at a political action meeting in the Rubber Workers Hall, under the sponsorship of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference.

Edwin C. Hoffman, president of the sponsoring body, presided.

The resolution read:

"Whereas State Senator Robert B. Kimble, minority floor leader in the Senate, is an able, honest and efficient legislator, and,

"Whereas, Senator Kimble is dean of Maryland legislators, having a background of 22 years of legislative experience in the Maryland General Assembly, and

"Whereas, Senator Kimble always has championed the general welfare of the working people of Allegany County and has supported Unemployment Compensation, Workmen's Compensation and other legislation in the interest of the laboring people of Allegany County and the State of Maryland, and

"Whereas his knowledge and experience will be a vital aid in the coming year of economic unrest,

"Therefore, be it resolved that organized labor of Allegany County does hereby urge Senator Kimble to continue his political career and announce his candidacy for reelection to the State Senate."

The resolution was endorsed by representatives of the Maryland Labor Unity Conference of 18 locals, the Allegany Trades Council of 22 locals, the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council of six locals and other independent unions.

The Weather

The cold, soaking rain which began to fall here early yesterday afternoon brought another half inch of rain to the Cumberland area by 7:30 p. m., and there were indications the total might reach an inch. Officials said the .58 of rainfall recorded at 7:15 p. m. brought the March total to 4.14 inches, with three inches normal for the month. Yesterday's high temperature was 56, the low 31 and it was 47 at 7:30 p. m. Humidity was 100 per cent during a heavy rain at 6 p. m. Cloudy and mild weather is predicted today.

Red Cross Drive Total To Date Is $21,060.71

Sixty Per Cent Of Quota Raised

Allegany County Red Cross Chapter has raised a total of $21,060.71 in its current fund campaign, C. Walter Haschert Jr., general chairman reported last night.

This is 60 per cent of the total county quota of $35,000, most of which was collected in Cumberland. The county branches have a total goal of $6,000, leaving $29,000 to be raised in the city and suburbs.

Haschert said division leaders are a little more optimistic than they were a few days ago, however, they realize there is much work yet to be done and many more reports to be received.

Check Backs Planned

Yesterday, some of the leaders went back over reports which had been turned in and next week, the task of recalls and check backs to see potential contributors who were missed for one reason or another will begin.

Some sections are lagging behind last year, but it is indicated their workers are completing their areas and most are hopeful of reaching their quotas.

A couple of large firms reported late yesterday and this helped to push the total to date past the $20,000 mark.

At headquarters yesterday, additional names of workers in the Women's Division were released for publication. They include:

Bookmaking Evidence Seized By Authorities

Five members of the Cumberland Police Department yesterday afternoon conducted a well-organized raid at the Queen City Pool Room, 19 North Liberty Street, and seized quite a bit of bookmaking evidence.

Booked at police headquarters at 5:10 p.m. were Frank Melvin Treiber, 948 Bedford Street, and Curtis Masinheimer, Southern Hotel.

The two men are being held for action of the State's Attorneys office. Treiber was released under $1,000 bond while Masinheimer is still in custody at the city lockup.

C&O Canal Hiking Party Will Leave On 185-Mile Trek This Morning

Friends, Foes Of Parkway Plan Air Views

Group Spends Night Here Before Starting On Eight-Day Walk

A Supreme Court Justice and three other lawyers and lawmakers argued the case of the C & O Canal as a shrine of nature lovers vs. the Canal Parkway and the Gasoline Age last night at Cumberland Country Club.

The friendly debate followed a dinner given by the Times & Alleganian Company for Justice William O. Douglas' 35-member hiking party, which leaves today for Washington via the 185-mile canal route.

A last-minute change in plans calls for the party to begin the first leg of the eight-day jaunt at North Branch, some five miles south east of Cumberland, instead of in downtown Cumberland. The party will leave a downtown hotel by automobile for North Branch at 7 a. m. "Rain or shine," the Justice promised.

Justice Douglas, dissenting in his casual way from the opinion that a Parkway should be built along the canal, declared those on both sides of the dispute "have a common objective in mind."

Place Of Interest

That objective, said Douglas, is to preserve the canal area as a place of interest to nature lovers and historians. The question, he said, is how the area is to be opened to the public.

Pointing out that the canal is "one of the prettiest stretches in any part of the world that I have ever visited," Douglas said its proper development would bring "tens of thousands" of tourists into this area.

"Think, of being able to get or a horse at Washington, D. C., and riding all the way to Cumberland, Md., without climbing a hill or crossing a fence."

Commenting that his hiking party is "one to which nobody really was invited, but one in which everybody who is going with us has asked to be included," the Justice quipped:

"That makes it a little larger than the Lewis & Clark Expedition."

Then he invited "the whole crew" attending the dinner which numbered about 50 people.

Beall Toastmaster

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, toastmaster and one of the originators of the C&O Canal Parkway plan, told the group that he hoped the discussion would "bring us all closer to holding the same opinion."

Backing up Beall's point that the Parkway would be for the "convenience of the American people," was William C. Walsh, prominent local attorney and former Attorney General of Maryland.

Walsh said he hoped Justice Douglas could be convinced that a

Estabrook, editorial writer for the Washington Post and Times-Herald; John J. McMullen, publisher of the Cumberland Times-News; Douglas, U. S. Senator J. Douglas Sings Canal Song At Dinner

Learns Folk Tune From Local Judge

Two of the principal reasons for the Douglas Expedition into the Canal Region stood up in their hiking clothes last night at the swank Cumberland Country Club and invited a Circuit Court judge to fill out a trio for them.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, dressed in a tan windbreaker and levis, interrupted an extemporaneous talk after a dinner given in his honor to say he had just learned a new bit of C&O Canal folklore.

The new information, said Douglas, came from Associate Judge George Henderson of Cumberland. Then Douglas asked Robert Estabrook, Washington Post and Times-Herald editorial writer, to join him at the rostrum.

Estabrook, one of two editorial writers whose acceptance of Douglas' challenge to hike the length of the canal brought on the dinner last night and a 185-mile trek which begins today, took his place beside Douglas.

Then Judge Henderson joined them. Arms around one another's shoulders, they tuned up briefly and sang:

"Oh, the old Potomac's rising
And the whisky's running short;

I hardly think we'll get a drink
Till we get to Williamsport—
Till we get to Williamsport.

That, explained Douglas, is an old canal song. It has eight verses. Those who go on the hike, he said, will hear a new verse from him each evening before bedtime.

Voter Registration Progressing Slowly

Registration of new voters for the June 28 state and county primary election is progressing slowly, according to Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, registrars for the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

Only 17 have registered at the board's office in the Court House basement so far this week. Among them were four each Monday and yesterday, three Tuesday and six Wednesday. Registrars will begin touring some 19 county communities to register new voters starting Monday, April 12.

Two Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Frank J. Palumbo vs. Jean Alma Palumbo and Helen Davis vs. Harold W. Davis.

Childhood On Canal Boat Recalled By Old Resident

Fond memories of the days when the old C&O Canal was a booming enterprise were recalled last night by Mrs. Rhoda B. Snyder, 93 Henderson Avenue, on the eve of the scheduled start of the much-publicized hike along the canal towpath by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and a delegation of nature lovers.

Mrs. Snyder, who observed her 79th birthday here February 20, said that she lived in a boat on the old canal from the time she was only about two weeks old until her 15th year.

The reason was that her father, John W. Nuse, was one of the early boatmen along the old canal.

"My father hired two different boats, the Julie Tyler and Davis and Armstrong, and the mules to pull them and he hauled George's Creek coal down the canal to Washington for a good many years," Mrs. Snyder recalled.

Her father took up canal boating after returning from the Civil War in 1865. The canal had been in operation since 1850.

"I was the last of five children born to my parents and all five of us lived on the boat year in and year out."

Mrs. Snyder was born in 1875 and she figures her father continued to operate boats as late as 1890 on the canal between Cumberland and Washington.

She wanted to get in touch with some of Justice Douglas' party last night to tell them about pleasant memories.

$2,000 Compromise Settles Damage Suit

A judgment approving a $2,000 compromise settlement of a $3,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court has been signed by Associate Judge George Henderson.

William D. Webb, 1 Utah Avenue, through Attorney Albert A. Doub, filed the suit Wednesday against Archie Walter Lewis of Cresaptown. In his declaration, Webb stated that last December 15 he was struck by Lewis' car on U. S. Route 220. Also filed the same day was an agreement signed by Lewis' attorney, Leslie J. Clark, agreeing to a $2,000 compromise settlement.

Accompanying the agreement was a petition from Clark stating that his client does not have the means or assets to pay the judgment all at once. He asked for permission to pay the amount in $30 monthly installments.

Judge Henderson also signed an order of court instructing Lewis to pay $30 April 1 and the first day of each month thereafter until the obligation is paid.

Spring Season To Make Debut Here Tonight

The spring season for this year will be officially welcomed today at 10:54 p. m. when the phenomena of the vernal equinox occurs.

This is the day that many people look for all year long. It marks the beginning of the outdoor season with tree pruning, lawn making, etc., on the top agenda.

It is the signal for housewives to begin their spring house cleaning—that period when things about the home are generally in a state of confusion until the dust settles.

City Prepares Finance Report For Investors

Assessments Exceed $72 Million Mark

A report on the finances of the City of Cumberland has been prepared by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, for investors who desire information on the subject.

Ten copies of the report have already been forwarded to investment firms as a result of an announcement that the city will sell a $650,000 bond issue on March 30.

Property in the city, the report shows, has an assessed valuation of $72,258,223, as compared to $69,423,990 in 1951-52.

The bonded debt of the city on June 30, 1953, included $3,327,000 of general obligations, and $3,505,000 of water bonds. Included are $1,375,000 of general term bonds — covered by $1,221,745.66 in the sinking fund, and $2,705,000 of term water bonds, for which $1,397,358.61 is included in the sinking fund.

The unfunded debt of the city totaled $77,000 in bank loans, secured by uncollected street and sewer liens.

The 1952-53 tax rate for each $1,000 included .625 of state taxes, $18.20 of county and $12.80 of city taxes for a total of $31.625.

Cash in banks on June 30 totaled $423,676.24.

On operating revenues and expenditures, the report shows, the city spent $1,312,683.25 during the 1952-53 fiscal year, which ended with an excess of revenues over expenditures of $66,852.80.

The Water Department took in $441,342.07 and spent $471,787.89, with $30,445.82 excess expenditures over revenue. The excess was paid from surplus reserves which were held for maintenance and rehabilitation of facilities when materials became available. The surplus left at the end of the year totaled $59,918.78.

Red Cross Drive Total To Date Is $21,060.71

Sixty Per Cent Of Quota Raised

Allegany County Red Cross Chapter has raised a total of $21,060.71 in its current fund campaign, C. Walter Haschert Jr., general chairman reported last night.

This is 60 per cent of the total county quota of $35,000, most of which was collected in Cumberland. The county branches have a total goal of $6,000, leaving $29,000 to be raised in the city and suburbs.

Haschert said division leaders are a little more optimistic than they were a few days ago, however, they realize there is much work yet to be done and many more reports to be received.

Check Backs Planned

Yesterday, some of the leaders went back over reports which had been turned in and next week, the task of recalls and check backs to see potential contributors who were missed for one reason or another will begin.

Some sections are lagging behind last year, but it is indicated their workers are completing their areas and most are hopeful of reaching their quotas.

A couple of large firms reported late yesterday and this helped to push the total to date past the $20,000 mark.
